Built-In Trigger

Peron Threat Gave Rebels Cue for Coup

BUENOS AIRES Argentina (AP) — The armed forces of Argentina once again in charge of the nation by virtue of their guns, have a built in revolt trig ger

It's called Peronism after ex iled Dictator Juan D Peron

Any time the followers of Per on get too strong the trigger clicks and another government falls

The fear of renewed power for the forces Peron left behind is rooted in memories of his nine year dictatorship and the hold his movement still has on Ar gentina s workers The Peron ists control around three million votes in a voting population of 12 million including most of the trade unions

The military would prefer no Peronist candidate ever gets on any ballot But so long as that ballot is in a remote and lightly populated province such as Neuquen Chaco or Jujuy the military generally rolls with the punch The Peronists control those three provinces

But if the Peronists show signs they can take Buenos Aires Province the trigger begins to move In provincial elections in 1965 it became evi dent that unless President Artu ro Illia s government acquired more strength from some place the Peronists were a shoo in to take over the capital province in the provincial elec tions next March

Machine Like

Buenos Aires Province not only has one third of Argenti na s population It has a great deal of the industry and a 25 000-man provincial police force with guns tear gas and trucks

The military is much like the heart lung machine in open heart surgery

As long as the machine isn t turned on the civilian legisla tive, executive and judicial heart of Argentina pumps along Let the military turn on the re bellion machine and the heart is bypassed The military takes over It has been so since 1955 when the military threw Peron out with violence and bloodshed

As long as the military has the guns its leaders say pri vately Peronists never will have a chance to take power again Since Peronism s appeal comes from the benefits he gave the descamisados Argentina s shirtless ones," and since there still are more backs than shirts the prospect is for more clicks of the revolt trigger

'Lot of Persuasion'

In Madrid where Peron has lived since 1960, a close asso ciate said it probably would take "a lot of persuasion to get Peron to go back to Argentina even if the door was wide open But that door — or so he thinks today has been slammed shut by the generals plot and he seemingly will be happy to con tinue his life here

Peron as the years pass obviously enjoys the life of a country gentleman the asso ciate continued He lives well he eats well he enjoys the life he has in exile

Peron is now 70 and his health declined noticeably after a prostate operation more than two years ago He drives about the Spanish countryside writes reads exercises meets with close friends and Argentine poli ticians who go to Madrid to con sult him

Peron s big push during his

Reds Will Pay More, Defense Chief Claims

McNamara Says Area Contained 60 Per Cent of Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sec retary of Defense Robert S Mc Namara said today U S planes hit Hanoi Haiphong oil depots today to make North Viet Nam s infiltration of the south more costly He portrayed the raids as highly successful

McNamara said every effort was made to prevent harm to civilians and to prevent destruc tion of nonmilitary facilities

He told a broadcast and tele vised news conference the deci sion to strike the petroleum fa cilities was made by President Johnson on his recommendation and that of Secretary of State Dean Rusk

McNamara said the decision to strike these targets was made to restrict and make more cost ly the enemy s infiltration of South Viet Nam

'Save Lives'

Another objective he said was to save the lives of the South Vietnamese Americans Australians and South Koreans fighting in South Viet Nam

The action McNamara said was a response to a swift and rising North Vietnamese build up in South Viet Nam which has converted the fighting there into a quasi conventional war oper ation

That buildup he said has made the North Vietnamese forces and their Viet Cong al lies increasingly dependent on truck movement of heavy sup plies increasing the strategic importance of fuel

McNamara said more than 60 per cent of North Viet Nam s oil storage facilities were in the three target areas hit

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara uses a pointer to locate the oil storage area near Haiphong, struck by U S planes today in new air strikes in North Viet Nam during a Pentagon news con ference (AP Wirephoto)

Major Strikes Blanket Fuel Depots Near Capital, Port; Termed 'Highly Successful'

SAIGON (AP) U S Air Force and Navy jets brought the air war closer than ever to North Viet Nam s capital and major port today bombing major fuel depots three miles from the center of Hanoi and in the dock area of Haiphong

The pilots reported the raids were highly successful with both storage areas in flames Smoke rose 35 000 feet from the complex of fuel tanks near Hanoi and 20 000 feet from the Haiphong tanks a U S spokesman said The Hanoi target was covered like a blanket he added

The U S Air Force announced one plane an F105 Thunderchief fighter bomber fell in the at tack near Hanoi and the pilot was missing This came out af ter a communique of the U S Command had reported no U S aircraft were lost in either strike

Radio Hanoi claimed seven planes were shot down — four near Hanoi and three in the Hai phong area and several U S pilots were captured

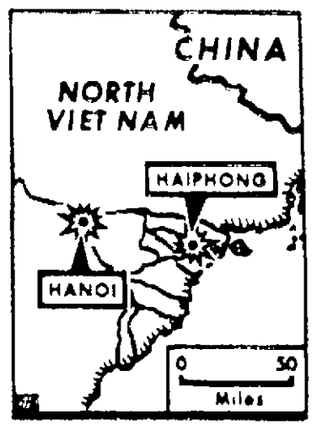
The air offensive in the Com munist north now in its 16th month completely dominated the U S Command s daily war report

In South Viet Nam where thousands of U S troops are in the field searching for the Com munists only very light and scattered minor contacts were reported

On the political front the threat of a Buddhist boycott of South Viet Nam s September elections diminished as more monks rallied behind the con ciliatory policy espoused by the moderate chairman of the Buddhist Institute

The growing support in the Buddhist hierarchy for Thich Tam Chau left his militant ri val Thich Tri Quang increas ingly isolated but Quang showed no signs of abandoning his hunger strike

Six flights of Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs struck the petro leum complex three miles across the Red River from the center of Hanoi using 750-pound bombs during the 25-minute at tack the U S spokesman said He said the area around the 32 tanks had no sizable population



Four flights of Navy jets from the 7th Fleet carriers Constella tion and Ranger raided the oil facilities at Haiphong two miles from the center of the city The spokesman said 95 per cent of the fuel going into North Viet Nam moves through the depot which contains 38 tanks above and below ground The raid last ed eight minutes

A flight usually numbers about four aircraft

The American pilots ran into intensive antiaircraft fire over Hanoi but said they encountered little flak in the Haiphong area

The military gave no indica tion how long it intends to re main in power Veteran observ ers predicted it will be several years before it permits election of another civilian regime

Dragged Into Cage

Elephant Kills Girl At Zoo in Madison

Winkie a 3 ton import from India snaked her trunk out through the bars and curled it around the child

I didn t know what to do Michael said Winkie just grabbed her and started pulling her in She was trumpeting and the girl s mother was scream ing I don t know what was wrong with Winkie I never saw her that way

The girl was Ruth Ellen Freedman the daughter of Prof Ralph Freedman of Princeton University

Before anyone could reach her the elephant smashed the child against the bars of the cage dropped her picked her up again drew her inside the cage and let her fall uncon scious to the concrete floor

After Mrs Freedman screamed she and her husband dashed to a gate and entered in an attempt to rescue the child but by then the elephant had pulled her through the bars

Ruth Ellen was dead on arriv al at the hospital

Dane County Coroner Clyde Chamberlain said the fatal injur y probably was inflicted by the elephant s feet after the child was inside the cage

She was more or less tram pled he said

Visiting Lecturer

Ruth Ellen had come to Mad son a few days ago with her parents

Freedman a prominent scho lar and writer was spending the summer at the University of Wisconsin as a visiting lecturer

The university is not far from the city zoo where Winkie the only elephant has been the star attraction for children since her arrival almost 20 years ago

Zoo Director Alvie Nelson considered the 23-year old ani mal docile We ve had no prob lems with her he said

The barrier was supposed to keep zoo visitors at a safe dis tance from the cages It s a perfectly safe enclosure said Nelson except if people want to get in you can t keep them out

The first person to reach the child was Melvin Bollig the caretaker He was in the nearby lion house

I heard screams and I rushed to the cage I saw the child lying on the concrete The elephant walked away the mo ment it stalked in the cage

The coroner said he didn t know what would become of the animal

Speculation Says French Leader Fears Offending Bonn in U.S.S.R.

VOLGOGRAD U S S R (AP) President Charles de Gaulle of France cancelled visits to a World War II memorial and sites of the battle of Stalingrad at the last minute today arous ing speculation he did not want to offend West Germany

The official explanation was De Gaulle had too heavy a schedule

There was speculation De Gaulle who has been careful not to mention West Germany in public speeches on his Soviet tour did not want his visit to the scene of Germany s World War II defeat to emphasize the war against Germany

De Gaulle was scheduled to start his tour by placing a wreath at a downtown monu ment to soldiers who died in the battle of Stalingrad French sources said he passed this up because he had laid two wreaths Tuesday honoring World War II dead here and in Kiev

Sturgeon Swim

De Gaulle visited a hydroelec tric plant was shown the lift through which caviar bearing sturgeon swim up the Volga River past a dam and was giv en a sturgeon as a memento

There is always a victim he said

Informed sources said De Gaulle and Soviet leaders had discussed establishment of a hot line between Moscow and Paris but no agreement has been reached so far on a direct com munications link such as the one between Washington and Mos cow

Large Tropical Storm Building In Caribbean

MIAMI Fla (AP) The Weather Bureau said today a tropical depression over the northwest Caribbean is poorly organized although large

However forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said the storm is expected to move toward the north or north north west at a little faster rate today with some chance of intensifica tion after it gets into the Gulf of Mexico

At midnight the storm was centered about 325 miles south southwest of Miami It was moving north at about five miles an hour

If the tropical depression turns into a tropical storm or hurricane it will be named Becky

Second Explosion Rips Tanker Off New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a deadly echo of disaster the vo latile cargo of a British tanker has again exploded and burned in New York Harbor adding at least four deaths to the toll of 33 in a harbor collision June 16

This time the 11 252 ton Alva Cape was stricken at anchor off Brooklyn while the remains of its naphtha cargo were being removed

A new flash of flame seared the Alva Cape s already scarred hull Tuesday and there was fear of a greater disaster until tug boats pushed the barge un loading the naphtha away from the flames

Mayor John V Lindsay flew over the scene in a helicopter as he had after the June 16 col lision — and said he would seek the Alva Cape s removal from the harbor as a continuing men ace to navigation

Besides the four known dead in Tuesday s explosion nine were injured and three were missing

Fire Chief John O Hagen blamed the latest explosion on oxygen mixed with the naphtha being pumped from the tanker in temperatures that reached 101 degrees in the past two days

As they had less than two weeks ago in the Kill Vankull fireboats rushed Tuesday to the explosion scene in Gravesend Bay dodging fire and smoke to pour foam on the burning tank er

Shots Fired Between Races

State Troopers Quell Violence in Georgia Town; No Injuries

CORDELE Ga (AP) Armed whites and Negroes ex changed dozens of shots today in a furious gun battle which erupted at two neighboring service stations

Police said no injuries were reported But a hail of gunfire was exchanged before the arriv al of police and state troopers quelled the violence leaving an uneasy quiet in this South Geor gia city which has witnessed sporadic racial violence during the last three days

Officers said slugs from pis tols rifles and shotguns ripped into several cars and buildings during the nearly 30 minutes gunfire

Police said the gunmen scat tered around the two service stations broke into small groups and fled when officers supplemented by more than 30 state troopers moved in

Officers said no shots were fired at police The police did not have to fire a shot to break up the battle

There was no immediate indi cation of how the hostilities started how many persons were involved, or which side fired the first shots

The Highway Bill Ambushed

State Highway Commission Chairman G H Bakke was probably indulging in what we may regard as pardonable enthusiasm when he described new state highway legislation as the most significant achievement for highway improvement in the history of the state Yet from the Bakke perspective he has a legitimate point The legislature this year made some advances in highway safety code strengthening The highway commission chairman was also closely involved in the painstaking and often disappointing representations for an acceleration of highway improvements which was finally endorsed by the legislature

The latter action presents certain some ingredients that are mildly surprising considering the political history of state highway policy One of the minor miracles was the fact that the local government lobby refrained from a demand for a sharing of the new highway tax receipts provided in the measure as finally enacted Thus in state highway service potential the one cent a gallon levy in the current legislation is as important as the two cents a gallon boost that was ordered by the legislature in 1955

The fact that the legislature largely escaped pressure from the towns and counties for more local highway subsidies may reflect a public recognition of the fact that our local rural roads on the whole are among the best in the country and have been favored in state revenue distribution over the more intensive used and otherwise more strategic main line routes

We like to think that the restraint of the county board lobby in this regard may be the first faint indication of a new orientation of county government reflecting the county board reapportionment in the state as a whole last spring

Mr Bakke as one of the chief architects of the new highway legislation in Madison was no doubt also reminding the local road administrators that the state for the first time has endorsed the idea of bonding for capital improvements in highways even as cities towns counties and villages have traditionally used their credit for essential road advances The legislature's decision was tentative with a May 1 1967, effective date That postponement is related wisely we think to the fact that the state is now involved in a decision on full faith and credit state bond issues as an alternative that is preferable to the so called dummy corporations Whether the state will bond and how it will bond will depend on the action of the 1967 legislature and more particularly the attitude of the people as represented in a likely bonding referendum next April

As the citizen contemplates his own decision in the matter it is relevant for him to remember that the disability of the state in bonding for roads is inconsistent The state has long used county government credit for example to achieve state road improvements by pledging state highway fund receipts to counties for bond principal payments If that oblique method was acceptable and defensible bonding for selected major routes by the state on its own credit should be permitted also

$250,000 Necessary To Finance Campaign For Governor Today

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON – The flat declaration by the chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party that he regards $250,000 as the "minimum" required for the financing of an effective campaign for a state-wide office ought to be one of the startling developments of the political year

Wyngaard

But the politicians and the sophisticated citizens of the state have become so accustomed to the inflation of campaign spending that the statement of the party commander at a panel discussion sponsored by the University of Wisconsin broadcasting system the other night didn't earn even passing mention in the political news

Louis Hanson the party chairman had other startling things to say He estimated that the losing campaign of Gov John W Reynolds in 1964 cost his backers and the party $300,000 a figure which thus far has not been publicized elsewhere

If such an aggregate can be verified in the election records and no doubt it can, nobody has thus far had the patience to do so As one frustrated but conscientious statehouse correspondent said the other day to a legislative committee it requires a professional accountant to interpret those files accurately, which is no doubt one of the reasons why the whole issue of runaway political spending is so inadequately reported and indifferently understood

Hanson dramatizes the severity of the campaign budget inflation issue by recalling that only eight years ago Gaylord Nelson then a comparatively little known member of the legislature ran a good campaign for only $70,000 Its effectiveness was indicated by the result Nelson won over a favored Republican incumbent

Citing Republican State Chairman Ody Fish as his authority, the Democratic organization captain lamented also that a candidate for congressman in an urbanized district—such as the Ninth in suburban Milwaukee—must have at least $90,000 in hand to make an effective impression upon the voters in the area

These are startling assertions Taken on their face, they suggest that public office will soon be out of the range of practical aspiration for any men or women except those of great wealth, or those who can persuade supporters of considerable means to underwrite their campaign costs In the alternative such trends mean that there will one day be a situation in which the idea of open primary nominations will be meaningless, and that men will be nominated who are the choices of party organizations or interest groups that can raise the munificent sums needed or thought to be needed to present them to the electorate

Mr Hanson's candid revelations are useful contributions to public understanding of an enormously important issue, but his own complaint expressed and implied raise some questions

Like other members of his party Mr Hanson has appeared to become more concerned about the financing question since a new federal law inhibited his money raising activities It is perhaps a natural reaction, but like Mr Fish he appears more concerned about competing than about the central issue of protecting the idea of representative government

Chairman Hanson and other politicians complain that television promotion is the chief cause of exorbitant campaign budgets The Democratic officials estimate is that 70 per cent of the typical budget today is used for television exploitation of the candidate He might reflect, if he ever looks and listens during the campaign season about possible waste through excessive plugs and primitive noise making that has no relation to issues or ideas and may conceivably offend rather than persuade

The disturbing reality is that the candidates and the parties are on a treadmill As one faction spends more the opposition feels compelled to keep pace One day public revulsion will command reform

Evolution of Communism

The bourgeois against whom Lenin organized a revolution were by his own definition the owners of property But there are neo bourgeois in Communist countries today who would have upset both Lenin and Marx

The demand for consumer goods among Eastern European nations is one indication of the trend away from the austerity and egalitarianism required by the original Bolsheviks In Yugoslavia twenty years ago among the most doctrinaire of Communist states perhaps the changes are the most obvious In part this came about because of Tito's split with Moscow and therefore his ability to shrug off Communist ideological restrictions as merely efforts of the Soviet Union to enforce its own will

In Yugoslavia 85 per cent of the farm land is privately owned and managed The peasants are permitted to import their own tractors and encouraged to stay on their own farms According to Christian Science Monitor correspondent Eric Bourne there are expanding home and car ownership stylish new stores crowded with goods and buyers mushroom growth of lively private enterprise which have made the Russians considerably envious

But in the Soviet Union too there is an upper and a middle class The former are the elite the professionals such as the scientists managers military officials and engineers Land ownership is prohibited in Russia but not house ownership as long as a certain size is maintained In addition there are collective controls of land areas for recreation but somehow fences go up and the ideal of communal living disappears Families who are willing to face several years of work in the frontier areas of the north and east are offered substantial bonuses with which they buy television sets refrigerators automobiles and carpet Those who are fortunate to be able to travel in the West bring home such signs of affluence as scuba diving equipment and transistor radios And the more exclusive Russians who can afford it don't patronize the crowded shore resorts but instead try to get off by themselves

Certainly all of this does not mean there is going to be a sudden end to Communist propaganda about the evils of capitalism or to the economic control of the Communist government In Russia there have been crackdowns on those who illegally make profits and such crimes are regarded as more serious than murder Yugoslavia as well as the Soviet Union has its jailed writers who criticized too strenuously the ruling order of things The evolution away from the strict tenets of Leninism does not mean a disowal of communism itself

But there must be a growing cynicism among many people living in Communist countries about the doctrines they have been fed since the cradle As long as there is peace Communist officials are going to have to spend more and more concern over what the people are seeking however much they may spout the old doctrines

Suburbs Should Not Be Forced to Annex

Editor Post Crescent

Your paper of June 13th contained an article on page B1 pertaining to an annexation study to be made by the City of Appleton As a taxpayer of Appleton I suppose I should be all in favor of such a study that will supposedly reduce taxes However instead I find this entire proposition most disturbing I think the attitudes as reported in your account of the meeting should be examined by every fair-minded Appleton resident

Commenting on Ald Stratz's remark hurts when you see all these industries locating around out der Appleton – we should take them into the City may I say that these industries had a free choice to settle in Appleton if they so desired The fact that they chose to settle outside the city limits would seem to indicate that they thought it more desirable to locate where they did This may be a bit humiliating to the city but efforts should be made to eliminate whatever was undesirable about locating in the city To choose the alternative of extending the city's boundaries to 'take in' these individuals is to violate their decision and nullify their choice It is true that once located it is almost impossible for them to move but to take advantage of this predicament should make any fair minded person of good conscience at least a bit sick in the pit of his stomach It smacks of jackals or hyenas stalking a game animal

The same might be said of City Planner Rasmussen's statement in some areas where people don't want to be annexed the only way to do it is to drag them in with another area that does What kind of talk is this from a city official? How un American can we be in our thinking? Since when do we drag a citizen in to an area where he does not choose to be? This kind of talk sounds like something that might have been uttered by a Communist official in China, Russia or Cuba rather than an Appleton city official May I point out that we are fighting a war to prevent this very thing the dragging of a people into a government they don't want Maybe we had better start fighting closer to home to retain what we are seeking for others

As to Rasmussen's statement that state statutes put cities at a disadvantage in forcing annexation' may I comment it would seem to be a good thing they do if this type of conniving is being done by the cities Most Americans just don't like the idea of allowing a scheming bully to throw his weight around and get away with it

Regarding the statement 'even though some of the areas outside central cities don't have normal level existing services" may I comment that perhaps not everyone cares to have these wonderful city services and pay additional taxes for them It would seem that if a person prefers to locate outside a city he should have this prerogative and his choice should not be nullified

The idea of enlarging the limits of the city to broaden the tax base and decrease taxes than smaller cities In just plain unadulterated nonsense It simply is not true that larger cities have lower taxes that smaller cities In fact the reverse is more likely to be true Generally speaking a smaller city should have less graft and corruption because the residents can keep in closer touch with their officials and keep a sharper eye on their doings Therefore the smaller cities taxpayers should get more efficient government and higher percentage of their tax dollars should be sensibly and efficiently spent

Finally may I commend Mr Rasmussen for his words contained in the third from the last paragraph of your article I think one of our best tools right now to encourage people to annex to Appleton pointing out the advantages the city has to offer Now, this is constructive thinking Mr Rasmussen should go far in politics when he can say this and that people who don't want to be annexed should be dragged into the city all at the same meeting Shades of Teddy Roosevelt with the velvet hand and the big stick These bylinks would be good comedy if the matter weren't so serious

Hats Off to Knowles for Salary Veto

Editor Post Crescent

Governor Warren P Knowles refusal to sign the big pay hike bill for themselves presented to him by the lawmakers in our state capital surely was encouraging to those interested in good government It certainly showed that we have a leader who would sooner stand alone, knowing he was right rather than follow the crowd knowing he was wrong

The farmers are being blamed for inflation due to a rise in food prices when in reality the continual raises in wages prices and government handouts the past 30 years is the cause of the trouble

In refusing to go along with the administration the governor displayed good judgement and a will to work for the best interest of the people and not for political power We see that he is being criticized by his Democratic opponents for not holding the line in state and governmental unnecessary spending as he promised to do when he was campaigning for office After 30 years of wild government spending it would seem like holding the line on a wild cattle stampede

His veto of the bill goes to show that his intentions are good and he is doing what he agreed to do if elected Raising the price of a bushel of potatoes or a man's wages from $1 to $2 does not usually increase the value of the potatoes or the efficiency of labor but it does cut the value of our dollar in two If we continue in this direction as we have been eventually what is our money going to be worth? That is no doubt the thought Governor Knowles had in mind when he said NO to his legislature So hats off to the Governor!

Legislators Deserve Raise, and a Good One

Editor Post-Crescent

I have recently had these questions asked of me

Do the people of this state want to maintain legislative compensation at a level reasonably sure to attract representative men under the defined goals of the constitutional system?

Do the people of this state want to recognize that the simple days of short easy legislative deliberations of the 19th Century have passed?

Do the people of this state realize that legislative calendars have lengthened and that the subject matter thereon has grown more complex?

And most of all Do the people of the State of Wisconsin want sufficiently compensated legislators who will be duty bound to devote their entire efforts to all matters of state wide concern and in so doing stem the flow of our tax dollars to the federal government and thereby retain these same tax dollars to solve our own problems within our own borders?

All thoughtful citizens will, I believe answer 'Yes' to the above questions

The physical and intellectual endurance and quality of our elected representatives must be adapted accordingly We must not move in such a direction that only the rich, retired or those subsidized by industry can serve us in Madison I believe that the new level of legislative pay is, if anything modest—a step long overdue

Strictly Personal

Mass Introductions At Parties Deadly

BY SYDNEY J HARRIS

There ought to be a more practical way of introducing people at large gatherings The way it's done these days, I haven't begun to sort out the names and faces before it's time to go home

Harris

Sometimes it is the poor harried hostess who is responsible for this awkward state of affairs She rushes you around the room introducing you to a dozen new people in a kind of speed up process like a 1920 movie so that you're still mumbling How do you do Mr Gribzib" when you are shaking hands with Mrs Blugawug three people later

Then too it seems to me that married couples ought to be handcuffed together at parties until all the guests have been introduced If Mrs A and Mr A are sitting on opposite sides of the room it often takes half the evening to hook them together and if like me you are given to such gaucheries as 'Who's the odd looking man with the big nose and bow tie?' it helps to know you're not asking his wife

The speed up hostess however isn't quite as deadly as the Parker She parks you in a corner with some man or a couple hoping vaguely that you'll have Something in Common Usually these encounters turn out to be about as tense as a meeting between a rabbi and an Arab chieftain

Nothing else makes a guest feel so trapped on a desert island especially since it's almost impossible to get away from the rabbi or the chieftain you have been parked with My favorite if threadbare, device is to pretend to make a desperately important long distance call and later to slip back into another flank of the party with a bright fixed smile on my face

Even worse than being introduced oldest being introduced along with some other guest to guests who happened to arrive at the same time This procession which resembles a troop of beaten convicts trudging down Death Row is led by the hostess around the room and at the end of the dreary circuit nobody is quite sure whether you are (as Robert Morss Lovett once learned) the governor of the Virgin Islands or a virgin from the Governor Islands

Like all complex social problems there is no easy solution to the impasse of introductions Large convention like tags on all the guests might simplify matters—perhaps supplemented by a key phrase such as 'Goldwater Republican' 'Yale '39' 'Grows Roses' or 'Likes to March'

At any rate I hope this explains however lamely why I rarely remember people until I've met them two or three times Except for that odd looking fellow over there, with the big nose and bow tie His wife told who he was up any MIG fighters to challenge the U.S. fighter-bombers nor were any surface-to-air missiles sighted, the spokesman said.

U.S. planes have been gradually tightening a noose around Hanoi and its port, which lies 65 miles to the east. There has been pressure in some quarters in Washington for an aerial offensive against the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong themselves.

Only Tuesday, the White House declined to comment on reports circulating in Washington that President Johnson had canceled air strikes against Hanoi and Haiphong in the past five days because of security leaks.

Heart of North

The Hanoi-Haiphong area is the heartland of North Viet Nam's small industrial plant and its principal population center. Hanoi has about 650,000 people and Haiphong 370,000. Many women, children and elderly persons have been evacuated amid repeated predictions by President Ho Chi Minh's propagandists that the two cities would be attacked.

The U. S. spokesman said "everything would indicate no significant civilian casualties were involved." The strike was authorized for good visibility only so the target could clearly be seen, he said. The raids were between noon and 1:40 p.m.

The U.S. Command also announced successful raids Tuesday on the supply routes from Hanoi to Red China reporting U.S. planes destroyed the Viet Tri railroad and highway bridge 27 miles northwest of Hanoi and a bridge 35 miles north of the capital.

The Air Force credited Capt. Eleas Ceasillas, 34, of Santa Monica, Calif., and Lt. Michael I. Brazelton of Inglewood, Calif., with knocking out the Viet Tri Bridge. Aerial photographs showed three spans were down.

Air Force Maj. D. E. Hornsby, 41, of Little Marsh, Pa., led the planes that hit the other bridge.

The Air Force and Navy flew 78 missions over North Viet Nam Tuesday. In addition to the two bridges, U.S. pilots hit fuel storage areas, rail lines, barges, trucks, boxcars and radar sites, mostly in the southern panhandle. One Air Force strike was against a radar site 15 miles northwest of Hanoi.

At dawn today, U.S. B52 bombers plastered two enemy troop and supply areas in South Viet Nam. One wave rained bombs 20 miles southwest of Hue in the northern province of Thua Thien. Another wave hammered at a highland area 35 miles west of Pleiku close to the Cambodian border.

U.S. and Vietnamese pilots flew a total of 569 single-plane sorties in the south Tuesday.

In one of two small U.S. ground actions, an American Special Forces unit spotted a platoon of about 30 Viet Cong Tuesday 15 miles southwest of Chu Lai. The "Green Berets" called in an air strike and later found 10 Viet Cong dead in the target area. The Special Forces unit also captured five Viet Cong while suffering no casualties themselves, a spokesman said.

An 11-man squad of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division ran into a Viet Cong ambush at midnight seven miles southwest of Cu Chi. A U.S. spokesman said casualties were heavy. The Americans apparently were caught in the open.

Another engagement took place in Quang Tin Province, 348 miles northeast of Saigon, when 50 Viet Cong ambushed a small unit of regional force soldiers. Vietnamese army regulars quickly reinforced the regional unit and reported killing 16 Viet Cong and capturing one. Vietnamese and regional casualties were listed as moderate.

British Seamen Call Off Strike

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 45-day seamen's strike was settled today.

The Executive Committee of the National Seamen's Union voted 29 to 16 to call off the strike after meeting all morning at their South London headquarters.

The decision followed by less than 24 hours a charge in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Harold Wilson that Communists were pressuring the seamen to prolong the dispute for political motives.

The vote of the union leadership indicated that militants still were holding out for better terms but were beaten down by the moderate element.

Case Continues In Penn Killing

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Atty. Floyd M. Buford says he will show two Ku Klux Klansmen being tried on federal conspiracy charges took part in the 1964 slaying of Lemuel A. Penn, a Negro educator.

Buford said the Penn slaying was one of a series of racial incidents in which the pair, Joseph Howard Sims and Cecil W. Myers, was involved.

He continued trying to prove it today as more witnesses were called to testify against them and their codefendant George H. Turner, fellow klansman.

Argentines' Fear of Peron Led to Revolt dictatorship came from his second wife, the blonde dynamic Evita, and the active politician in the family now is his 34-year-old third wife, Maria Estela "Isabelita" Martinez, also a blonde.

Squabling Leaders

Isabelita returned to Argentina last October, setting off violent demonstrations by anti-Peronists. She said her purpose was to reconcile squabbling leaders of the Peronist movement.

She brought instructions from Peron to torpedo Augusto Vandor, boss of the powerful Metal Workers' Union and a potential leader of the movement. She failed to remove Vandor from the scene and withdrew from public view about two months ago after a particularly noisy dispute with the quarreling Peronist leaders.

Peronist sources said Tuesday night Isabelita is still in Buenos Aires despite rumors a week ago she had gone to Uruguay en route back to Madrid. Observers in Madrid think she would like to be the new Evita of Peronism.

Patrolman Saw Car Of Slain Secretary About Time of Killing

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—A detective has testified that a Quincy patrolman saw the car owned by one of two slain secretaries in a park about the time the women are thought to have been killed.

Police detective Floyd Neuser testified in Circuit Court Tuesday that Harold Lease, a park patrolman, reported the license number of Donetta Pickens' car at about 11 p.m. March 21 in Gardner Park.

The bodies of Miss Pickens, 21, and her roommate, Judith Ann Greening, 22, were found March 22. They had been shot and stabbed, and their time of death has been placed at between 9:15 p.m. and 11 p.m. on March 21.

Ronald McCleery, 18, who lived near the womens' apartment, has been charged with murder.

Speaker Urges Public Defender County Program

OSHKOSH (AP) — Organized public defender programs could save counties substantial sums in defending the indigent, Richard Friebero, Wisconsin's public defender said Tuesday.

Speaking at a district attorney's conference in Oshkosh, Friebert said the annual average cost in Dane County is now about $22,000.

"I am sure the job can be accomplished effectively with a substantial savings to the taxpayers by instituting organized programs at the trial level," Friebert said.

Public Hearing Set For Vocational Districts

MADISON (AP)—An interim legislative study committee will hold a public hearing on proposed criteria for new area vocational-technical districts July 13 in the Loraine Hotel in Madison.

Assemblyman Angelo Greco, D-Milwaukee, chairman of the education committee of the legislative council, said the hearing would give the public an opportunity to discuss the plan. The committee already has heard from the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education and the State Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult education.

Shiocton Boys Implicated in Auto Theft

Trio Referred to Outagamie County Juvenile Authorities

Three rural Shiocton boys, one 11 and two 13, were referred to juvenile authorities Tuesday after an Outagamie County Sheriff's Department investigation of a car theft.

The boys reportedly stole the car from Shiocton Monday night. A second complaint filed by Harry Strong, route 1, Shiocton, said that his garage and car had been ransacked. He said that a jacket, a watch and $5 were taken from the car.

Mary Pierre, who operates a service station and store near Leeman, said that an attempt was made to steal gas from pumps at the establishment on Monday night.

Upon investigation the sheriff's department learned that the boys were implicated in each of the complaints. When questioned, the youths said they drove the car from Shiocton to Leeman, a distance of approximately 12 miles, and abandoned it on County Trunk G just off State 187.

Authorities said the boys told them they left the car after attempting to re-fuel at the Pierre station. They said they took turns driving.

A fourth report filed by the auto owner's brother-in-law, led to the recovery of the car when he reported seeing it abandoned near his home. The watch and jacket were also recovered and returned to Strong.

Sprinkling Is Halted At Waupaca

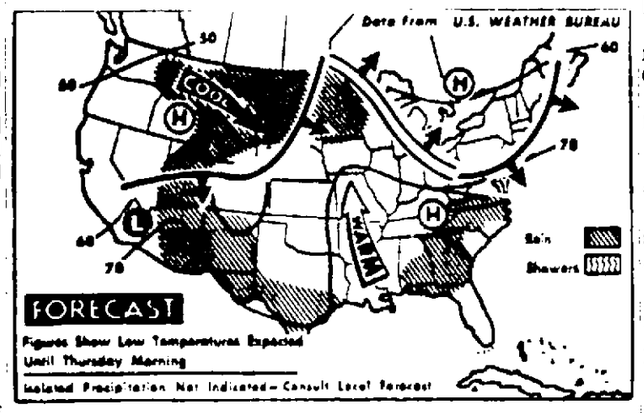
WAUPACA — Because of difficulties being experienced with one of the three city wells, all Waupaca residents have been asked to discontinue any lawn sprinkling.

Iver Oerter, city engineer, said the trouble being experienced is with the 100 horsepower motor used on No. 3 well located on Berlin Street.

It is now operating on a temporary hookup and parts for the motor are expected today. However the water restrictions will remain until the motor is repaired, Oerter said.

Before workmen could get No. 3 well back into operation Tuesday night the water level in the reservoir on Mt. Tom dipped dangerously low dropping the water pressure throughout the city.

Tuesday, the three city wells pumped 2 million gallons which is five times above the normal per capita average.



Tonight's Weather Will be rainy over most of the Atlantic Coast, the western Lakes and most of the Plateaus and Rockies. It will be warmer in the extreme southern Plains and cooler in the Dakotas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

In Shawano County chairman O. Strossenreuther had May sales of $23,836 or 51.1 per dent of his annual goal. Sales since Jan. 1 totaled $143,262.

State sales in May exceeded $8.1 million which reflects 42.8 per cent of the 1966 quota.

Democratic Hopeful Resolves Action at Fremont Rally

FREMONT — Democratic candidate for governor, Dominic H. Frinzi, told a rally here that the Democratic campaign battle is being won on the issues of the war in Wisconsin instead of the war in Viet Nam.

Frinzi said "Three of the four candidates for governor and all other Democratic candidates for state office are marshalling Democratic supporters to win the battles on the highways, on the polluted waters, on the vanishing family farms and in our blighted cities and slums.

"With no bloodshed, we can stop the senseless slaughter on our highways. This year more Wisconsinites will kill each other on Wisconsin's suicide alleys than have died in all the years of Viet Nam. If we are seriously concerned about young lives, then the governor can save those young lives by raising the driver's age to 18 and signing into law a uniform drinking age of 21.

"If we are seriously worried about wasted young lives, then the governor can fight for a state slum-removal program, for healthy housing and adequate park and recreation facilities. The governor can order unsafe, insanitary structures torn down; he can order the attorney general to investigate slum landlords and why they are not prosecuted more vigorously.

"If the governor is seriously concerned about young lives, he can fight to establish a youth department and set up programs to prevent crime rather than merely punish after young lives have been twisted and destroyed. We have departments for cars, corporations and cows, but no department for kids. This is our most precious resource and the governor can do something about it right here in Wisconsin — if he really cares to.

"And there are other wars in Wisconsin that affect young adults, newlyweds, workingmen and women, the elderly and the sick. I have dedicated myself to a program and a campaign to win these wars."

U. S. to Launch Lunar Orbit Ship

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States plans to launch a Lunar Explorer Thursday toward an orbit about the moon — a scientific experiment that could ease the way for astronauts traveling to that distant target.

A three-stage Delta rocket is scheduled to loft the 206-pound mooncraft into space at 11:08 a.m. EDT.

To intercept the moon at the precise time after a 74-hour flight, the launch crew has only a two-minute period in which to fire the rocket Thursday. Otherwise, the shot will be postponed a day.

If successful, it will be the first U.S. spacecraft to orbit the moon. Three earlier attempts failed in 1959 and 1960.

Board Okays Kimberly High Plant Changes

Revisions to Raise New School Expenses By $2,262 Total

KIMBERLY — General construction changes at the senior high school which add $2,262 in costs were approved by the board of education Monday night.

Changes made at the recommendation of the architects, the school superintendent and teachers include enlarging of the mechanical drawing room, changing the location of the drafting room office and adding accoustical doors to the music department.

Deletion of two folding door partitions and replacing them with masonry partitions in the academic wing, removal of the floor receptacles in one biology room and placing them along the wall and elimination of projection outlets in the second floor of the school also were approved.

Receptacle Change

The receptacle change in the biology room was made to permit utilization of the room for a different phase of study in biology.

The projection outlets were eliminated because they were not being utilized in rooms on the first floor. Some tack boards were deleted from construction to permit the business manager to advertise for bids on this item.

Low bid of Valley Business Equipment Co., Appleton, of $875 for seven typewriters was accepted, as was the low bid of American Readers Service for magazines for all school libraries for the 1966-67 school year. The bid was $1,009.

Accept Resignation

Board members accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary Mueller as kindergarten teacher and replaced her with Miss Maureen Hussey, Appleton, who will receive a degree this summer. Miss Doris Hinze was hired as secretary for the elementary school supervisor.

Board members voted to recommend to district voters at the annual school meeting July 25 to retain book rental fees for the coming year at $4 for senior high school, $3 for junior high and $2 for elementary, the same as last year.

Also unchanged would be the $1 towel fee, $3.50 activity fee and $3 yearbook fee, all for high school students.

Five Fox River Valley educators, including two university presidents, discuss the future of higher education in the valley area at a seminar conducted at the Wisconsin University-Oshkosh, Tuesday. The group was particularly concerned with the effect of rising costs and increased enrollment of the institutions in the area. Educators Discuss History, Future of Higher Education in Fox River Valley

Rise in Costs Will Present Difficulties

OSHKOSH — The rise of enrollments and the ever increasing costs of higher education were the major concerns of five of the Fox River Valley's top educators as they discussed the future of higher education in the area at the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, Tuesday.

The discussion was divided into two parts, the first reviewing the history of education at Lawrence University and Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, and the second, a panel discussing the future of education and where it might lead.

Dr. Roger Guiles, WSU-O president, explained that even the more informed in the field are not sure where it will lead. Another member of the panel, Dr. Curtiss W. Tarr, Lawrence University president, explained that private schools may not be able to survive the influx of students and ever increasing costs of education.

Chain of Institutions

Dr. Robert de Zonia, assistant director of the Wisconsin State University system, likened the Fox River Valley to a chain of higher education institutions.

"Starting with the recently approved facilities at Green Bay and Fond du Lac, the chain is unbroken when added to St. Norbert College, De Pere; University of Wisconsin Extension Center and Lawrence at Appleton; Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, and the new Fond du Lac branch and Marian College in Fond du Lac," he observed.

Dr. Tarr observed that seeing the growth of the valley cities, one of the pre-requisites to survival and prosperity could be a growing institution.

"The rising costs of education during the past decade and future anticipated rises could put the independent institution right out of business," he said.

Dr. de Zonia, however, expressed a bit more optimism when he cited the recent legislation for scholarships which allow the recipient to attend any school he wishes.

"But," he said, "right now we are about five years behind in our educational planning." He was referring to the current Legislature which was called by some the "educational legislature."

Public Support

Dr. Guiles remarked that the future of education would depend on the support of the public and how much money they are willing to spend on higher education.

"In this specialized age all types of training are becoming more and more important, and perhaps this is best being shown by the recent move to specialize the vocational and adult training centers," Dr. Tarr commented.

All three panelists agreed that the largest influx of educational hungry persons is going to come from the adult group, but that a large increase is expected in the younger student population as well.

5 Years Behind

Dr. de Zonia explained that higher education must be pitched to a high level to catch up with the five years of lost time. "We are five years behind now," he said, "and we will have to go some to catch up.

Dr. Tarr said that one way to get more from the educational facilities now available is to develop a better guidance system right down to the elementary level and up to the college and university level.

"We have to get the student to better understand himself so that he can find direction here in a time when time is most important," he said.

Taxpayers Confident

Dr. Guiles said that the state voters and taxpayers are now expressing their confidence in higher education and this is most important, especially now

Water Situation Termed Drastic

Total Ban Placed on Sprinkling

Extensive restrictions on water use were ordered this morning by the Appleton Water Department and Mayor George Buckley due to the water shortage termed "Drastic."

Effective immediately is a ban on all lawn sprinkling, street and sewer flushing, and the closing of Erb Park Pool until further notice.

The authority to order the restrictions was given to the water department by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission this morning.

William Gallaher, water department superintendent, said the city's pumping station has been operating at full capacity and has had to use much of its reserve water supply.

'Drastic Action'

"Due to a succession of hot days, we have been unable to recover during the evening the water used during the day," he explained. "The situation calls for drastic action."

As of 10 a.m. today, one million gallons of the two-million gallon reserve had been used, Gallaher said, and by evening the reserve will be down to 500,000 gallons.

The decision to take the drastic step was made at a meeting at City hall where Gallaher, Buckley, Water Commission Chairman R. D. De Land and Police Chief Earl Wolff discussed the situation.

Added to the situation was the fact that the department is

Candidate Visits Appleton

Carley Charges Knowles Ignored Valley Education

Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Carley, in Appleton today for a round of hand-shaking and campaigning, charged that the administration of Republican Gov. Warren Knowles hasn't shown concern for the educational needs of the Fox Cities region.

Carley, the state party's national committeeman, is opposing Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey, Milwaukee attorney Dominic Frinzi and Milwaukee businessman Abe Swed in the September Democratic gubernatorial primary.

"Actually," Carley said, "the Republican Party is taking Outagamie County for granted. They (the Republicans) always count on any number of contributions and solid-bloc vote casting in this county without really paying much attention to the important issues that the Republicans in this area are concerned with."

He listed these "issues" as education, resource development, regional planning and state assistance to municipalities.

Carley stated that "during my campaign, I'm not ignoring the bipartisan political needs of Outagamie County. On the other hand," he said, "I'm specifically addressing myself to these areas.

Knocks Knowles

"The state administration under Knowles," Carley charged, "has ignored the urban community throughout the state and apparently has shown little concern for the necessity in defining regional economic and social planning goals."

Discussing what he termed "the lack of concern" of the Knowles administration for the educational needs of the Fox Cities, Carley said, "I'm not at all prepared to say that the location of the new four-year institution (University of Wisconsin-Northeast) should have been here instead of in Green Bay, but I think there is some question about the precise location with regard to the transportation needs for the prospective students a the lower end of the Fox River Valley who will attend the institution.

"As I equally question the non-public hearing method of legislative salary pay increase. I always question closed-door sessions on so important a subject as the location or construction of multi-million dollar state institutions."

Carley's reference to closed-door sessions was a reference to methods used by the site selection committee in choosing the Shorewood Golf Course location for the new branch campus of the UW.)

"I will grant," he stated, "that Outagamie County has historically been Republican, but not to the extent that the Republican Party should feel this country is in the bag for them."

Carley refused to comment about the problem which may arise if county lines are followed in setting up area vocational school districts in the state, which would exclude Neenah and Menasha from the Appleton district.

"Let me say," he commented, "that Outagamie County has taken the lead in the Fox River Valley in looking to the development of regional growth patterns, rather than abiding by artificial political county and town boundaries.

"The important matters of job supply, of flood control, of water pollution abatement and orderly urban growth are regional concepts and must be

Union to File Charges in Sign Burning Case

Local Says It Can Identify Worker Who Harassed Picket

While work continued today at the Pershing-Owaissa streets paving project, a spokesman for Operating Engineers Local 139 said the union intends to file charges against a worker who, it claims, burned the sign of a union picket Monday.

The union is picketing the Wieseler Construction Co., Appleton, which is doing work on a paving project for the City of Appleton. The union is protesting the firm's use of non-union labor.

Donald Shaw, business representative for the union, said the union knows the identity of the worker who took and burned a sign carried by one of the two pickets at the job site.

Police reported there were no incidents at the job site Tuesday or this morning. Police are continuing to patrol the area.

Tight Labor Pool Looms as Threat

See Problems as Fox Cities Firms Plan Payroll Expansions

Major employers in the Appleton - Neenah - Menasha labor market hope to add almost 1,500 employes to their payrolls in the next two months but may run into problems finding the necessary workers as the labor market continues to tighten.

A report from the district office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service shows job openings 8 per cent ahead of two months ago. Although there has been a gradual rise in employment 6 per cent more than last year at this time the net gains are about 45 per cent under the forecasts made in mid-March.

This reflects the tightness of the labor market and the inability of employers to fill their needs, according to A. P. Engebretson, district manager. Employment turnover rates have increased and have made employer staffing problems more difficult.

Youths, Women Apply

Some 40 per cent of the job applications on file are youths under 22 and another 40 per cent are woman. A total of 57 per cent are registered in the semi-skilled or laborer categories.

Engebretson noted there has been a perceptable lowering of employer worker qualifications and a tendency has developed among applicants to become more selective in their acceptance of job opportunities.

The active application file is expected to be substantially augmented by the registration of recent high school graduates but service obligations and opportunities to continue education will severely limit the number of youths available for permanent jobs, he said.

The total workers employed by 105 major firms in the Fox Cities labor market was reported at 27,284 in mid-May. The companies expect to expand the work force by 1,493 by the end of July. The major gains will be registered in the manufacturing groups, with paper and allied products providing about 70 per cent of that increase.

Kimberly to Raise Water Rates July 1

Move Designed to Retire Debt Of Improved Pumping Station

KIMBERLY — Water rate increases will become effective with the July 1 billing, according to Mrs. Katherine Lochschmidt, Water Department clerk.

The department also serves Combined Locks. The increase has been approved by the Public Service Commission.

It is designed to help retire the debt incurred as a result of improvements in the pumping and water softening systems at No. 1 pumping station.

6,000 Gallons

Demand charge of the first 6,000 gallons of soft water used was increased 60 cents to $3.85, for a five-eighths-inch meter; 75 cents, to $5 for a three-quarter-inch meter; $1.25 to $7.50, for an one-inch meter, and $2.25 to $13.75, for an one and one-half-inch meter.

Other charges will be $3.50 to $21, for a two-inch meter; $2 to $38, for a three-inch meter; $8 to $55, for a four-inch meter; $25 to $125, for a six-inch meter, and $50 to $200, for an eight-inch meter.

For each additional unit of service on one meter, 95 cents is added to the new rates. Formerly an 85-cent charge was made. Rates were also raised for water used above the minimum.

Minimum Charge

The minimum charge applies to the first 6,000 gallons, after which 50 cents for each 1,000 gallons will be charged for the next 14,000 gallons, which is up 10 cents; 42 cents each 1,000 gallons for the next 30,000 gallons, up 10 cents; 32 cents each 1,000 gallons for the next 150,000 gallons, up 8 cents, and 21 cents each 1,000 gallons over 200,000 gallons, up 1 cent.

The last rate increase became effective Oct. 1, 1962. Members of the water commission voted Monday to hold all future meetings at the village clerk's office rather than the water department office. Meetings are held the last Monday of each month.

Settlement Gives New London Men Extra $1,200

William and Omar Stake, route 1, New London, plaintiffs in condemnation proceedings brought by Wisconsin Electric Power Co., received an additional $1,200 Tuesday morning in a settlement negotiated between the two parties.

The Stakes appealed an earlier award of $1,300 to Outagamie County Circuit Court. The proceedings were scheduled for Tuesday but the jury was dismissed by Judge Andrew W. Parnell when the agreement was reached.

Menasha Man Fined $50 as Inattentive

OSHKOSH—Harry J. Boushley, 36, 336 Grandview Ave., Menasha, was fined $50 and costs in Winnebago County Court Branch 3 today after pleading guilty to inattentive driving.

The charge originally was reckless driving and was amended to inattentive driving at the request of District Attorney Thomas Fink.

Boushley was arrested by county police on State 47 after he was involved in a three-car accident near Valley Fair on May 28.

Little Chute Residents Seriously Injured in Oconto County Mishap

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Two Little Chute residents are hospitalized here with injuries sustained in an Oconto County traffic accident early today.

In serious condition at St. Vincent Hospital is Joseph Lessor, 40, who sustained multiple severe bruises of the neck and shoulders, scalp cuts, a possible back injury and shock.

Gary Lenz, 16, is in good condition at the Oconto Falls Hospital with a fractured vertebra and an elbow laceration.

Accident details were not available.

Ask 'Islanders' to Stop Sprinkling

F. Marion Hageman, Menasha Water and Light utility superintendant, today asked Menasha residents on the island to discontinue sprinkling lawns and gardens until the water main under the Fox River has been repaired.

He said repairs may be made by the end of next week.

WSU-O Adds Five to History Staff

OSHKOSH — Five new faculty members have been added to the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh history staff, according to Dr. John Bengtson, department chairman.

New faculty members include Dr. Kenneth Dodd, who has taught at the University of Chicago and Youngstown University and Dr. David Mahon, former professor at the University of California and a cum laude graduate of Harvard.

Other new history instructors include Dr. Stephen Kane, associate at the University of Colorado; Dr. Jan Betley, whose background includes teaching at the University of Toronto, University of Delhi, India, and Ahmado Bello University in Zaria; and Robert J. Chaffin, now completing his doctorate work at Indiana University.

Oshkosh Man Denies Two Traffic Charges

Gary R. Lee, 23, 1304 Otter Ave., Oshkosh, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of failure to stop at a stop sign and operating a vehicle after revocation of driver's license.

He was arrested at 10:32 p.m. Monday by the State Patrol at Outagamie County Trunk V and U.S. 41.

Judge Gustave J. Keller, Outagamie County Court Branch 2, set bonds for the charges at $40 and $150. Lee's trial is scheduled for Oct. 19.

Into the Fox River for a look at Menasha's parted main water line to the Island goes diver John Geschrey, Chicago. After nearly a half-hour's inspection this morning, Geschrey reported the pipe has come apart at three joints, apparently because of currents shifting the 50-year-old main downstream. After initial hope for a quick repair, water utility officials are now preparing for a project taking up two weeks. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Federal Report Studies Lower Fox

Mills, Cities Blamed for Pollution

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Pulp and paper mills are the most significant sources of water pollution in the Fox Valley area.

The second biggest source is municipal wastes.

These conclusions are expressed in a thick report issued by the Chicago office of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, U.S. Department of Interior.

The Federal government claims that adequate waste treatment plants exist in only six of the 27 Wisconsin and upper Michigan communities of the Green Bay watershed.

Immediate, concerted action to abate pollution is recommended.

Governor's Conference

The report will be presented here Thursday at the Governor's Conference on Lake Michigan Pollution. Sessions will be held at the Hotel Northland beginning at 9:30 a.m.

A similar report made at the conference in Milwaukee Tuesday ranked municipal wastes first and industrial wastes second as major pollution sources in the southeastern Wisconsin area of the Lake Michigan basin.

Information in the reports was based on surveys and tests made since 1961, the Federal office stated. In at least several instances, information apparently is out of date.

Although Gov. Warren Knowles and other state officials had asked for the reports repeatedly, they were not made available until just before the governor's conferences on pollution.

"Steal The Show"

A state official, who asked not to be identified, conjectured at Milwaukee Tuesday that release of the reports was timed to "steal the show from the governor."

The Green Bay report covers Green Bay and the Fox, Oconto, Peshtigo, Ford, Menominee, Escanaba, Whitefish and Sturgeon Bay rivers.

It points out:

"The lower Fox River, tributary to Green Bay, is grossly polluted, contributing the bulk of the phosphate, ammonia, phenol and organic contaminants and having at times little or no dissolved oxygen for distances exceeding 20 miles."

Other streams are degraded by varying degrees, and the Bay has been seriously affected by waste discharges, the report concludes.

Lax In Treatment

The U. S. Paper Mill, De Pere, the Fox River Paper Co., Appleton, and the Marathon Paper Co., Menasha, are the only plants on the lower Fox receiving a passing grade. All mills on other streams also are lax and deficient in treatment of wastes, it is reported.

In several instances, recent improvements by several mills are not taken into account in the report.

The report states that only Fond du Lac, Berlin, Shawano, Oconto, Peshtigo, and Escanaba have adequate waste treatment plants.

It was stated that secondary treatment of sewage is needed at Neenah, Marinette, Menasha, Waupaca and Niagara in Wisconsin, and Menominee, Gladstone, Iron Mountain and Kingsford in Michigan.

Neenah and Menasha have virtually completed an addition to their joint sewage plant to provide secondary treatment for Twin Cities waste.

Appleton Lauded

The report credits Kaukauna with having secondary treatment. Kaukauna, however, is still under orders to provide such facilities.

In another instance, it is stated that Appleton's sewage plant is inadequate. But Appleton has been held up by the State Committee on Water Pollution as a commendable example following completion of greatly improved facilities.

The report notes that Green Bay's treatment facilities should be enlarged. Similar statements are made concerning De Pere, Little Chute, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Oshkosh, Portage, New London and Clintonville.

Found needing additional disinfection were plants at Little Chute, Kimberly, Ripon, Portage, New London, Clintonville and Oconto Falls.

"Clear water," the report said, "is necessary to take care of growing population, an expanding economy and a rapidly increasing need for additional recreational areas."

Schmitt's to Open Fox Point Store

Neenah Discount House to Move To Site Near Fox Point Center

NEENAH — Schmitt's Discount Department Store, which has been located for the past six years at 130 W. Wisconsin Ave., will move to a new location near Fox Point shopping center.

A ten year lease was signed Tuesday with Sam and Dan Napuck, owners of the Choice Beverage Mart, 1000 Winneconne Ave., to rent a new 22,000 square foot building to be construction on Winneconne Ave. between the slough bridge and the Choice Beverage Mart.

Construction will start immediately, Roy Coleman, secretary-treasurer of Schmitt's, Green Bay, told the News-Record today. Imhoff Construction Co., Madison, is the general contractor.

"The new store, which will be ready for occupancy by late September and opened for business in mid-October, will offer an expanded merchandise selection in existing departments as well as a new record, automotive and candy department," Coleman said.

Customers will be able to shop on one floor in a super market atmosphere with wide open aisles, shopping carts and six check out stands.

"Neenah has been good to us since we came here in 1960," Clarence E. Schmitt, president of Schmitt's commented. "We will be able to provide a bright and comfortable shopping atmosphere soon, one way of showing our appreciation." The downtown store will be closed the last week in September.

Arlo Gabrielson, manager of the Wisconsin Ave. store, will manage the new store. Present plans call for six men and women to be added to the present sales force of 14 full time and 7 steady part time employes.

Steiger Files Papers for Nomination

Oshkosh Republican Seeks Congressional Seat of 6th District

MADISON — Assemblyman William A. Steiger of Oshkosh, GOP candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, filed nomination papers here Tuesday with Secretary of State's office.

Steiger, 28, has served six years in the Assembly.

The Republican lawmaker graduated from Oshkosh High School in 1956 and from the University of Wisconsin in 1960, where he majored in economics.

In 1964, Steiger was named by the Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of five "Outstanding Young Men of Wisconsin." He received the "Distinguished Service Award" from the Oshkosh Jaycees in 1965.

In the Assembly, Steiger served on 10 committees and on the Legislative Council. He chaired the elections committee and headed the interim election laws study committee.

Steiger was endorsed as the GOP candidate for Congress by Sixth District Republicans in caucus March 29 at West Bend.

Herbert Pitz To Seek State Senate Seat

OSHKOSH — Herbert G. Pitz, chairman of the Winnebago County Board judiciary committee, announced today he will seek the post of 19th district state senator on the Democratic ticket. Announced on the GOP ticket is incumbent William A. Draheim of Neenah.

Pitz is serving his sixth consecutive term on the county board. Prior to 1957 he served four consecutive terms as member of the Oshkosh Common Council. He is currently vice chairman of both Winnebago County Guidance Center and Oshkosh Public Library board of directors. Pitz is a member of Aerie 267 Oshkosh Eagles and is president of the Ohio Street Civic Association of Oshkosh.

Pitz said he has supported the new Oshkosh High School issue, enlargement of the Oshkosh public library, reapportionment of the county board and enlarged and more adequate juvenile court facilities for Winnebago County.

Area Youths Forfeit Bonds In Waupaca Court

WAUPACA — Four area youths forfeited fines in Municipal Justice Court Tuesday. Three were for traffic violations and one for having open beer in a car.

Richard O. Erickson, 18, 528 Arlington St., Appleton, forfeited a $28 bond for not having a driver's license. He was involved in a one-car accident May 29 in the Town of Farmington.

James A. Gruenstein, 18, 147½ W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, forfeited $33 bond on a charge of operating a car on the wrong side of the road. He was arrested in the Town of Farmington following an accident June 3.

Neil G. Gurgella, 18, 950 Ann St., Menasha, was charged with driving too fast for conditions and forfeited a $33 bond. He was arrested June 11 after he struck the rear of a car with a motorbike he was riding in the Town of Farmington.

Richard D. Hake, 19, Country Estate Mobile Home Court, Appleton, was arrested June 12 and charged with having open beer in a moving vehicle. He forfeited a bond of $33.

Deer Killed When It Runs Onto Highway

NEW LONDON — A deer was killed when it was struck by a car at 5 a.m. Tuesday on Shawano Road (U.S. 45).

City police said the deer ran into the roadway from between the Glass Fab, Inc. and Krueger's Drive Inn buildings and was struck by a car driven by Leonard R. Huebner, 22, route 2.

Astronaut Wants To Race Autos

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr., who has streaked through space at 18,000 miles an hour, wants to drive an earthbound racer at speed about 170 miles an hour.

Cooper, part owner of a race car, told sports writer Ray Marquette of the Indianapolis Star in an interview at Atlanta, Ga., published in Wednesday editions:

"Some time, before the summer's out, I intend to get our car on a race track and check out in it. And then I'd like to run it in a race. I'm serious about this. I've driven sports cars and speedboats and modifieds in competition and I want to try the open cockpits."

Dr. Kagen Names Two Officers For Campaign

Dr. Marvin Kagen, Appleton physician, who is the Democratic Party candidate for the 8th District Congressional seat, today named two Appleton men to head his campaign committee.

Attorney Gordon Myse and businessman Les Balliet will be chairman and treasurer, respectively, of "Citizens for Dr. Marv Kagen."

Myse, 1320 E. Pershing St., former family court commissioner, is a member of the Outagamie, Wisconsin and American Bar Associations and Appleton Lions Club.

Les Balliet, 515 W. 5th St., is past chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic Party organization.

Members Volunteer to Work

Fox Valley Club's Course Taking Shape Near Freedom

KAUKAUNA — In an effort to make the course playable at the earliest possible date, members of Fox Valley Golf Club have been volunteering for work details the past few weeks at the club's new course being developed on County Trunk UU, south of Freedom.

Plans call for play to begin on the front nine of the course in July and use of the back nine later in the month or early in August.

Volunteer workers have been picking up rocks and stones from fairways and greens to permit greenskeepers and workmen to carry out cutting operations.

Started Last Fall

Utilization of the sprinkling system on fairways, tees and greens has given the grass a good start and with the warm nights, the course is rapidly turning green. Work on the clubhouse is progressing on schedule and the structure should be ready for use early next week. Volunteers also installed fencing and helped cut greens and fairways.

Work on the new course was started last fall and bad weather early this spring delayed the project slightly, but weather in the past two weeks has helped the course considerably.

The old Fox Valley Golf Club was sold and members of the club have been using the facilities at Countryside Golf Club, route 3, Kaukauna.

An announcement is expected later this week on when members can begin play on the new course.

Years of Wear Blamed

Water Main Parts At Three Joints

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Separation at the joints rather than a breakup of piping has been found to be the cause of the loss of 1.5 million gallons of water and a shutdown of water service to the Island Tuesday morning. Years of wear by water current was the apparent cause.

A Chicago diver groped under the murky waters of the Fox River for nearly a half hour this morning before emerging with his diagnosis. The diver, John Geschrey, a professional "hat" diver, was called in with a crew from McMullen & Pitz Construction Co., Manitowoc and Green Bay.

Geschrey, trailing an air line and wearing a heavy underwater helmet and diving suit, said after his walk along the river bottom off the south end of Appleton Street he believed it might be possible to move the water main back into line without replacing pipe.

He said the pipe has come apart at three joints. The main current of the river washes over the sections that have parted and has uncovered the main over a distance of more than 100 feet from the riverbank toward the middle of the stream, he said.

'Gave Way'

"She's been moving all these years and apparently finally just gave way," he remarked over the intercom speaker leading from his helmet to a monitor on shore.

Officials of the water utility said the water main was probably around 50 years old. Geschrey said the river bed had been eroded from under the pipe in some areas enough to put a hand under the water main. The uncovered pipe lead has been shifted downstream slightly, he reported.

While he said he believed it might be possible to merely realign the pipe and reseal the joints, he warned that the movement could possibly break other sections farther from the separations.

Utility officials and an officer of the Manitowoc firm planned to confer later this morning to set a course of action.

Ralph Herzog, supervisor of the diving operation for McMullen & Pitz, said Menasha was lucky to have located a diver who understands water main construction so quickly. He said Geschrey, who works under subcontract for the Manitowoc contractor, had completed a job on Manitowoc's water intake in Lake Michigan Tuesday and had planned to return to Chicago.

Neenah Water

The Island will continue to depend chiefly on Neenah for its water supply until the separated main is rejoined, F. Marion Hageman, Menasha utility superintendent, said this morning. Neenah officials have told him the emergency interconnection made Tuesday does not overburden the Neenah filtration plant.

No restrictions on Island water use in Menasha are presently planned, said Hageman. "We can get along all right without restrictions," said Hageman.

The main is one of two lines piping water to the Island. The other, only 12 inches in diameter, crosses the Government Canal and was installed chiefly to serve industries on the southwest side of the city. It is insufficient to serve the island without the added water from Neenah.

When the 16-inch Appleton Street main gave way about 1 a.m. Tuesday morning, 1.5 million gallons of water poured into the river and the entire city was without water for nearly an hour, while the Island was not connected with the Neenah system until 8 a.m.

Market Decline Dips Further

Reaction to U. S. Bombings Accepted In Relative Calm

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market decline deepened in moderate trading early this afternoon.

First reaction to the stepped up U. S. bombing of oil installations near Hanoi and Haiphong was relatively calm.

Brokers said the 16 point loss of the Dow Jones industrial average Tuesday and Monday apparently had considerably discounted the expected bombings.

Some brokers said they considered a new test of the May lows for the Dow Jones industrial average to be in full swing.

The Associated Press 60 stock average at noon had lost .8 to 316.4 with industrials off 1.6, rails off .4 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 5.57 at 875.33.

Higher At Opening

Prices were slightly higher at the opening but a gradual erosion set in.

Aircraft, electronics and airlines were particularly weak.

Boeing and Douglas lost more than a point among the aircrafts. Zenith fell a point and Sperry Rand was off about half a point. Eastern Air Lines dropped more than 2 points and Pan American World Airways, American Airlines and United Air Lines were down about 1½.

General Motors, Ford and American Motors lost about half a point.

General Electric fell more than 2 points and IBM lost 3.

Losses of a point or so were taken by Air Reduction, Polaroid, Xerox and Merck.

Prices declined in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Fire Captain Selected For Neenah

NEENAH — Lt. Ronald Mertz has been promoted to captain on the Neenah fire department effective this Friday, replacing Capt. Walter Lange who will retire after 35 years of service, Fire Chief Ferd Diesterhaupt announced today.

Other promotions on the department include fireman Gerald Sturges to lieutenant inspector, fireman Vernon Jankowski to ambulance driver, and fireman Robert Huffman to ambulance driver.

YMCA Planning Tour Of Milwaukee for Appleton Youngsters

A trip to Milwaukee for youngsters age 7 through junior high school is planned July 7 by the Appleton YMCA youth department.

Included in the itinerary will be a harbor boat cruise, a visit to the St. Lawrence Seaway, a tour of the streets of Old Milwaukee, at the public museum and time permitting, a visit to the county zoo.

The chartered bus leaves the Y at 8 a.m. and returns at 5 p.m.

Reservations may be made by calling the youth department office of the YMCA.

Planners Step Up City Hall Activity

NEENAH — Members of the plan commission stepped up their activity in the selection of a site for the proposed municipal building by setting down a tentative list of criteria for the location of the structure.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, urged the commissioners to become more active instead of leaving the whole job to members of the special site committee of the Neenah Menasha Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber was asked to assist the plans unit a few months ago in the selection of a site that would be compatible with future commercial development in downtown Neenah.

Chamber Recommendation

The chamber is expected to bring in its recommendation at the July 12 meeting of the plan commission and commissioners felt they would be ill prepared to discuss sites with chamber officials without further study on their part.

Boyle Advice to Young People Down-to-Earth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A columnist counts that year lost in which he doesn't write at least one article telling young people how to live.

The trouble with most advice of this kind is that it consists of high-sounding platitudes. It isn't specific enough.

So, as my good deed for 1966, here are a series of down-to-earth suggestions that should help any young man live a longer and happier life.

Never marry a girl for her money unless she signs half of it over to you before the ceremony.

Try to associate with people who have qualities you admire. But also keep one bum as a friend, too. Seeing the mistakes he makes should help keep you from making them yourself.

Always keep your seat belt buckled while riding in airplanes or automobiles.

Good Breakfast

If you're not a "take-charge" type, don't go into business for yourself. You'll do better working for others.

Eat a good breakfast, a light lunch and a light dinner.

Don't put up with bad meals. Insist that your wife learn to be a really good cook. It'll make you both happier.

Don't go skiing after 30, or play tennis after 40, unless you can run a mile without exhaustion.

Buy shoes and shirts a half size larger than you need. You may be choking your mind and feet to death without knowing it.

If you have to take aspirin more than once a month, change your way of living.

Make your vacations real adventures. Avoid going to the same place more than two years in a row.

If your boss or your job make you desperately unhappy, change them both — but better do it before you are 35.

Ask for a raise in pay once a year, whether you need it or not, whether you get it or not. Unless you yourself think you are worth more to the firm, the firm won't either.

Never brag or use a gold toothpick in public. It'll only make others envious.

Rarely drink a martini alone with your own wife — and never with another man's.

Smoke if you want to — so long as you don't inhale.

The worst of all habits is drinking at lunch. If you simply have to have one before lunch, wait to do it until the day you retire.

Never hold another man's coat in a quarrel. It ties up your hands, and you may be the one who winds up with the black eye.

Dont't argue with the income tax man. Why make a federal case out of it?

Listen carefully when anyone offers to give you an inside tip on the stock market, and write it down. Then tear up the paper, and forget it.

Walk three miles every day it isn't raining, and two miles when it is.

Read a Poem

See a sunrise and read a poem at least once every week as long as you live.

If you can't tell your wife you love her when you come home tired from the office, tell her at breakfast the next morning. Sometimes that takes even more character.

Intriguing Experiments Performed on the Heart

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M D

Readers who are interested in the heart — and aren't we all? — may be intrigued as I was with some experiments by Dr John Chomoskey and other at Harvard University.

A heart attack or coronary occlusion means that flow of blood to the heart muscle (or to part of it, rather) has been shut off by a clot or other means.

Once the patient has passed the immediate crisis increased blood flow develops in the collateral or smaller arteries compensating for the lost blood flow. There is, to be sure, some permanent damage to the heart muscle. There is necrosis or destruction of the part which has been deprived of circulation and thus of oxygen.

But the development of collateral circulation lets the heart return to reasonably efficient action and three out of four heart attack patients after sufficient rest and recuperation return to their jobs.

The experiments at Harvard have been with dogs. A ring shaped balloon is placed around the coronary (heart) artery of an animal. By blowing up the balloon circulation can be shut off as surely as it would be by a clot lodging inside. This is an artificial heart attack.

A dog's heart has a large network of collateral blood vessels and the researchers found that these smaller blood vessels go into vigorous use within seconds after flow is shut off. The main flow has been kept blocked for as long as 60 seconds, but afterward, when the ring-shaped balloon is deflated and blood flow resumes there is no detectable damage to the heart.

One of the curious aspects is that the dogs are very docile about the experiments. Once they become familiar with the laboratory they return for further experiments without reluctance.

A heart attack is very painful for humans, however. Some lesser attacks we know often are mistaken for severe indigestion or stomach cramps.

Why painful for people and not for dogs. Or does the pain not start until blood flow has been cut off for a longer time? Does a dog's large system of collateral blood vessels make the difference?

These are just a few of the questions raised by the experiments. For all we know about hearts there is much that we still need to know. The heart surgery that we read about is inspiring but equally significant progress may still lie before us not in repairing damage afterward but in knowing how to limit or prevent it in the beginning.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a college student and lately on examination days I develop diarrhea. I guess it's nerves but what can I do about it? — V. K.

For hypersensitive people this is not an unusual reaction to nerves, anxiety, worry. It's the type of problem that you can reasonably take to your doctor. He may prescribe a mild sedative or tranquilizer for use when your nerves start to tighten up. Or there are certain innocuous anti-diarrheal mixtures that he might prefer. I strongly suspect that after a short time you will find that you can face exams without this reaction — and presently you won't even need the medication.

Note to Mrs. G. M. Leukoplakia is not cancer, but it is rated as a precancerous condition. That is, it may or may not become malignant. It is pretty much a matter of choice whether to remove such spots as soon as they are found or to wait watchfully and remove them quickly if they show signs of changing.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, How To Take Care of Your Heart, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Think He'll Return To Scene of Crime?

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — William L. McGee, Portland, did not have far to walk to report his $25 ladder was stolen. He had been painting in the downtown police station.

Grand Jury Issues Lobby Indictments Before Adjourning

Action Against Two Bankers Brings Total of Accused to 13

MADISON (AP) — The Dane County grand jury that has been investigating legislative lobbying adjourned Tuesday after exactly three months of service, but not until after issuing two more indictments.

The indictments, against Donald N. Baxter, a vice president of Marshall & Ilsley Bank, Milwaukee, and Badger State Association of Banks, Stevens Point, brought the total number of indictments to 13 since the 17 member jury was convened March 28.

Baxter, who has been with Marshall and Ilsley for more than 25 years, was accused of false swearing, a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and three years in prison.

The Badger State Association of Banks was indicted for employing Roy A. Menzel and Robert Williams, both of Stevens Point, as unregistered lobbyists to rally support for the legislative repeal of Wisconsin's ban on branch banking.

Charge Misdemeanor

The charge against the association is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine ranging from $200 to $5,000.

Marshall and Ilsley was cited earlier as one of six banks accused of hiring unregistered lobbyists. Bribery charges were lodged against two state assemblymen and another Milwaukee banker as a result of the probe and a lobbyist was indicted for perjury and false swearing.

Circuit Judge Edwin Wilkie was assigned the association case for which no date has yet been scheduled.

The Badger association was a strong proponent of the branch banking bill. The measure passed the Assembly in 1965 but was killed this spring in the Senate. It would have lifted a prohibition that has been on the establishment of branch banks since 1947.

Fake Statements

Baxter, a resident of Elm Grove, is accused of "willfully, feloniously, and corruptly" making false statements to the jury.

The indictment quotes an extract between the jury and Baxter in support of the charges.

"To make it more specific, did you yourself make any contact with any legislators outside of your own legislative area?" is the question the jury said it put to Baxter.

"Absolutely none," was the quoted response. The indictment says investigation disclosed that Baxter "in truth and in fact" contacted legislators outside of his area, an act defined by the jury as lobbying.

Baxter said Tuesday night that his indictment was "incredible."

"Everything I told them was truthful," he said. "I am astonished that anyone could come to any other conclusion. I know that a trial will demonstrate that everything I told the grand jury was truthful."

Baxter's case was assigned to Judge William Sachtjen. No date was set for an appearance.

In another development Tuesday, Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, filed a motion in Circuit Court to dismiss the bribery indictment against him.

A hearing on the motion was scheduled for 2 p.m. today before Circuit Judge Norris Maloney.

Motions to dismiss the bribery indictment against Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, were filed late this morning.

The jury indicted Alfonsi last Wednesday for accepting a $100 check from resort owner Anthony Wise of Hayward in connection with the accelerated highway construction bill.

Hutnik stated in his motion the indictment does not state "facts sufficient to constitute an offense." He also maintained the Dane County court did not have jurisdiction over the alleged offense.

Coed Editor Will Appeal To High Court

Young Woman Fined $300 for Refusing To Reveal Sources

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Annette Buchanan's fight against being forced to reveal confidential news sources will go to the Oregon Supreme Court.

The 20-year-old student editor was fined $300 in State Circuit Court Tuesday for refusing to identify seven marijuana smokers she interviewed for a story in the University of Oregon newspaper last month.

Her attorney, Arthur Johnson, said in a news conference that William Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune and former Republican senator from California, had sent $300 for either the fine or legal expenses. Johnson estimated it would cost $2,500 to appeal to the Supreme Court.

Judge Edward Leavy said her rebuff of a court order to name the sources was contempt of court. He gave her the maximum fine, but did not impose a possible six month jail term.

Right of Oregon

"It appears to the court the right and remedy of the State of Oregon was defeated and prejudiced by the action of the respondent in her commission of the contempt which the court finds," said the judge.

Dist. Atty. William Frye hailed the decision: "The court's finding re-established the principle that a journalist has no special privilege to refuse to answer questions."

"There are substantial questions of law and constitutional rights involved, and it will be good for the matter to be heard on appeal," Johnson said.

Earlier he had asked the judge for a token sentence, saying, "Here we have a 20-year-old student who has been taught what her duties and her responsibilities to their profession are, and she acted within these teachings and in good faith."

Miss Buchanan said earlier she had told the marijuana smokers she would not divulge their names, and she was bound by that. Professional newspapermen testified the court should recognize it is important to press and public to have confidential news sources protected.

Twelve states have laws permitting the press to keep news sources confidential. Oregon does not.

Oregon Secretary of State Tom McCall, the Republican nominee for governor, called for Oregon's publishers and broadcasters to spearhead a drive for legislation to protect the identity of confidential news sources. McCall said he would push for such a law.

RFK Supreme in New York

Kennedy Favorite Cracks Tammany

By TOM POSTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy emerged today as undisputed leader of New York's Democratic party, strengthened by a smashing victory over once-powerful Tammany Hall in a normally obscure primary judgeship race.

Kennedy's hand-picked candidate for judge of the Surrogate (Probate) Court — Samuel J. Silverman — defeated the regular Manhattan organization candidate, Arthur Klein, in an open test of Kennedy's political strength. Both Silverman and Klein now are New York Supreme Court justices.

The race was the highlight of New York's primary elections, which also saw a Goldwater Republican defeat a candidate endorsed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, and an opponent of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy upset a veteran congressman.

Goldwater Republican

On suburban Long Island, Steven Derounian, who lost his congressional seat when he backed Barry Goldwater in the Johnson landslide of 1964, won the Republican nomination over GOP moderate William J. Casey.

From Washington, Goldwater said in a statement that Derounian's victory "was just one more convincing proof that mainstream of the Republican party is, as it always has been, common sense conservatism."

Casey was endorsed by Javits, but Javits did not campaign actively for him. Derounian will face Rep. Lester L. Wolff, the Democrat who defeated him two years ago, in the November election.

In Brooklyn, the powerful Democratic organization beat down two strong challenges against Rep. Edna Kelly, a Democratic national committeewoman, and Rep. Abraham Multer.

Third Generation

In an upstate Hudson Valley contest, Hamilton Fish, Jr., son and grandson of former congressmen, won the Republican nomination for Congress. He defeated Alexander Aldrich, a cousin and former aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Kennedy encouraged Silverman to enter the race for Manhattan surrogate last month after the New York County Republican organization followed Tammany Hall in endorsing Klein.

Kennedy was jubilant at Silverman campaign headquarters as his candidate claimed victory. The senator flew to Washington as the polls opened on a hot, humid afternoon. He returned shortly before the polls closed at 10 p.m. to cast his first primary vote since taking up residence in Manhattan last year.

Kennedy declared the Silverman victory was "of great significance to the people of New York and to the Democratic party."

The final unofficial tally of Silverman's surprisingly strong showing gave him 70,771 votes. Klein received 47,625 and a third candidate, Criminal Court Judge Thomas Rohan, received 8,084.

Pope Visits Shrine To Honor Peter, Paul

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI marked today's major Roman Catholic feast day of saints Peter and Paul with a visit of prayer and meditation Tuesday night to the grotto beneath St. Peter's Basilica.

There the pontiff knelt at a small shrine of polished marble erected on the site where St. Peter was believed buried almost 20 centuries ago.

Seattle's Killer Whale Remains in Headlines

By DALE NELSON

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — When Edward L. Griffin talked to a high school class studying Herman Melville's "Moby Dick," he summed up his lecture, and a lot more, in eight words.

"Ahab had his whale, and I have mine."

A year has passed since Ted Griffin's whale swam into a salmon net near the canners' town from which the whale would take his name— Namu, B.C.

In that year, Namu has become the main attraction of Griffin's Seattle Public Aquarium, starred in a movie, been the focus of a civic controversy, undergone an electrocardiogram, put on weight and made money for Griffin.

Killer Whale

Namu is a killer whale. Griffin bought him for $8,000 from his fisherman captors and had him towed here in a pen.

At the aquarium on Elliott Bay, Namu puts on five shows a day, alternating with a trained seal act. His biggest crowd pleaser is a turn in which he leaps from the water for a salmon which Griffin dangles from a tower. The whale's owner, wearing a plastic suit, also goes bareback riding on his whale.

Namu spent the winter behind a submarine net in Rich Cove, across Puget Sound, where scenes were shot for the movie, "Namu the Killer Whale."

While his pet was in Rich Cove, Griffin came up with a plan to install him in a two-acre marine park to be built at the Seattle Center, site of the 1962 World's Fair. Mayor Dorm Braman, the Seattle Center Advisors Commission, and the City Council endorsed the plan. But it drew opposition, especially from youth organizations, which urged that the site be set aside for a teen-age center instead. Griffin withdrew his proposal in February, but says he hopes to submit it again.

Whale's Heartbeat

How do you measure a whale's heartbeat? Dr. Merrill P. Spencer of Seattle's Virginia Mason Foundation for Medical Education and Research did it with a plumber's friend. A suction cup, equipped with sensors connected to a recorder, was stuck on Namu's chest.

Griffin figures Namu is about 6 or 10 years old. The whale is estimated at four tons a 25 feet long, three feet longer than when captured. Its weight year ago. To arrive at the weight of a whale, you measure the girth at strategic points and then calculate the water displacement. When Namu got up to six tons a few months ago, its diet was cut from 400 pounds of salmon a day to 325 pounds.

Wants Mate

Killer whales enter Puget Sound when the salmon are running, and anyone seeing one is asked to telephone the aquarium collect. Griffin wants a mate for Namu. He has used boats, helicopters, and tranquilizer-injecting harpoons in the search, but abandoned the latter for nets after two harpooned cow whales died. He did catch one, which he named Shamu, but said it was too small for Namu. Shamu was sold to a San Diego aquarium.

Not long ago, Dan Starr, publisher of the Seattle Post Intelligencer, attended a luncheon in New York. Another guest asked him where he was from.

"Seattle," said Starr.

"Oh, yes," replied the Duke of Windsor. "You have a killer whale out there, haven't you?"

We have indeed.

Namu Is a Killer Whale. the first Orcinus Orca to be taken captive and live, but he's on friendly terms with Edward L. Griffin, as Griffin proves by coming close to Namu's mean set of teeth. Namu is the star attraction of Griffin's Seattle Public Aquarium where he pleases crowds with his antics five times a day. (AP Wirephoto)

Episcopal Church Drives to Legalize California Abortions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A full-time ministry in the field of therapeutic abortion reform has been taken by an Episcopal priest.

The Episcopal Diocese of California announced that the Rev. Lester Kinsolving, vicar of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Salinas, Calif., will take charge next month of the newly established Northern California office in San Francisco of the California Committee on Therapeutic Abortion.

The committee is moving for legislative change in the state abortion laws to make it possible for doctors to legally perform therapeutic abortion — in cases such as rape, incest or grave impairment to the health of the mother.

France to Begin Nuclear Test Series in Pacific

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — France plans to hold the first in its series of nuclear tests in the Pacific on Thursday if the weather permits. Otherwise the test will be held as soon as possible after Thursday, Overseas Minister Pierre Billotte said Monday.

Sources in Paris said the initial test will include two atomic bombs of less than 100 kiloton power. Another series has been scheduled for August and a test involving hydrogen bomb elements for September, the sources said.

'Magnificent,' General Says of First Infantry

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

QUAN LOI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. William E. DePuy nodded as he spoke of the young soldiers serving in the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

"They are magnificent. I believe it's the first time the Army has had troops who are more aggressive than their training permits. Our problem is to give them more training so they won't be killed because of their willingness to fight."

Spoiling for Fight

DePuy is a close man with words, and he thought briefly before continuing.

"They will go, these young men. Take 10 of them — they'll charge right into the enemy. It is a tremendous responsibility for our officers to command these men."

DePuy, a North Dakotan nicknamed "Peppy DePuy" — pronounced de pew — by the men of the "Big Red One" division, is spoiling for a fight.

Last week, as if taunting the reluctant Viet Cong, DePuy spread his division over 100 square miles in the jungles and rice paddies just north of Saigon. As the seeker in a deadly game of hide-and-seek, DePuy had troops of one or two-battalion strength in 12 different locations, moving them like pawns on a chessboard.

"We're looking for them, we want to fight them, we have never been deployed more broadly," DePuy said.

Referring to the Viet Cong, he added, "They can't attack all 12 places at once. And we have the mobility to react in any emergency."

El Paso II

Although the 1st Division troops have encountered only small guerrilla units so far during their current operation, El Paso II, DePuy anticipates "some bloody battles this summer."

Maj. Gen. DePuy

"We have the southeast monsoon and then the northwest monsoon," DePuy said, "and I expect September to be the worst month. I am confident the Viet Cong will try something big. I am confident they will be defeated."

DePuy also is confident that any momentum the Communist forces may have built up before the massive commitment of U.S. troops last year has been shattered.

"I am sure the Viet Cong are staying awake nights trying to use their forces to gain a dramatic victory," he said, "but U.S. forces are astride of their supply lines. Now, if they fight us they will be defeated. And as an army they can't continue without a victory. They've become awful conservative."

'Chopper' Shortage

Despite his confidence and optimism, DePuy is plagued by the shortage of Army helicopters in this "chopper" war, as is every other allied commander.

"The critical shortage is in the medium sized Chinooks — to move troops, artillery and supplies," he said, "but we've learned to live with less."

Born in Jamestown, N.D., DePuy, 46, took reserve officers training at South Dakota State in Brookings and became an infantry second lieutenant in 1941. He landed with the 357th Infantry on D-Day in the invasion of Normandy and remained in the European campaign until the end of World War II.

Asked about the chances of non-West Pointers advancing to the rank of general, DePuy pointed out that none of the 1st Division's general staff went through West Point. Brig. Gen. James F. Hollingsworth was graduated from Texas A&M and Brig. Gen. Melvin Zais from the University of New Hampshire.

DePuy, a slight, energetic man with greying, short hair, spoke of his Army career at his forward command post before flying off to check his troops.

DePuy's wife, Marjory, and his son and two daughters reside in Washington. His mother, Mrs. Richard M. DePuy, lives in Brookings.

Bubonic Plague In New Mexico Starts Game Hunt

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Bubonic plague has put New Mexico rancher Juan Jaramillo, 72, in the hospital and sent State Health Department employes on a search for plague-carrying wild animals.

A laboratory report received Tuesday by state health officials confirmed Jaramillo's illness as Bubonic Plague. Jaramillo, of Servilleta in north-central New Mexico, entered the Veterans Administration hospital in Albuquerque June 10. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Health Department teams are trapping wild animals in the area in an effort to determine which might be carrying plague infected fleas.

Parishioners and Friends helped the Very Rev. Edmund Kramer, OFM Cap., assistant pastor at St. Joseph Parish, celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination Monday at an open house. Talking with the priest are Mrs. Helen McDaniel, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bushman. A solemn high mass of thanksgiving and a dinner are planned at 6 p.m. today. (Post-Crescent Photo)

A Javanese Farmer patiently guides his pair of water buffalo through the thick mud of his paddy while the nation's economy spirals downward. Despite the economic situation, most Indonesians still have enough to eat. Below, a young Indonesian boy strolls along Jakarta street barefoot and clothed in rags — in a country with immense natural resources. (AP Wirephotos by Horst Faas)

Indonesia Called Rich in Resources, Desperately Poor

Great Contrasts Mark Land Of Widespread Pessimism

EDITOR'S NOTE — Incredibly rich in natural resources, Indonesia nevertheless is desperately poor. This story about Indonesia today, with pictures by AP photographer Horst Faas, tells about the nation's economy.

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)

"Indonesia may improve itself — by the year 2000," the retired government official said. Then his voice trailed off and he stared moodily at the wall.

His depression summed up the widespread pessimism in Indonesia, a nation incredibly rich in natural resources but still desperately poor.

Great Contrasts

Despite its poverty, and the annual gloomy reports by Western analysts that Indonesia is on the brink of economic collapse, Indonesia will keep going.

It is a nation of contrasts, a nation where millions of its people are without shoes and only rags to wear, but a nation where oil simply runs out of the ground. It is a nation where rubber trees sprout where seeds drop, where rice fields swirl in emerald rivers across the volcanic land.

The wealth of Indonesia also lies in its quinine, pepper, kapok, tea, tin and coffee.

But since Indonesia declared its independence from Dutch colonial rule in 1945, it has made little headway in building a stable economy. In cold figures, Indonesia owes $2.4 billion in foreign debts. The interest rate alone comes to about $470 million each year, equal to Indonesia's estimated export earnings for this year.

But the poverty of this rich land can better be seen in the people who struggle with it. In Solo, a major city in central Java, women work 15 hours a day sitting on a dirt floor making batik, the impregnated cloth for which Indonesia is famous. They earn seven rupiahs a day, the equivalent of seven cents or less on open market exchange rates.

A former ranking government official in Malang, central Java, is forced against his pride to take in boarders to make ends meet.

In teeming Jakarta, thousands live along the turgid canals lacing the city, cooking, bathing, drinking and relieving themselves in the canal. They have no home and no future.

Inflation is a constant leech. The cost of living rose 600 per cent in 1963 and still is going up.

How Indonesians survived the increase, with no salary raise, remains a mystery even to economic experts here. The most apparent answer, as one Indonesian put it, was "we just ate less."

Again, in the paradox of Indonesia, there is little sign of food shortages outside the major cities. Rice grows everywhere, as do fruits and vegetables. For the vast majority of Indonesians, 90 per cent of whom live in the countryside, food comes as naturally as the rains.

Vague Plans

Failure in Indonesia's economy lies within the complex and vague plans periodically set forth by the government. Overseeing it all, until the most recent government shakeup in March, was President Sukarno.

No small part of the blame for economic failures here must lie with him.

Indonesia is now in the final two years of its eight-year plan, which President Sukarno once described as "rich in fantasy." Its practicality, however, is difficult to discern.

An indication of the fantasy surrounding economics comes from the preparation of the eight-year plan. It was presented to Sukarno in 17 volumes, in eight sections, with 1,945 paragraphs. All this was done to symbolize Indonesia's declaration of independence on Aug. 17, 1945.

Economy Crumbles

While the economy crumbled under him, President Sukarno continued to order the construction of a prestige projects aimed at raising the status of Indonesia in the eyes of the so-called new emerging forces. These include a high-rise department store with nothing in it.

Sukarno sparked angry demonstrations by a statement earlier this year when he saw people buying flowers for a major Moslem holiday. If they can afford flowers, they can afford food, he declared.

Failures in Indonesia's economy can be traced to Dutch colonial rule. In the 300 years the Dutch ruled these islands, they did almost nothing to build a foundation for an Indonesian-run economy. Yet Indonesia, directly or indirectly, provided income for one in every seven Dutchmen.

The Dutch installed a dual economy, one for hard cash in export-import dealings run by the Dutch. The second was a village level program that was geared to the existence level only. Chinese were used as middlemen between the Dutch and the Indonesians, to the profit of the Chinese.

20 Years of Failure

But despite this program, the failures over the past 20 years are difficult to explain away, even by Indonesian government officials. Much of the blame is laid simply on the lack of practical foresight.

One noted author on Indonesia commented "Like the Russian general who didn't like war because it destroyed discipline in the army, Indonesian leadership has tended to treat serious economic reform as if its purpose were to destroy the harmony of the people's poverty."

Flashes of life in Indonesia point up the pressing needs of the people. Transportation is highly erratic, almost non existent in many areas. Trains run sporadically and are so overcrowded some passengers ride on the engine.

The national airline runs a haphazard schedule to many parts of the island. But it is easy to be stranded a week on some island because of infrequent flights. Passengers returning from Bali often have to wait two extra hours while pilots stop for eggs on the next island which they sell at a profit in Jakarta.

Bribery Theft

Ships waiting to come into port at Jakarta have to pay large bribes to get berthings or they will be kept waiting weeks in the outer harbor. Once unloading begins, great amounts of the cargo may be pilfered. Soldiers have openly robbed several ships.

A market scene in the central Java city of Purwoktero points up the needs of the country. The market itself was scattered across a railroad track, indicating how infrequently the train ran.

The market, like any other, was open, with mothers shuffling through the fly-covered vegetables and eels, chewing betel nuts and nursing a child.

The people, however, were sensitive about having their picture taken. They complained their clothes were not nice and their hair not fixed. Both were understatements since the clothes were full of holes and the hair full of lice. But the reluctance indicated they had known better times, and hoped for them to come again.

The prospects for better times are dim for the immediate future and it will take massive infusions of foreign capital. Despite face-slappings handed Western creditors in the past, they are coming back.

Seductive Indonesia, bathed in oil, wrapped in rubber, sprinkled with coffee, and heady with spices, cannot be ignored.

Top Drama Portrayed in 'The Game'

BY JV SCOUT

8:9 (Channels 4 5) A second look at The Game on Bob Hope Presents reveals more clearly why it was one of the best original dramas of the past season. Besides a bang up performance by Cliff Robertson as a ham as square who goes into orbit at a swanky French gambling casino it offers superior direction by Sydney Pollack who turns S. Lee Pogostin's script into a vivid portrait of a fallen innocent. Both Robertson and Pollack won Emmys for their work although viewers may wonder why the solid acting of Maurice Evans Dina Merrill and Nehemiah Persoff was overlooked.

6:07 (Channels 11 6 9) Batman and Robin are out to unmask the notorious False Face who is out to flood Gotham City with counterfeit money. You never see False Face carrying but he's actor Michael Ebrone the Master of Devilish Disguises. He turns up in several facades including masks of Chief O'Hara and a little old lady. (R Color)

6:08 (Channel 5) Trampas has just contend with more than he bargained for on The Virginian. His mission is to bring back a mail order bride for an Eastern rancher and before it's over he's up to his neck in Indians bandits and problems with the bride to be a teasing little hussy played by Kathryn Crosby. (Color R)

7:08 (Channels 11 6 9) Bachelor has another nonsense assistant. Robert Goulet has the job of protecting a millionaire bent on suicide so the Government can learn his secrets. Goulet doesn't really mind it much as he's in love but first he wants the secrets himself. (R Color)

8:9 (Channels 11 6 9) The Big Valley has a so so adventure. Good Guy Harold Richard Long investigates a murder while his family keeps Bad Guy Gil Robert Yuro under wraps in their home. Meanwhile hungry haunts hunters and an irascible judge and sheriff sniff at their doorstep. (R Color)

8:09 (Channels 2 7 12) — The Dick Van Dyke Show has a devastating switch on My Fair Lady. Rob and Laura inherit the ugliest dog in the world they call him Horrible and try to beautify the beast so someone will give him a home. (R)

'Overnight' Success Story Started at 9

Singer John Gary Begins 3rd Career With New TV Show

HOLLYWOOD AP — John Gary is inclined to smile wryly when associates comment "Isn't it great now that you're an overnight success?"

A success he is — hot in the night clubs and on discs starring for CBS this summer on the John Gary show replacing Danny Kaye.

Overnight? Forget it. John was singing to huge audiences at an age when most boys are playing Little League. His splendid soprano won him a singing scholarship in New York at the age of 9 and he came on up the river from his home New Orleans La.

Later John was singing for USO shows and in Ken Murray's marathon Blackouts show in Hollywood.

"I was in the show for a year and a half" he recalled. "Then one night I was singing When Irish Eyes Are Smiling to Marie Wilson and my voice cracked. I lost my soprano and my career at the same time."

Later he learned to sing again by studying the records of Tony Bennett Vic Damone Perry Como and others. He still does impressions of them in his night club act but he also developed a style of his own — melodic romantic pitched higher than most baritones.

John's career was going well until he encountered something he couldn't lick rock 'n roll. He figured he couldn't survive amid such dissonance and so went into the salvage business in New Orleans.

What lured me back was seeing singers like Jack Jones Andy Williams and Robert Goulet make it in the record field" he said. "I figured there might be a chance for me."

He could sell in clubs and his rendition of Danny Boy was heard by an executive of the Kaye show. That led to three guest shots with Kaye last season. During the past season Gary appeared nine times as part of the plan to groom him for the summer takeover.

'Virginia Woolf' Movie Hailed as Oscar Work

Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton Star In Film Version of Edward Albee Play

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edward Albee's study of faculty life at a small college "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" had its world premiere at the Hollywood Pantages before one of the most stellar audiences in recent times.

Everyone wanted to see if the movie proved as good as the advance notice. It did. Seldom has such searing drama been laced with outrageous comedy been viewed on a movie screen.

As of now the film is the front runner for the 1966 Oscars in all departments. Elizabeth Taylor abandons all glamor to play a blowzy brawling harridan with utter conviction. Richard Burton for the first time registers as a screen actor rather than as a stage performer working at films.

Sandy Dennis and George Segal are superb as the young couple who stumble into the wild drunken night. The screen play of Ernest Lehman who also produced curbs most of the excess wordiness of the play. And Mike Nichols makes the most impressive debut as a director since Orson Welles filmed "Citizen Kane."

The first reviews were unanimously enthusiastic. Philip K. Scheuer Los Angeles Times: "Monumental. A masterwork." George H. Jackson Los Angeles Herald Examiner: "A fiery experience." Daily Variety: "Brilliant. An artistic bull's eye." Hollywood Reporter: "A masterpiece."

Oddly the premiere audience seemed restrained. Perhaps it was because a professional audience is often less responsive than a general one. Perhaps the savagery of the Albee characters and the shock of their language suppressed reaction.

May Shock Some

The film was made in defiance of large portions of the film industry's self censorship code. The beleaguered code administrator Geoffrey Shurlock denied the film a seal because of its obvious infractions. He was overruled by a court of last resort — the company presidents.

The film will doubtless shock rather than entertain some Americans.

In his speech to the film industry this week Jack Valenti the new president of the producers association promised yet another revision of the code. Does this portend a flood of films even more profane and explicit than "Virginia Woolf"? Can they be made with the same artistry of the Burtons et al.

These are problems now facing Mr. Jack Valenti late of the White House.

Harrington Asks Flexibility In Hiring at UW

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — University of Wisconsin President Fred H. Harrington called for greater flexibility in hiring staff outside of the state classified service to fill positions which in other state agencies are considered civil service jobs.

Harrington said that the wide range of skills needed by the UW, the high quality performance required, and the quick changes which are common in university work make it necessary to employ workers hard to recruit and classify under a statewide system.

Harrington said that there were two solutions possible for the problems presented by the classified service system. The state could create a totally separate civil service system for its universities as many neighboring states have done, he said, or it could work to end the handicaps in the present system.

Revise Authority

He also suggested that the state could delegate administrative authority in its service system to the university for decisions in recruitment, classification, examination scheduling, and certification of university personnel in the classified service.

Separate pay schedules also could be developed, he suggested, to cover professional fields to meet competitive conditions based on the employment possibilities open to members of these professional groups.

Harrington's call for increased flexibility in hiring was echoed by Eugene McPhee, secretary of the Board of Regents of State Colleges.

Both men were invited to appear before the study committee, which as a part of its deliberations is examining the problem of non-teaching personnel occupying unclassified service positions in both university systems. Included in the lists of such unclassified workers are architects, for example.

'Pseudo-Faculty'

Committee chairman Assemblyman Glen Pommerening, R-Wauwatosa, called such staff members "pseudo-faculty, who never see a student."

University academic staff members are exempt from civil service classification, and many of the unclassified personnel in question have been awarded faculty status.

Carl Wettengel, director of the State Bureau of Personnel, told the committee that other agencies are disturbed by the possibility of the state university systems hiring professional staff members away for higher salaries than are allowed under the state civil service pay scales.

Commissioner of Administration George Kaiser said that while some problem does exist in keeping all pay scales perfectly current, the state does believe that its pay is competitive with that offered by private industry.

Harrington said that the UW has a policy of not hiring staff members of other state agencies, although that policy has been violated from time to time. It only hires state employes if they have decided to leave the agency for which they work, and even then, the UW refuses to hire more than 90 per cent of those who attempt to get university jobs, he said.

But Harrington urged that the committee not consider a blanket prohibition on such job transfers. All state workers, he said, must be allowed to aspire to a university position if they desire.

In answer to a query, Harrington told Wettengel that the UW would not oppose the abolition of a law which requires that any person moving from the classified service to the unclassified be allowed to return to his same civil service classification within one year of the transfer.

Wettengel said that the section "creates havoc" in state agencies.

In response to the education administrators' statements, committee member Sen. Taylor Benson, D-Franksville, said, "what you are telling us is don't rock the boat."

Later, L. P. Voigt, Conservation Department director, was grilled by several legislative representatives on the commission regarding department appointment practices.

The legislators maintained that state civil service law required that the department director make appointments from lists of certified candidates supplied by the State Bureau of Personnel. Once the list has been supplied, they said, an appointment must be made to fill a vacancy.

Voigt maintained that a department head must be allowed discretionary power to make no appointments or to name a person to the position on a temporary basis if the director feels that candidates on the list are not qualified, despite having received certification.

3 Fined at Little Chute On Conduct Charges

LITTLE CHUTE — Daniel DeGroot, 20, 621 S. Taylor St., Little Chute, and Miss Maribeth Countney, 19, 120½ E. Spring St., Appleton, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct counts Monday when they appeared before Municipal Justice Raymond Saunders, and each was fined $20.

They were arrested Sunday at Dovie Park.

John A. Rooyakkers, 19, 137 S. Washington St., Kimberly, was fined $10 on a disorderly conduct charge. He admitted breaking beer bottles on the grounds at the American Legion picnic.

Complaints From Farmers

Deer Damage Claims Top Available Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State money available for paying indemnities for deer damage will be considerably less than the total of claims filed by farmers and other landowners, the state conservation department said today, so that the state won't be able to meet such valid claims in full.

George Sprecher, assistant director of the department, explained that the plan to prorate money available at the end of the fiscal year on July has caused a delay in the payments to the claimants.

He commented on the complaint of an Outagamie County legislator that some farmers in his district are losing "half of their crops" and have been unable to get satisfaction of their claims from the state department.

Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek carried the protests of farmers to the Legislative Council, which turned the subject over to its Conservation Committee for study.

Methods

Other members of the Council asked for a review of the state's methods of handling claims for damages caused by other wild creatures, including the geese and ducks which feed on farmers' field near the big wildlife preserve at Horicon.

Methods Review

Lorge said the state probably ought to consider an all year deer shooting season in such agricultural counties as Outagamie where there has been an enormous eruption of deer numbers. He said he could bring "bus-loads of farmers to the Capitol to testify" that some of them are in danger of being "wiped out."

Sprecher explained that the $40,000 a year provided in law for the payment of deer damages also covers bear damage claims from the northern counties. Prorating the money available means that all claimants who are approved are paid a proportionate share of the money available.

2 Youths Pay $250 for Racing On Motorbikes

WAUPACA — Racing their motor bikes on a public highway cost an Appleton youth and a Milwaukee youth a total of $250, Tuesday when one appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty and the other forfeited a bond.

James R. Laux, 18, 2515 W. 4th St., Appleton, appeared in court and was fined $100 and costs. James D. Skiba, 20, Milwaukee, forfeited a $150 bond.

Both were arrested May 29 by county police after they were seen racing near the Indian River Crossing on County Trunk Q in the Town of Farmington. During the race Skiba lost control of his bike and fell off.

Fast Action Needed On Lake Michigan To Curb Pollution

Speakers at Governor's Parley Note Shoreline Deterioration

Post-Crescent News Service

MILWAUKEE — Twenty speeches here Tuesday stressed the need for accelerated action to abate Lake Michigan pollution.

Serious deterioration already exists along the shorelines, and there is growing concern for the life of the big reservoir.

Industrial wastes, domestic sewage, situation, fertilizers and pesticides figure in the picture of clouded waters.

But there are indications that public opinion will support the pollution fight on every front.

Agencies to Cooperate

And there is hope that the agencies and interests involved will engage in the fight on an increasingly cooperative basis.

The 20 speakers staged their marathon at a special governor's conference on Lake Michigan pollution. They represented state, federal and local approaches to the problem.

A similar conference, with the emphasis on the Green Bay area, is scheduled Thursday at the Hotel Northland in Green Bay. Gov. Warren Knowles will make the keynote address at 9:30 a.m.

The governor called the two meetings for the purpose of assembling facts as the basis for organizing further action. The Milwaukee session drew an unexpectedly large registration of some 225 men and women.

State Lauded

A speaker on the federal level lauded Wisconsin's recently enacted anti-pollution legislation.

"This action strengthens the state's clean waters program and is indicative of strong public concern over a vital natural resource," said Harold Jordahl, Madison, regional coordinator for the Interior Department. Jordahl is a former director of the State Department of Resource Development and previously was in the State Conservation Department.

Jordahl stressed the need for cooperation and said that repetitive debating over the roles of federal and state agencies does nothing to clean up Lake Michigan.

"Federal assistance can be of material help," he asserted. He described various programs and assistance provided by the Interior Department which states are finding beneficial in fighting pollution.

Lake Erie

Jordahl warned that Lake Michigan could find itself in the same sad state that has overcome Lake Erie. Already, he said, there is evidence of serious damage in some areas of the lake, particularly the southern end and in Green Bay.

"Scientists are cautious in their statements, but it is obvious that there is concern among them," he said.

James H. McDermott, assistant attorney general, describing the new Wisconsin law to fight pollution, said, "the bill will introduce profound changes in procedure and will provide powerful tools for the pollution fight."

A report on the Lake Michigan situation in the Milwaukee area was presented by W. Q. Kehr, Chicago, project director on water pollution control for the U.S. Department of Interior. The report carried recommendations virtually echoing advice that has come from state agencies for several years.

Secondary Treatment

Kehr said municipalities should provide secondary treatment for sewage, treatment plants should be operated at maximum efficiency, and municipalities and industries should be inspected regularly to determine how well they are treating their wastes.

Gov. Knowles criticized Kehr for releasing the report — long awaited by the state — in advance of the conference. Kehr told a reporter, however, that the report was made available to some newspapers by another official in the Chicago office.

T. F. Wisniewski, director of the State Committee on Water Pollution, reviewed pollution surveys that have been made along the western shore of Lake Michigan. Wisniewski's office will become part of the new legislation is implemented. legislation is emplemented.

Surveys were undertaken as far back as 1950, according to Wisniewski. In Sheboygan, for example, a 1951 survey resulted in the issuance of 52 abatement orders. A second survey in 1963 found that 26 sources of pollution required action.

Repeat Surveys

Wisniewski noted that it has been impossible to make repeat surveys as often as desirable. A Milwaukee survey in 1952 produced 37 abatement orders, but they had to wait until this year to begin a second study.

Surveys are the only certain means of ascertaining the sources and extent of pollution, the state official said. He indicated that considerable improvement has resulted from the issuance of orders.

L. A. Montie, director of public sewerage facilities for the State Board of Health, said there are 425 municipal treatment plants in the state, with 65 in the Lake Michigan Basin.

At present, according to Montie, there are some 260 certified plant operators. Under the new law, all operators must have certification by Jan. 1, 1969. Montie reported steady progress in the installation of secondary treatment facilities, but pointed out that many of the older plants should be enlarged because of growth in population and because of new wastes.

Excess Clear Water

"The main problems are excess clear water in the sewage systems and the need for extending sewers to serve developing areas," Montie said.

Sol Burstein, a vice president of the Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee, refuted claims often made that power companies are raising the temperature of surface waters excessively.

Has No Effect

"If the plant is on a large body of water it has no effect whatever," Burstein contended. "On a small body, however, it may affect the temperature for five miles, perhaps 10 miles downstream, but these are rare exceptions."

Emory Tellock, 47, Greenville Town Supervisor, Dies

HORTONVILLE — Emory Tellock, 47, route 2, A supervisor of the Greenville town board for the past three years, died in Appleton this morning.

Tellock, a life-long resident of the Town of Greenville, was a member of the Hortonville Rural Fire Department, Greenville Civic Club and Immanuel Lutheran Church and its Men's Club.

He is survived by his widow, four daughters, his parents, one sister and two foster sisters.

Friends may call at the Borchardt and Moder Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. at the church with burial in the parish cemetery.

Appleton Officials Add Water Use Restrictions

having difficulty with a valve on a discharge pump at the plant, according to Gallaher. He said the plant would have to operate part of the day with that difficulty.

Gallaher said that with the new restrictions, the city "will be safe for another 24 hours."

Authority to order the restrictions must come from the PSC, Gallaher said that when he talked to the chief engineer of the PSC, the official told him the PSC would approve a written request from the water utility to impose restrictions.

Written Request

Gallaher planned to send a written request to the PSC today to verify the verbal approval. He expects written approval from the PSC Thursday.

If necessary, the utility will have the authority to impose further restrictions, including reduction of water use by commercial and industrial customers except where food supply and public health would be seriously affected, and limiting the use of water for non-conserving air-conditioning units.

The closing of Erb Park Pool was ordered due to a leakage in the pool, which has added to the normal daily water loss.

DeLand said "We have been sitting here since Monday waiting for rain. We can't wait any longer."

No Rain in Sight

The weather forecast calls for a continuation of the hot, dry spell, with no rain in sight until possibly this weekend. There has been no appreciable amount of rain since June 17.

Gallaher and DeLand suggested, and Buckley agreed, that the city ordinance which now allows restricting lawn sprinkling from 5 to 8 p.m. on alternate days by residents on alternate sides of the street should be changed. This restriction has been in effect since last Saturday.

Buckley told Gallaher and DeLand he will see that an ordinance is introduced to prohibit lawn sprinkling for 24 hours by residents on alternate sides of the street.

Buckley urged Appleton residents to cooperate in adhering to the new restrictions.

analyzed and resolved in that manner, rather than on a piecemeal political unit approach."

Carley did say, however, that he would be delivering a position paper later this week on the state's problem in setting up area vocational school districts.

"The Republican Party," he stated, "is too old-fashioned for an advanced community like Appleton. The self-awareness of this community is exemplified by its private urban renewal programs, and its revitalized urban planning indicates to me that the city and Outagamie County are in sympathy with the achievements and goals of the Democratic Party."

Carley, who made his remarks during an interview at The Post-Crescent, began plant gate campaigning at 5:15 a.m. at the Kimberly-Clark Corp. mill in Kimberly. He has scheduled appearances throughout the Appleton area up to 11:15 p.m.

Steinhilber Is Candidate For Assembly

Young Assemblyman Is Opposed by Incumbent John Race

OSHKOSH — Jack D. Steinhilber, 802 Eastman St., Oshkosh, former Winnebago County district attorney, has taken out nomination papers for the First Assembly District seat which includes 16 of the 20 supervisory districts in the City of Oshkosh.

At the same time, Kenneth C. Rietz, who has previously circulated papers for the post, announced today that he is withdrawing from the race. He cited "personal reasons" for his withdrawal and said he would work for the election of William Steiger to congress.

Rietz's withdrawal and Steinhilber's entry still maintains a three-way primary fight for the GOP nomination for the assembly seat being vacated by Steiger. Other candidates are Oshkosh City Councilman Leonard Wright and former councilman Wallace Zahn.

Steinhilber served as district attorney from 1957 to 1964. He ran unsuccessfully in 1964 for the GOP nomination for congress against the then incumbent William Van Pelt and this spring was unsuccessful in seeking the GOP endorsement, won by Steiger, to run against congressman John Race.

After relinquishing the district attorney's post, Steinhilber was named special counsel to the Winnebago County Board to represent the county in the airport fight against Outagamie County.

He is married and has one daughter.

when the accelerated programs are most urgently needed.

This is keeping up with the progressive tradition that Wisconsin is so well known for, Dr. de Zonia said.

What the future holds remains to be seen, they agreed, but increased funds will be needed to keep it on the upswing.

History Traced

Prior to the panel discussion, Dr. Walter Peterson, Lawrence history professor, gave a complete background to the education at Lawrence. He traced the history from every president of the institution and how it had expanded to bring in all academic schools.

14 to be Presented at North Shore's 28th Assembly Ball

Fourteen young women whose parents are members of North Shore Golf Club will be introduced at this years Assembly Ball, scheduled at the club July 9. The 1966 presentation will be the 28th in North Shore tradition, and is the highlight of the summer for the young women who have just finished high school and reached their 18th years.

Presentees this season will be Miss Gwy Ann Aldridge Miss Linda Christine Buchanan Miss Anne Kimberly Des Marais Miss Sarah Lane Dickinson, Miss Ann Marie Fieweger Miss Barbara Mory Gilbert Miss Mary Margaret Hohler Miss Anne Hyde Miss Helen Gray Johnson Miss Karen Sue McDermott Miss Laura Lawson Moore Miss Shawn O Brien Miss Linda Louise Pertain and Miss Frances DePuy Peterson.

The young women have already been guests of honor at a number of parties. They and their mothers were guests at a June 14 luncheon at North Shore at which hostesses were Mrs. H. H. Des Marais Mrs. Ken S. Dickinson Jr. Mrs. John J. Hohler Mrs. John McDermott and Mrs. C. Andre Pertain. Mrs. Robert O Brien Jr. and her daughter Shawn were hostesses at a noon luncheon today at their home.

Before The Ball

Assembly Ball night usually becomes a round of parties for the honorees. Mrs. James Buchanan will be hostess assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson at a pre-ball coketail party for the girls and their escorts. After the ball the girls and their friends will swim at North Shore then go on to a post ball party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George Pratt with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hyde as co-hosts.

Each of the 14 presentees will be introduced by her father or soonsor to club president Henry Tollette during the presentation ceremony scheduled for 9 p.m. Mr. Tollette will in turn present each young lady to assembled members and guests. Traditionally the first dance of the evening belongs to the father or sponsor and then the rush begins. Each presentee has invited a guest couple or two to join the Ball festivities making the party a youthful and gay event with parents retiring to the sidelines to watch and enjoy.

College Plans

Miss Aldridge is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald I. Aldridge 1020 Pembrook Drive Neenah. A Neenah High School graduate she plans to enter Lawrence University Conservatory of Music in the fall. Miss O Brien will wear a gown of peau de soie with a straight skirt and attached sleeveless jacket of Irish lace trimmed with velvet ribbon.

Taffeta Faille

Miss Pertain daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Andree Pertain 245 Webster St., Neenah will be escorted at the ball by Paul Pansy. A Neenah High School graduate who will be a student at Wisconsin State University Oshkosh she has chosen Vicki Anderson and James Schultz as her party guests. Miss Pertain's dress is of taffeta faille with a fitted bodice and reembroidered lace at the scoop neckline. The skirt has a panel front with cluster pleats at side and back.

Miss Peterson has chosen Ronald Perry as her Assembly Ball escort. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Peterson 1421 W. Oakcrest Court is an Appleton High School graduate and plans to attend Colorado Women's College Denver. Her party guests will be Miss Randi Skjoldager and Al Bogan. For her presentation Miss Peterson will wear an A-line ball gown with deep tucks in the front panel which is trimmed with reembroidered Alencon lace. The gown has a modified scoop neckline.

All Dolled Up

Dolls They love every day and just once in a while were hauled from doll beds and closets corners and attics and places of honor to Appleton playgrounds Tuesday as the Recreation Dept. held its annual doll show. Children from 13 playgrounds competed for ribbons that proclaimed they had the largest smallest oldest newest or in some other way unusual doll.

The photos here were taken at Northside Kiwanis Park and dolls from almost every country in almost every size and dressed in almost every fashion were submitted for judging with the children themselves voting on the winners.

The program is the annual part of the Recreation Dept's summer playground activity.

Today is leaders day at the playgrounds with each planning a program suited to the particular neighborhood.

At 7 p.m. Thursday Circus parades will wind through the various playground areas with children dressed as clowns and other circus performers riding in or pulling floats and generally looking like a mobile carnival.

Every Young mother knows that dolls like play things just as real children do. A pair of dolls were tended by their 'moms during the party at Northside Kiwanis Park. They are Betty and Marilyn Green daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Green. At right a bit of last minute primping was given her doll by Debbie Sanger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Sanger who took home the 'newest doll ribbon. Below the playgrounders cast their votes. (Post Crescent Photos)

Answers Not Enough In Bridge

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A bridge player who knows all of the answers sometimes comes up with a bid that is out of the question This happened to my friend Andre Lemaitre of Belgium during the recent World Mixed Pair Championship in Amsterdam

Lemaitre didn t have the strength for a bid at his first turn but he heard a voice saying Two spades To his horror he recognized the voice as his own From then on he had no chance to get out short of game

"If West had led anything but a club you would be at this moment reading about a different hand But West did lead a club and Lemaitre took both top clubs discarding a heart He then gave up a club discarding a second heart

Stuck for a safe return East led back a low trump South won with the jack and led another trump to the ace Then he proceeded to lead good club from the dummy

Stuck Again

East had to ruff and could take his other high trump This gave him three defensive tricks but what could he do next?

If East returned a diamond South would get two diamond tricks and would discard three diamonds on dummy s good clubs If East returned a heart South would discard one diamond on the king of hearts and three diamonds on the clubs Either way, the contract was home

'Not bad for one queen and two jacks ' I commented

'True but I was dealt some aces and kings on other hands Lemaitre lamented 'By the time I came down from the clouds I was out of the tournament! '

Mosquitoes Find Some Targets More Attractive

CHICAGO — Mosquitoes play favorites among the people they bite

According to the magazine published by the American Medical Association certain characteristics may make you a stand out target for mosquitoes

You re most likely to be bitten if you

Have a dark complexion In experiments at the University of Western Ontario naturally dark skinned persons attracted 22 per cent more mosquitoes than light skinned persons Orientals attracted 27 per cent more mosquitoes than Caucasians and Negroes attracted 60 per cent more than white persons

Like Warm Skins

Are warm skinned The average internal temperature of healthy humans doesn t vary much from 98 6 degrees fahrenheit but there is a considerable variation in skin temperatures Experiments showed that warm skinned persons attracted 30 per cent more mosquitoes than those with cooler skins

Are in good health Researchers at Union Carbide Corporation have discovered that mosquitoes put the bite on healthy outdoorsy types much more frequently than on persons in poor health

Perspire moderately The more a person perspires — up to a point — the higher his attractivity index to mosquitoes

Breathe heavily Apparently it is the carbon dioxide in expired air that helps guide the mosquito to its target

Are highly active The energetic person constantly on the move is the one who attracts the mosquito s attention

Wear perfume cologne or after shave lotion Anything with a noticeable fragrance seems to bring on the bites

Wear dark clothing Cloth of 32 textures and colors has been studied and without exception the less light that a material reflected the more attractive it was to mosquitoes Stated another way the duller your clothing the more attractive you ll be to mosquitoes They prefer black dark reds and dark blues instead of white yellows and light greens

Prevent Attractiveness

The author Clifford B Hicks points out that you can minimize mosquito attacks this summer Dress in light clothing bathe frequently cut down on strenuous activity and take it easy on perfumes and after shave lotions

There are more than 2 500 species of mosquito but one type Culex pipiens is the most common in the United States It s the female incidentally which bites humans

Most household mosquitoes travel no more than two or three city blocks during their lives a fact which is important to community mosquito control If your community should eliminate all breeding spots such as pools of stagnant water old auto tires open cans etc the problem of mosquito bites would be greatly reduced and perhaps gone forever

Ceremony Performed Saturday

BLACK CREEK — St. Mary Catholic Church was the setting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for the wedding of Miss Sandy Gritt and Thomas Oskey. The Rev. Anthony Stefl officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gritt, route 1, Black Creek, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is he son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Oskey, route 1, Shiocton.

Miss Maureen Gritt, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Daniel Golonka and Miss Sally Oskey.

William Oskey, a cousin of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Groomsmen were Daniel Golonka and Robert Gritt. Dennis Zablocki and John Oskey ushered.

A reception was held at St. Mary Hall.

After a honeymoon trip to Mackinac Island, Mich., the couple will live at route 2, Seymour.

The bride is employed at Zwicker Knitting Mills, Appleton. Her husband is with Murphy Construction Co.

New Half-Slips For Miniskirts

"Is my slip showing?" is a frequent question prompted by fashion's current short, short skirts. Lingerie manufacturers have answered by making even shorter drip-dry half-slips that are scarcely more than two kerchiefs.

It is no effort to "suds out" one of these every evening, together with stockings and panties. Long before morning, your new little slip will be dry and smooth.

Mis Nancy Scott

Betrothal of Miss Scott Announced

BLACK CREEK — The betrothal of Miss Nancy Ellen Scott to Keith Nielson has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Scott, route 1, Black Creek. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Nielson, route 1, Black Creek.

Mr. Nielson is employed at the FWD Corp., Clintonville.

Milwaukee Home of Newlyweds

AMHERST JUNCTION — Miss Annette Elaine Rosholt, became the bride of Ronald L. Knapp, Milwaukee, at 4 p.m. Saturday at North New Hope Lutheran Church. The Rev. Paul O. Monson performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosholt, route 1, Amherst Junction, are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anna Matzinger, Holland, Ohio.

Mrs. Russell Kolden, Iola, was matron of honor. Mrs. Margret Eighme was maid of honor.

Stanley Riska, route 4, Appleton, a cousin of the bride, acted as best man. Groomsman was Darrell Greg Eighme. Sidney and John Ellingson were ushers.

A reception was held at the church parlors.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in northern Wisconsin and will live in Milwaukee.

Mr. Knapp is an insurance claims inspector. Mrs. Knapp is employed at Allen and Brandley Co., Milwaukee.

Sun-Worshippers Face Array of Tanning Aids

With the return of warm, sunny days, millions of Americans are once again toasting exposed skin at the beach, beside the pool, in the backyard, almost anywhere out of doors.

Many of the sunbathers are using one of the sunscreen lotions and creams that are now readily available, in an effort to acquire a tan with a minimum of burning and discomfort.

Actually, your doctor will tell you that suntanning has little or no beneficial effect on your health. Excessive tanning can cause premature aging and wrinkling of the skin, and can be the trigger that brings about skin cancer. But, if you insist on tanning, you will be interested in some facts on sunscreen lotions and creams.

Sunscreens are chemicals which absorb various wave lengths of ultra violet rays to various degrees. They do not shut out all radiation, else you would never tan. Among the most effective sunscreens are some long, technical names — para-aminobenzoic acid and its derivatives, the salicylates, and a digalloyl trioleate compound. Read the label to be sure the product you select is a sunscreen.

Apply the sunscreen product at least every two hours, after each swim, and whenever the protecting film may have rubbed off. Give vulnerable areas such as neck, shoulders and nose a double dose.

Check Labels

Also available are artificial suntan lotions which produce a color change on the skin simulating a natural tan. It is important to realize that artificial suntan products do not provide protection against sunburn unless they also incorporate a sunscreening agent.

Lubricate the skin to help prevent excessive drying effects of the sun. Apply an emollient cream or lotion before retiring.

Even more important than use of lotions or creams is the exercise of common sense: Don't stay in the sun too long.

Denim Patches For Kids' Jeans

Mothers of kids who are "hard" on jeans will welcome new patches that need no sewing or ironing.

Available in denim blue, khaki, black, and bone, these come in kits that include fabric for up to 24 patches and also a tube of "liquid thread." Once dry, the patched fabric may be safely washed in the hottest soap or detergent suds. Sound good? It is.

Cleaning Shortcut

Aluminum cooking utensils plated with chrome usually require only regular dishwashing with hot soap or detergent suds. If necessary, use silver polish instead of scouring to loosen burned-on food particles.

Vinyl Coat Care

The high-style, vibrant-color new vinyl raincoats are as "in" as short skirts. Only a quick sponge off with warm suds — inside and outside — is required to keep them clean. But once in a while, they should be swished through a tubful of soap or detergent suds, rinsed, and hung to drip dry.

Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Buhner, Racine, marked their 50th wedding anniversary at a family party Sunday at their home.

The couple was married June 29, 1916. They have one son, Marvin, Appleton, and two grandchildren.

South Carolina Voting Along Racial Lines

Whites Defeat Four Negro Candidates in Democratic Runoff

By AL LANIER

COLUMBIA S C (AP) — White voters apparently cast their ballots solidly along racial lines to defeat four Negro candidates who had been given a good chance to win Democratic nominations to the all-white South Carolina Legislature

Voting in adjoining Williamsburg and Clarendon counties followed racial lines closely Vote totals in the runoff primary Tuesday indicated almost all eligible voters Negro and white cast ballots

Both Negroes and whites had claimed a slight edge in voting registrations in the two central South Carolina counties

The four Negro candidates had led the legislative races in the June 14 primary which eliminated several white candidates However all the white voters apparently rallied behind the white candidates for the runoff

Protest Planned

In Clarendon County a Negro minister the Rev J S Hunter lost hid bid for nomination to the county s lone seat in the state House of Representatives He said he would file a protest involving ballots cast in two precincts in Summerton

Final tabulations gave the Rev Mr Hunter 3 663 votes to 3 878 votes for his white opponent Joseph Coker

In Williamsburg where Negroes sought all three of the county s legislative seats King stree undertaker Virgil Dimery lost the Senate nomination to La Nue Floyd who had 5 828 votes to Dimery s 4 041

Incumbent state Rep I Henry Stuckey and Ernest W Carter defeated Negro candidates I F Lawrence and Purvis Easley for the two House seats in Williamsburg County Stuckey had 5 989 votes Carter 5 949 Lawrence 4 179 and Easley 4 073

A Negro Virgin Johnson also was defeated in a runoff race with two white candidates for two seats on the Hampton County Council

Federal observers kept close watch on the voting in Clarendon County Hundreds of Negroes have been added to he county s voter list since federal registrars were sent in last November

A write-in campaign was to have been mounted by white voters in Williamsburg County Republicans in Clarendon had nominated a ghost candidate for the House who now will withdraw from the race and leave the white Democratic nominee unopposed

South Carolina s 1967 General Assembly thus will retain its all white makeup maintained since 1901 when a Negro legislator served in the House

Views From Abroad

Brandt Wants to Know U. S. Intentions for Troops in Berlin

EDITOR S NOTE John M Hightower is on a tour of European capitals to report on the views about the United States held abroad A Pulitzer Prize winner Hightower regularly covers the State Department and diplomatic affairs for The Associated Press in Washington

By JOHN M HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin s outspoken mayor Willy Brandt says if the United States intends to withdraw any more troops from West Germany it should state its plans in plain language to grown up people in Germany

One should talk to grown up people Brandt said in an interview with The Associated Press and if the situation makes it necessary or possible to change certain things in defail this should be based upon the situation and upon agreement Why then argue about it?

His comment was the latest from an important West German political figure reflecting criticism of Defense Secretary Robert S McNamara s temporary reduction of U S forces in Germany this summer without —in the German view consultation or advance notice

McNamara Criticized

Former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and other authorities in the ruling Christian Democratic party recently have criticized McNamara publicly Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in an interview last weekend warned against any heavy U S troops withdrawals from Germany and specifically rejected a McNamara view that if the Soviets pulled forces back the United States might also reduce its forces

Brandt whose city stands in the heart of a Communist land under the protection of U S British and French garrisons deplored critical potshotting at every small regroupment of U S forces

But he added On the other hand I must say that when a regroupment is to take place the plan could as well be told in plain language to grown up people in Germany

The United States has temporarily reduced its forces from 225 000 to 210 000 in Germany by transferring 15 000 military specialists needed because of the war in Viet Nam When word of the cutback first came from Washington several weeks ago West Germans professed to be caught by surprise and have displayed irritation at the incident as well as insistence that McNamara might not forewarn them of some new move in the future

Common Study

Brandt said he thought any substantial changes in U S forces here should be made only as a result of a common study and judgment by the United States and West Germany upon what is necessary and what is wise

Brandt who is apt to speak like an orator even in private conversation waved his hands and stabbed the air with his finger to emphasize his enthusiasm for a proposed series of debate between his Socialists and East German Communist party leaders on the division of Germany

The Communists are stalling and Brandt said the plan to start the speech making July 14 in East Germany doesn t look too well at the moment He expressed confidence however the unprecedented exchange will take place eventually

His hope he said is to reach agreement through these discussion to ease the problems of people who live in divided villages who can t visit the graves of their ancestors or attend the marriages of their children Cultural and economic exchanges also should be promoted Brandt added

Brandt like Chancellor Erhard in the interview last weekend rejected the Soviet line that Germany can be united by direct action between its two regimes those of Erhard and Red boss Walter Ulbricht West Germany has never recognized the existence of East Germany except as the Soviet Zone

Manitowoc Company Files $1 Million Suit Against Labor Unions

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Manitowoc Engineering Co filed a $1 million suit in U S District Court Monday against two striking labor unions it accused of unfair labor practices

The suit charged Teamsters Local 619 and Boilermakers Local 443 with secondary picketing of the Christy Corp of Sturgeon Bay

The two unions have been on strike against Manitowoc Shipbuilders Inc a subsidary of the parent Manitowoc Co since May 13 The company alleged that the unions had picketed the Sturgeon Bay firm since June 21 to force Christy to cease doing business with Manitowoc Engineering The unions charged that Christy was doing work for the struck shipbuilding corporation

Doctor Blames Profession For Addiction to Own Drugs

twin rocks of coercion and incarceration

He failed to make progress with three admissions to Lexington and later was arrested on a charge of fraudulent use of narcotics His medical license was suspended

For a while he made a living as a writer but he lost his job his wife told him to stay away until he had overcome his problem and six months ago he was living and working at a church run mission the physician writes

Now he feels he is making progress by participating in a research program studying the effectiveness of a drug metha done in helping addicts overcome their dependence on drugs he has a good job and more confidence than I ve had in 10 years and life is now too precious to miss a minute of

But why did eight years of my career have to be wasted? With the doctor shortage which is almost a national emergency why is so little known about a disease that is almost an occupational hazard with doctors?

Statistics and estimates vary but unless the next five years are radically different from the last several thousand practicing physicians by becoming addicts will be lost to society their families and to themselves during that time For most of them it will be a permanent loss

Medicine he says has performed miracles in controlling diseases always because a basic pattern was followed First medicine learned how to give treat control or prevent the disease Then and only then were laws passed to take advantage of this knowledge

Only when the doctor working with the patient and without interference has learned how to lick the disease can the experts tell the lawmakers what to do That is the effort right now that needs the support of both public and private

They Type Their Way Around the World

NEW YORK (AP) — For the girl who likes to travel but can't really afford it, there is hope. She can join the Secretarial Peace Corps and type her way around the world.

More than 100 girls did it last year and that figure is expected to double this year.

Officially, the program is called the Society of International Secretaries (SIS), a division of the world's largest placement service (Brook Street Bureau of Mayfair Ltd.)

Girls who join SIS move to London in March, work as secretaries there for eight consecutive weeks, then take the money and take off for a look at the rest of the world.

When they run out of money, they can return to London, work again, then travel again until October when they must return to the United States.

The founder of Brook Street Bureau, Margery Hurst, says she started SIS to promote good will in the English-speaking countries of the world. But the girls who take part feel it's more like a vacation with pay.

One of those girls is Peggy Love, who went over last year and worked at places that ranged from a royal gambling club to the British Broadcasting Co.

Interesting Jobs

"The jobs are never dull," she says, "and when you get one that you really like, it's very sad that you can only keep it for a week or two.

She felt that way, she says, about her job at Crockford's, a private club in the heart of London.

"Every king of England for the past 400 years has done his gambling there." Miss Love says. "It's the most posh club in all of England. Only kings, dukes and earls and very famous people are allowed in."

Miss Love, who is from Winston-Salem, N. C., and who speaks with a distinct Southern drawl, said the language barrier was the only problem she ever had.

Language Barrier

"I couldn't understand them with their accents and they couldn't understand me with mine, but somehow we got along just fine."

Other barriers that American girls might encounter if they try to get work in London on their own are overcome by SIS before the secretaries ever begin their trip.

Working permits are difficult to come by in Great Britain "because the British are reluctant to hire Americans when British secretaries are supposed to be so much better," according to a spokesman for SIS.

But the society obtains the work permits and guarantees good jobs, in addition to locating places to live and providing a social club in local SIS headquarters.

The girls are never charged any fee because, the SIS spokesman says, "this is a travel scheme, not a business."

The only requirements are a good personality and typing and shorthand abilities of 60 to 100 words per minute respectively.

Fingerprint Not for Table Top

BY ROGER WHITMAN

Q. My husband made a beautiful formica table top. But my problem is that you can see all the children's fingerprints on it. Is there any solution for this?

A. Treat the table to a good waxing, put on thin, and well buffed. This may not be the complete answer, but at least the fingerprints won't show up so clearly. And they'll be easier to rub off.

Q. If possible, I'd like to paint a grass rug. What's the verdict?

A. Go ahead. Use either a fabric spray, available in any supermarket or housewares section, or a thinned down house paint. In either case, be sure to protect the floor underneath, with drop cloths or newspapers. Better yet, take the rug outdoors, and if the weather man permits, leave it out there until the rug is dry again.

Q. Several times, I have patched a crack in my ceiling. I widened the crack, I cut it so the rear was wider than at the surface, so the patching plaster would wedge itself in as it dried. But each time the plaster eventually cracked and started to fall out again. Now the whole thing is so prominent that even if I repair the crack again, it will stand out like a sore thumb. Is there any other solution?

A. From your description, it sounds as though you didn't wet the surrounding plaster so it wouldn't draw water out of the new patching plaster. But as an over all cover-up, I suggest you consider painter's cloth over the whole ceiling. This close-woven fabric is like a very lightweight canvas, and is applied like wallpaper. Once on, it can be painted or papered, as you wish. Its great virtue is in hiding everything underneath. The ceiling could crack itself in so many places it would look like a map of the Amazon River basin, but you'd never see it. You can get painter's cloth where wallpaper is sold.

Q. My two-year-old nylon floor rug is still in excellent shape. But the foam-type is disintegrating. Would covering the underside with liquid latex, then several folds of cheesecloth extend the useful life?

A. An excellent idea. The liquid latex will also add definite non-skid qualities.

Q. Please tell me what to use to clean a smoky fireplace.

A. Plenty of hot water, scrubbing brush, patience, elbow grease and some of that old-time mechanic's hand soap which contains sand, available at any garage or auto supply store. If the smoke stains have been there for some years, the scrubbing will take longer than if they are recent.

Woman Challenges Ann to Print Unwed Father's Story

DEAR ANN LANDERS I sign This is how I make my know you receive many letters living When I spend hours with from unwed mothers because a customer I expect him to you have printed them Why return to me if he decides to don't you ever publish a letter buy from an unwed father?

You Ann Landers have done Thank you Ann Landers for more to damage the image of letting me have my say — No the unwed father than anyone in Sale this country and I resent it My son is a lovely young man just 19 years of age and every time you print a letter from an unwed mother he shows it to me and says Why doesn't Ann Landers ever say anything good about us — we have a side too

Are you so blind that you don't realize some g[illegible] after boys pester them get them full of liquor and then offer themselves in such a way that no male could refuse This is exactly what happened to my son and to some of his male friends too Yet the boys always get called the terrible names and end up with a black eye I dare you to print this Mother of a Good Son

Dear Mother I have yet to hear from an unwed mother who wouldn't cheerfully take the black eye in exchange for what she gets left with

Sorry that I don't have any good conduct medals lying around for the unwed fathers And I don't have any advice for them either They don't need my list of maternity homes They can go right on living as they always have — continuing at their jobs or remaining in school

Unfortunately, when a foolish young couple decides to Have fun now — Pay later' it's the female who does the paying

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am a salesman in a large department store Like most salesmen of major items (furniture rugs jewelry refrigerators stoves etc) I work on commission

Last week I spent the better part of two days with three couples They asked dozens of questions which I was happy to answer That's what I'm here for I gave them my card and said if they decided to buy I'd be happy to help them

At the end of the week I followed up by telephoning these couples and all three told me they had been in the store and bought the item from someone who just happened to be standing there They all added You aren't on commission are you

Well on behalf of most salespeople of major items I'd like to say I am on commis

After Tennis Game, A Hot Shower

Win or lose any fast game of tennis should be promptly followed by a hot tub or shower bath This washes away perspiration generated by the strenuous exercise and also helps to relax tense nerves and muscles

After thorough soaping and a warm rinse followed by a cooler spray end up with a brisk rub down using a coarse towel

got your message before the eyes of millions of costumers

And now I'd like to add a word When a salesman hands you a card that's the hint and here's the message 'I have time and energy invested in you If you return to buy I hope you will remember to ask for me

DEAR ANN LANDERS My mother and dad were a grand couple Mother passed away last November

Fifteen years ago when Dad was in his early fifties he had a torrid affair with a married woman who lives in this city She was well known and it was an unpleasant gossipy sort of thing that hurt Mother deeply

The other woman is a widow now and dad has taken her to dinner a few times We just learned of his renewed interest Naturally we are furious Mother forgave him but we can't Any advice? Daughters

Dear Daughters If your mother forgave him you can — and you should Life is for the living

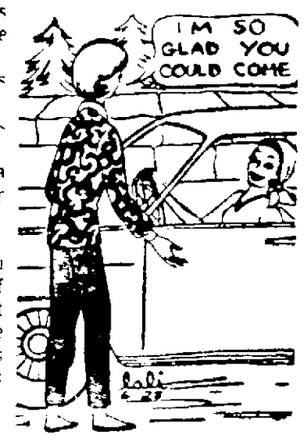
Hostess Hints

A hostess offers a generous amount of hospitality when she invites guests for a weekend Much thought and effort goes into entertaining weekenders

Still guests may not always find their stay altogether enjoyable This happens when a hostess overextends her own or her guests capacities for entertainment

As a guest for example you feel like a dreadful bother if your hostess is constantly atwit over the execution of elaborate plans And if her schedule calls for round after round of visitors and parties you become weary and even exhausted



Most guests are happy with simple meals an easy pace and time to relax Naturally a simplified program gives the hostess more time to relax and enjoy her guests Then everyone has more fun

Another factor that assures smooth sailing all around is a clearly worded invitation It should leave no doubt as to times of arrival and departure It should provide information about any activity — a dance for instance that requires special clothing

Once her guests arrive a considerate hostess outlines the immediate plans We're having a barbecue tonight at seven Our neighbors the Jones are coming Or at breakfast she might say Would you like to go swimming this morning? We've all been invited to the Jones's for a picnic supper at seven this evening

That way there are no uncertainties Everybody relaxes and has a relaxing time

Vacationers Attracted to Exotic Locations Outside United States

Vacation season, at last, is here.

Almost everyone, from June honeymooners to newly retired couples will be thinking about a trip, possibly out of the United States.

From travel reports, the world's fastest growing tourist area is nearly next door. It's Jamaica.

At the increasing rate that visitors are flocking to this Caribbean isle, travelers will have to hurry to beat the crowds. In 1965, for example, an all-time high in visitors numbered 89,000 over 1964's 227,000, the previous record.

The government's policies have respected tourism's potential, encouraging it until it is now Jamaica's second largest industry. The largest is the bauxite industry.

Strong Support

Similarly, Jamaicans themselves are supporting tourism as never before.

Among island attractions, according to John Pringle, director of tourism, are the proposed Port Royal development, Negril, the Port Antonio area, the mountains behind Kingston, the Hellshire Hills area, the White House area and the island's spas and baths.

"The development of Port Royal," he says, "could cause Jamaica to become the Cruise Ship capital of the Caribbean — a Williamsburg of the West Indies."

Travel to Orient

Another area to which tourists are drawn in increasing numbers is the Orient.

Perhaps one of the factors that may make an otherwise ardent Oriental traveler hesitate is the lack of information regarding climate and clothing needs for such a trip. Actually, warm climates with slight seasonal variation through most of the Orient mean that generally lightweight clothing, especially the new wash-and-wear, wrinkle-free garments will be most practical. Cosmetics and toiletries, including American brands, are available almost everywhere.

Women often prefer full skirted outfits. Besides the usual ease of motion reasons, they are essential for the many occasions which require sitting on low stools or on the floor.

Japanese Seasons

Japan is the only Oriental country with four defined seasons. Temperature and climate are roughly similar to that of the middle belt of the United States. Tokyo's weather is comparable to that of Washington, D.C.

From March to May and from September through November, lightweight outfits are appropriate. A warm sweater is recommended for evening wear or visits to mountain resorts. For early spring and late fall, women are advised to bring a wool suit or knit outfit.

Cotton, light silks and sportswear are essential for comfort during the hot summer months. Still, a sweater is a good choice for evenings in the mountains.

Fast Laundries

Most Japanese hotels offer one-day laundry service, so it is not necessary to take many changes, unless the tour plan includes a long series of one night stops.

A custom to be considered by the visitor to Japan is that of removing shoes before entering shrines and temples, inns, private homes and even some restaurants. Floors will be cool except in summer and a pair of short, warm socks or light, foldable slippers are a good item to carry in one's purse.

Regardless of the season, the weather grows progressively warmer in Southeast Asia.

Subtropical Taiwan

Taiwan's subtropical temperature averages range from 60 degrees in January to 85 degrees in July. Weather is humid and very warm from May to September. Heavy rainfall can be expected in autumn, particularly in northern area, including the capital city of Taipei. Summer clothing can be worn almost all year long.

Hong Kong's winter is normally cool and dry and the summer is hot and humid.

From the time the monsoons end in mid-September until February, there is little rain.

Bangkok and Singapore are very warm all year round. The lightest of summer clothing is best; cotton is most comfortable. The hottest time of the year in Bangkok is from mid-April to mid-June, but even in October, November and December the temperature can be as high as 90 degrees.

Singapore Humid

Temperatures in Singapore remain in the mid-eighties the year round. Trade winds keep the air fresh, but it is always humid. Travelers find loose-fitting clothing most comfortable.

A good choice in destination for the tourist who wishes to leave the United States, but not the continent, for a cosmopolitan, almost international locale is Mexico City.

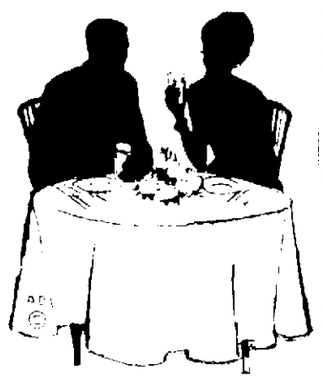
The blend of cultures, European and American, is reflected to the visitor's advantage in a collection of restaurants of every nationality, whose chefs vie with one another for superiority.

Here European trained maitre d's and captains have perfected a suave and polished manner of making one feel not only pampered, but welcomed. This sensation is enhanced by the naturally warm and friendly attitude of the Mexicans.

Cosmopolitan Mexico City

While a complete listing of all the really top flight restuarants in Mexico's principal city is not possible, a sampling selected both for excellence and variety will provide a good indication of what is available.

El Refugio, located in the fashionable Geneve district, is small, unpretentious and exceptionally clean. Here is authentic Mexican food at its very best. All the ingredients are fresh, with nothing coming from a can or freezer.



Most tourists prefer to try their first carne asada (thin strips of steak broiled with slices of pepper and served with frijoles refritos, refried beans) here, or their first enchiladas with mole, ceviche, chalupas poblanas. Also served are Mexican homemade soft drinks, Tequila and the light and dark Mexican beers.

French Cuisine

Mlle. Marselle Hemmer, owner of the wonderful French restaurant, La Lorraine, adds her charm and personal attention to one's visit to her eating place. The best of Polynesian and Cantonese food can be found at Mauna Loa. Many travelers prefer to start an evening on the town at this 'fun' place, with cocktails in a jungle setting, dinner by the pool, and the added attractions of live flamingos and a real waterfall.

For a change of pace, many visitors delight in the culinary offerings of Bavaria. Its outstanding features are fondue, wienerschnitzel, roastbraten and draft beer.

Truly Mexican Inn

In the heart of the oldest part of the city is Las Cazuelas, where a tourist really can become part of the scene among predominantly Mexican clientele.

Villa Fontana is a must for that elegant, most romantic evening. Attractions include dim lights and violins, plush atmosphere, excellent service and continental cuisine.

For the traveler hungering for a pastrami or corner beef sandwich, Fialka is the answer. It's the closest to New York and a Kosher-style delicatessen.

Wherever summer leads, the vacationer can be assured of "bon voyage" at any of these destinations.

Newlyweds Honeymoon In East

MENASHA — Miss Victoria H. Lotzer became the bride of James A. Smith in an 11 a.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Rev. Thomas John officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lotzer, 515 Eighth St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith, 829 Sixth St.

Miss Jane Redfield attended as maid of honor. Mrs. Robert Dombrowski, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Janet Lotzer were bridesmaids. Miss Jayne Lotzer was junior bridal aide.

Duties of the best man were performed by Roy Hoelzel. Robert Dombrowski, Ronald Geiger and John Smith were groomsmen.

The bride is employed by the George Banta Co. Her husband is employed by the Red Owl Store.

Anchor Towel To Beach Sand

It's none too soon to prepare for sunny days ahead by creating a beach towel that can't be blown away by sea breezes.

Here's how: cut and stitch a buttonhole in each corner of a large, gaily printed terrycloth towel. Then collect four long lollipop sticks which can be inserted through the buttonholes to anchor the towel in the sand.

After a day in the sun, just remove the "pegs" and machine-launder the towel in hot suds as usual.

Mrs. George Retson to Head Greek Society

Mrs. George Retson was elected president of the Panathenaea Society at the group's June meeting held at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Savas, 319 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah.

Serving wih her are Mrs. Leon Kusserow, vice president; Mrs. Philip Retson, secretary, and Mrs. Nick Karras, treasurer.

Heading committees will be Mrs. Robert deWet, sunshine; Mrs. Spyro Gostas, altar, and Mrs. Donald Dake, publicity.

Plans were made for a Grecian pastry sale which will be held July 10 at the Appleton Greek Orthodox Church picnic. Co-chairmen for the pastry sale will be Mrs. Andrew Jimos and Mrs. Gostas.

The club will recess for the summer months and in September will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Notaras, 121 E. Roosevelt St. The officers, to serve from 1966 to 68, will be installed at that time.

Decorated Trays Liven Entertaining

Bamboo Serving Trays and Mats can be marked assets to a hostess' party decorating scheme. Besides protecting table surfaces from scratches, the air spaces provide excellent insulation beneath hot dishes. At right, laminated plastic trays have been made with everything from leaves to keepsake souvenirs. The novel decorative items give the trays a personal touch and can be conversation pieces.

Hospitality is always at your fingertips when you serve guests from attractively decorated trays. Whether they are hand-painted metal, laminated plastic or carved wood, the accessory represents a graciousness that do-it-yourself entertaining can never replace.

Some of the prettiest pieces are inspired by hobbyists. For instance, one homemaker rescued several tin trays by coating them in blackboard slating, then covering them with a floral pattern. The design was traced on with chalk — which made it easy to erase any mistake. Afterward, the outline was filled in with bright colored paint and "waterproofed" with a protective plastic spray.

From discard heap to dining room, the renovated accessories made a speedy comeback. In fact, they were so attractive that, instead of stacking them in a cabinet, they were displayed like decorative china on the kitchen wall. Their precision shapes made them easy to group in a geometrical pattern.

Plastic Trays

Also lending themselves to such showcasing are rectangular plastic trays that have leaves, coins or metallic particles embedded in them. Both amateur and professional craftsmen find such holders an artistic challenge. The former usually decorate their trays with vacation souvenirs and children's keepsakes, while the expert experiments with everything from pressed flowers to sea shells. The latter simply calls for additional layers of plastic to assure a complete and smooth coverage of the "implanted" object. Today, most lamination is done as a custom service by plastic shops, although there are now hobby kits available.

Another popular trend, being influenced by Oriental designers, is using bamboo "slices," cork-covered wood or metal sheets as both serving tray and hot mat. Rope-like handles that discreetly fold at the sides of the container make it simple to convert to either use.

Use Bamboo, Cork

Such pieces are quite stylized. For example, the bamboo tray is fashioned from a series of cane circles, one-half inch thick; while the cork-covered holder is made from "woven" strips of the material that have been interlaced and painted contrasting colors.

But, whether you use a conventional tray, revolving serving dish or tiered stand, you're following a gracious "tray-dition."

League Members to Attend Conference

The Governor's Conference of Pollution on Lake Michigan, scheduled Thursday in Green Bay will be attended by several members of the Appleton League of Women Voters.

On hand for the program will be Mrs. Joseph Dercks, chairman of the State Item on Conservation, and Mrs. Edwin Olson, chairman of the National Item on Water Resources.

Housecleaning Tip

If you live in a two-story house, keep a lightweight ladder on the second floor to help reach closet shelves that need to be washed off with a sudsy cloth once a month.

Nebraskan Gains Power In GOP Circles

Don Ross Credited With Directing Move Against YR Faction

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Last week's spring meeting of the Republican National Committee confirmed what had been suspected

ed for some time a little known lawyer from Nebraska named Don Ross has become the committee's strong man and is growing into a power in the party nationally.

Ross, a former United States attorney who is now Nebraska's national committeeman, was behind national Chairman Ray Bliss's belated crackdown on the Young Republicans. Bliss relied both on Ross's advice and his skill in guiding a resolution through the national committee without dissent.

That was no surprise to national committee members. Since emerging from political obscurity in January, 1965 to help engineer Bliss's election as national chairman, Ross has grown steadily closer to Bliss and now is his most influential adviser.

Though a conservative himself, Ross is well regarded by the party's liberal moderate wing. For instance, he is credited with convincing Bliss that the late James Wood of Arizona, a Goldwater conservative, be replaced on the national committee's executive committee with an outspoken moderate — William Powers of Colorado.

A footnote: Ross was named last week by Bliss as one of the two national committee members to keep an eye on the YRs. The other was Mrs. Tula Harrower of Connecticut, a tough-minded liberal who has spared no criticism of the YRs. More than anything else, her appointment indicates a new determination by Bliss toward placing the YRs — who have operated as a party within a party — under some restraint from the national committee.

Cambodian Capers

Although officials in Washington refuse to confirm it, U.S. intelligence now has documentary evidence that Communist forces are using Cambodia, supposedly "neutralist," as a staging area for operations in South Viet Nam.

A captured document gives specific instructions on how North Vietnamese regular troops should conduct themselves on bivouac in Cambodia — a sanctuary protecting them from surprise attack by U. S. or South Vietnamese forces.

For instance, the Communist regulars are instructed to keep away from inhabited areas and above all, to keep clear of Cambodian troops and therefore avoid incidents.

However, U. S. policymakers don't want to make a fuss about this. They feel that the drift toward Communist China by Cambodia's mercurial Prince Sihanouk, more an opportunist than a leftist, may be reversed now that the U. S. military effort in Viet Nam is showing some success. Consequently, they don't want to offend Sihanouk by accusing him of harboring Communist troops.

A footnote: although Cambodia is used by North Vietnamese troops as a temporary sanctuary, U. S. intelligence has no information whatsoever to substantiate reports that several regiments of Communist regulars are permanently quartered there.

Chicago Shuffle

Negro politicians in Washington are still talking about one hidden aspect of the red-hot Democratic primary for Congress on Chicago's South Side June 14. In that contest, Rep. Barratt O'Hara, the 84-year-old incumbent and representative of the Daley machine, narrowly staved off an attempted purge of him by insurgent state legislator Abner Mikva.

Fearful that Mikva would cut into the pivotal Negro vote, O'Hara during the campaign sent out an SOS to two of his Negro

Formosan Chinese Fear 'Appeasement' by U.S.

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China disagrees strongly with any American efforts to build bridges to Communist China.

Editorials obviously reflecting the views of the political high command depict those efforts as appeasement. One paper denounced appeasement as a pernicious concept that would produce serious setbacks in the Free World's anti-Communist struggle.

This is the background against which U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will meet President Chiang Kai-shek.

Rusk is due in Taipei Sunday for an overnight visit before going to Japan and South Korea.

Want Support

If the Chinese Nationalists had their way, the United States would provide moral and material support but no combat units for an attempted comeback by Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

The China Daily News, published by the Kuomintang, urges the ruling party to urge the United States to listen carefully to Chiang's views on how to win against communism in Asia.

Chiang has expressed himself in favor of destruction of the nuclear installations the Communists have built on the mainland.

The Chung Hsin Daily News, which calls itself an independent paper, says no wishful thinking can change the belligerent nature of the Chinese Communists and their threat to world peace.

The United Daily News, largest in Formosa, says there is no way to secure peace and security in Asia except by crushing that regime. It dismisses as an illusion reported American thinking that a policy of containment without isolation might lead to moderation by the Peiping regime.

The Shin Sheng Pao Daily News, published by the Formosa provincial government, has urged the West to consider wiping out the nuclear installations on the China mainland before the Chinese Communists develop nuclear weapons to attack the Free World.

The paper said the Chinese Communists might be trying to give the impression they are trying to avoid war with the United States, but in reality are making war preparations.

Adam Clayton Powell of New York and Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan. Personally fond of the old man, they agreed to come to Chicago to endorse O'Hara, whichever he wanted them.

But the follow-up call from O'Hara never came, even after a query from Powell's office when he was wanted. Frankly figuring they weren't wanted, Powell and Diggs forgot about the Chicago race.

What happened: The educated Negro political circles in the 7th Rep. William Dawson, dean of Negro Congressmen and top Negro in the Daley machine, put the kibosh on the invitations. Dawson's stronghold is among middle-class Negroes on the South Side that O'Hara wanted no part of his campaign because Dawson wasn't going to campaign for O'Hara. Dawson didn't want Negro Congressmen from other states to come into the district to do so.

Even without Powell and Diggs, O'Hara did well enough among the Negroes to win. His bones that a policy of certain strong liberal civil rights record proved more important than his Daley machine connections.

Bathers Don't Give Air of Will to Work

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The State Division of Employment Office has advised the unemployed not to stop at the office on their way to or from the beach.

While we are not averse to people seeking relief from summer heat, Supt. Leo A. Sweeney said, unemployment insurance claimants appearing at our beach office are finding it difficult to convince us of their readiness for work.

Failure to Use Elderly Workers Costly Policy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Q.: "I am 63, healthy, and not afraid to work. But nobody wants me because I am too old. I don't want any financial help, but please advise me where I can go to get a job to supplement my Social Security check."

A.: Almost nowhere.

This typical plea underlines the towering problem facing literally millions of older Americans today: a wall of rejection by the U.S. employer. This honest answer also underlines our near-total failure to tackle the problem.

As Mrs. Geneva Mathiasen, executive director of the National Council on the Aging, recently testified before a Senate Special Committee, today's elderly "walk a taut tightrope between a lengthening longevity and a shrinking bank balance." A man now reaching the official retirement age of 65 can expect to live 13 additional years and a woman aged 65 lives an average of 16 more years.

Instant Poverty

Yet for millions, this milestone means automatic retirement and instant poverty: while citizens aged 65 and over now are nearly 10 per cent of our population, they are at least 20 per cent of our poor.

Officially, the unemployment rate for the elderly is below the national jobless rate of 4 per cent. But this is utterly misleading. The reason the rate is so low is that the elderly know there are no jobs for them and they stop looking. It's called "retirement," but as Mrs. Mathiasen says, it's "no more than a polite word for unemployment."

Nine out of 10 large U.S. corporations have mandatory retirement policies. While at least 20 states now have laws barring job discrimination on the basis of age, one half of the job openings in the U.S. still are closed to anybody aged 55 or over, and one in four job openings is closed to workers as young as 45.

Today, the U.S. Labor Department classifies a worker aged 45 or older as an "older worker" and this age group now makes up nearly one-half of the nation's long-term unemployed. Three out of four of the unemployed aged 65 or over are out of work for at least 15 weeks.

The cost to the U.S. economy of these facts, in unemployment compensation and lost production, is estimated at more than $4 billion a year. The economic-social cost to the workers involved cannot even be calculated.

Yet study after study of the job performance of older workers has shown that absenteeism actually is lower than among younger workers; that the older worker is at least as productive as his younger counterpart; that the average 55-year-old man remains on a new job longer than the average 25-year-old.

Lack Education

Admittedly, a key obstacle to providing jobs for the elderly is their relative lack of education and skills. More than three-fourths of the aged poor family heads have had less than eight years of schooling.

Another obstacle is the isolation of the elderly. As one observer put it: "They are not congregated in slums or segregated in ghettos. They are to be found in the rooms of rundown hotels of the central city, in old homes and apartments, in mining and railroad towns, in rural shacks."

But the vital "but" is that millions do have sufficient education, skills and know-how to perform many needed services today. The heart of the matter is that neither our great American economy nor our "Great Society" can afford to perpetuate today's policies concerning the elderly. Our economy needs the skills of all the experienced workers it can get.

Tomorrow: A token start.

Kaukauna Grass Fire

KAUKAUNA—Firemen were called about 1:50 p.m. Tuesday to extinguish a grass fire on property behind the Grignon Home. No damage was reported, but firemen used about a tank of water to extinguish the blaze.

Driver Fined for Hit-Run Incident

LITTLE CHUTE — Thomas Joosten, 21, 516 W. Ninth St., Kaukauna, pleaded guilty to hit and run driving without a valid driver's license and was fined a total of $65 when he appeared Monday before Municipal Justice Raymond Sanders.

Joosten was arrested June 27 after the auto he was driving struck another car and a motor bike and left the scene without stopping. Police were able to get a description of the car and license number from parties involved. No injuries resulted in the mishaps.

Herman Trudeau, 21, route 2, Black Creek, pleaded guilty to inattentive driving and was fined $15 by Justice Sanders. He was arrested after a June 25 accident.

Kimberly to Name Two to Appeals Board

KIMBERLY — Because the July 4 holiday falls on Monday, the regularly scheduled village board meeting date, the board will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Two persons will be named to terms on the board of appeals. The terms of William Courchane and Ted Kemps expire. Persons desiring to serve on the board are to submit applications in writing to the village clerk prior to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Lawn Mower, 2 Engines Stolen At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The theft of two gasoline engines and a lawn mower from which the motor had been removed were reported to police Monday.

One of the thefts, however, was solved by police a short time after being reported.

Two teen-age boys admitted taking the engine from a garden tiller in the garage at the Alfred Cummings residence, 503 E. 14th St. They told police they were planning to use it for a go-cart. The engine was recovered.

Edward Schuette, 800 W. Tenth St., reported an engine taken from his garden tractor while it was parked near his garden and Leo Crowell, 305 W. Division St., reported the lawn mower missing. The engine for the machine had been removed to have repaired.

Jack Paces Clinton's 7-4 Win Over Foxes

Sports POST-CRESCENT
Wed., June 29, 1966 Page D1

Fox Cities' Rath Seeks 11th Tonight

BY TERRY GALVIN
Post Crescent Staff Writer

Clinton rightfielder Zelman Jack who appeared to be the game's 'goat' momentarily donned the hero's halo shortly after with a towering 385 foot blast over the right center field fence Tuesday night triggering the Pilots to a 7-4 conquest of the Fox Cities Foxes

Mired in the Midwest League cellar with an 0-3 slate along with Dubuque, the first-round champion Foxes will try again for their initial triumph of the second session at 8 p m today

Manager Stan Wasiak's starting pitcher will be Fred Rath The 6'3 righthander will be seeking his 11th victory against one loss today Rath will also be out to stop the Foxes longest losing streak (four games) of the season

Fox Cities struck for a pair of runs in the fourth inning to open the scoring and Jack had a hand in it or didn't he?

Anyway Al Fitzmorris walked with one out and Doug Adams lashed a broken bat single to left field Jay Petersen forced Adams at second and Tom Cottrell stepped to the plate

Lost In Lights

Cottrell lofted a Bob Bonanno pitch to right field which Jack apparently lost in the lights but he made a futile stab for the ball as it finally came into view The swift Cottrell was credited with a triple scoring Fitzmorris and Petersen for a 2-0 lead

Clinton finally got to fast balling rookie Jim Magnuson, a former Wisconsin State University Oshkosh moundsman in the fifth and it was Jack that accounted for the heavy damage

After Magnuson struck out Tim Murtaugh and Bonanno Art Mullet poked an easy grounder to second sacker Al Kristowski who bobbled the ball for an error Juan Reyes rapped a ground single to center and Steve Coley's subsequent single along the same line scored Mullet

Two Mates Aboard

With two mates aboard Jack atoned for his earlier misfortune with a 3-run homer While Magnuson was the victim and dropped his first decision as a professional the four runs he gave up were all unearned The rangy southpaw fanned six and walked only one in just his second outing as a play for pay performer

After Don Money singled to left, Wasiak called on Gary

Kansas City Continues Upswing With 4-3 Win Over Leading Orioles

Detroit Raps 20 Hits In 15-3 Win; Mantle Cracks Two Homers

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Everything's upside down in Kansas City and the amaz in' Athletics never had it so good

The A's perennial American League tailenders under a succession of frustrated managers continued their upswing under new pilot Alvin Dark Tuesday night by ambushing first-place Baltimore 4-3

The victory, fifth for the A's in their last six starts, gave them a shot at overtaking the New York Yankees in the standings for the first time since Charley Finley was a tot They are eighth nine games below the 500 mark but only one-half length short of the Yankees who lost to last-place Boston 5-3 Tuesday night

While Kansas City fans have been struggling to keep pace with the comings and goings of their heroes result of a steady stream of trades – Dark has had his patch work club on the move After losing 15 of their first 20 games the A's have gone 30-29 since May 8

Ten Players Depart

Ten KC players have departed since spring training — including 1965 favorites John Wyatt Wayne Causey and Ken Harrelson — but Dark is getting mileage out of newcomers Danny Cater (White Sox), Roger Repoz (Yankees) and Jim Gosger (Red Sox)

Cater and Gosger each doubled in a run against the Orioles Tuesday night while rookie Chuck Dobson and relievers Ken Sanders and Jack Aker checked the league leaders on six hits

Detroit clobbered California 15-3 Minnesota blanked Cleveland 4-0 and Washington beat Chicago 4-1 in other AL games

The Athletics snapped Baltimore's three game winning streak by grabbing a 4-1 lead and then holding off the Orioles Bert Campaneris singled in the first inning off loser Jim Palmer and doubles by Cater and Gosger produced two runs

Red Sox Down New York

Home runs by George Thomas and Mike Ryan coupled with five Yankee errors helped the Red Sox down New York behind the six-hit pitching of Jose San

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight prospect Irish Jerry Quarry and Veteran Eddie Machen have signed to fight 10 rounds at the Olympic Auditorium July 14, the club announced Tuesday

Quarry of Bellflower Calif is unbeaten in 20 professional fights while the 33-year-old Machen San Francisco recently defeated another local hopeful Joe Orbillo, at the Olympic

Terrell Wins Lopsided Nod Over Jones in 'Title' Fight

Williams May be Next Opponent For WBA Heavyweight Champion

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON Tex (AP) — Ernie Terrell of Chicago the towering World Boxing Association champion who could give away two rounds on low blows and still win a lopsided decision over dogged New Yorker Doug Jones may announce today the next defense of his title

There were indications it might be Cleveland Williams, the Houston heavyweight on the comeback trail after a serious wound from a highway patrolman's gun

Williams appeared on the card Tuesday night when Terrell won a unanimous 15-round decision over Jones before 9 346 fans who paid $102 165 Cleveland preceded to beat up Tod Herring of Houston so badly he got a technical knockout early in the third round

Williams' manager, Hugh Benbow, already has offered $50 000 to Terrell to fight his boy Terrell also has a $75 000 offer to fight Canadian George Chuvalo, the man he defended his title against the first time last November

'I am ready to defend my title against anybody' said Terrell after his decision over Jones who at 6-foot-1 and 187½ pounds was five inches shorter and 22 pounds lighter than the towering Terrell

Anyway, he has called a press conference today and probably will make known whom the third defense of his title will be against

"Always Boo Big Guy"

But Terrell said, 'The people always boo the big guy when a big guy and a little guy fight — and cheer the little guy The referee kept pulling me off I couldn't turn him loose He would hit me on the breaks'

Jones said it was a wrestling match not a boxing match 'I don't believe in holding I was looking to get the best of him and he was looking to hold me

The second and 14th rounds were taken away from Terrell for low blows Before the referee, Ernie Taylor, could even rule on the second foul a Jones second Rollie Hackmer, rushed across the ring and the referee had to order him out

Sam Solomon trainer for Terrell said Jones should have been disqualified for the second's action but we don't want it that way

Few Damaging Blows

There were few damaging blows although Terrell got a cut over the right eye in the sixth round and Jones had a bloody nose in the eighth Terrell used his left jab for which he is noted in a monotonous hammering of Jones face

But there never was any question who was going to win the fight even with rounds taken away because of fouls It was actually called a dull fight by many of the fans although they expressed great admiration for Terrell's great left

Terrell will get $40 866 from the live gate while Jones will receive $25 541 The right also was carried over 67 outlets on closed television and Terrell gets 42½ per cent of that while Jones will receive 20 per cent Terrell should wind up with about $250 000 from both sources and Jones about $125 000

Giants' Bolin Stops Cardinals on 2 Hits; Reds Beat Dodgers

Phillies' Bunning Hurls 2-Hitter At Mets; Torre Paces Braves' Win

While dreams of a no-hitter danced in Bobby Bolin's head Jim Ray Hart two-stepped his way into the San Francisco Giants dugout chasing a pop foul After that the no-hit jig was up for Bolin

Bolin the strong armed right-hander who has been something of a disappointment this year had set the St Louis Cardinals down without a hit over 6 1/3 innings Tuesday night

Ruined No Hit Bid

Then ex Giant Orlando Cepeda lofted a foul fly off third Hart drifted over and caught the ball But the umpires ruled the third baseman was in the Giant dugout when he made the grab and nullified the apparent out

That gave Cepeda another swing and the slugging first baseman ruined Bolin's no-hit bid with a single Bolin surrendered only one other hit en route to a 7-1 victory

The Giants who won their 13th game in the last 17 backed Bolin with a 13 hit attack that included Willie Mays 18th homer and the 523rd of his National League career

The victory kept San Francis

Bunning

Veale

co's National League lead at four games over Pittsburgh which downed Houston 4-3 Jim Bunning pitched a two hitter for Philadelphia as the Phillies nipped the New York Mets 1-0 Cincinnati dropped Los Angeles 3-1 and Atlanta whipped Chicago 4-2 in other games

Bob Veale scattered eight hits as the Pirates kept pace with front running San Francisco by beating Houston

Run scoring singles by Roberto Clemente and Jose Pagan in the fifth inning put Pittsburgh in front for good as Vale blanked the Astros over the last six innings

White Homers

Bunning who pitched a perfect game in New York two years ago allowed the Mets only two singles — both of them in the fifth inning and got the only run he needed on Bill

Eckert Claims Expansion by 4 Teams Possible

Additional Clubs Inevitable Within Two to Eight Years

FORT WORTH Tex (AP) Baseball Commissioner William D Eckert says there is a possibility of a four team expansion in the major leagues within five years

The former Air Force general speaking at a news conference said Tuesday that expansion is inevitable perhaps within two years and probably not more than eight years away

'It's my desire to see that the fans demand for major league baseball is satisfied' he said If you want to narrow it down in terms of years I think five years would be the right time period for further expansion

The commissioner in his first year as head of the majors said most of the current expansion talk is coming from the press pointing to the fact that the majors did undergo a recent 25 per cent expansion

Eckert said it was his impression that the major league owners were anything but cautious in discussing the expansion issue

He said it would not be in the public interest to add new clubs when they could not meet the current competition Lack of good players slows expansion he added

LC-K, Menasha Win in Semi-Pro Meet

MENASHA — Defending champion Little Chute Kimberly and the Menasha Macs gained the final rounds of their respective brackets in the Fox River Valley District semi pro baseball tournament here Tuesday night

LC-K scored an 8-2 verdict over Garsow's while the Macs routed Black Creek 15-2

Little Chute Kimberly will meet the winner of Thursday's 7 p m game between Fond du Lac and Symco for the championship of its division at 9 p m Sunday The loser will play Garsow's for third place at 7 p m

The Macs face the victor of Thursday's 9 p m test between Two Rivers and Freedom for the title in its division at 3 p m Sunday Black Creek battles the loser for the third place trophy at 1 30

Hit 2-Run Homers

Lee Westphal and Robert Gerritts cracked two run homers to pace LC-K to its triumph The winners iced the game with 3 run outbreaks in the fifth and sixth innings They had tallied single markers in the second and third Garsow's made both of its runs in the fifth

Larry Huebner went the distance for the Village combo and pitched a five hitter The game was called after 7 innings because of the 1 hour 50 minute time limit Huebner struck out 10 and walked two

Dan Ferry started for Garsow's but needed help from Dale Hodkiewicz in the fifth They were nicked for 10 hits

Gerritts led the way with a homer and two doubles Jim VandeWettering and Dick Muirs each stroked two safeties

Hit Peak of Six

The Macs scored in five of their six innings against Black Creek and hit a peak of six runs in the sixth The time limit caused the game to end after 6½ frames

Jim Meyer went all the way for the winners and gave up six hits including three in the seventh He walked one and struck out 13

Don Kettner started and lost for the Creekers He had help from Jerry Rohm in the fourth inning They were touched for 15 hits

Tom Konetzke paced the victors with three hits a 3 run homer in the third a triple and a double Gene Loughrin added two singles and a double and Bill Gammey Jack Glvsch Meyer and Dick Sorensen all posted two safeties

National Women's Open Title on Line

Carol Mann Defends '65 Laurels Thursday on Minneapolis Layout

By JERRY LISKA

MINNEAPOLIS Minn (AP) — A tough new course and a tough young field make it unlikely the sentimental favorite Patty Berg can capture the $20,000 U S Women's Open Golf Championship starting at suburban Chaska Thursday

The famed Minneapolis redhead now 48 won the very first National Women's Open defeating Betty Jameson 5 and 4 at Spokane Wash in 1946

That was the first and last time the open was contested at match play The 21st Open which has drawn a field of 108 including 50 pro and 53 amateurs will be a 72 hole medal play test over unusual Hazeltine National Golf Club

The fact that Totton P Heffelfinger wealthy Minneapolis sportsman decided to make Hazeltine a true national tournament layout only five years ago is what makes it so tough for the veteran Miss Berg

"This is perhaps the finest test of golf ever faced by our national tourney said Patty of the par (women's) 72 6 325-yard spread over rolling hills young forests and lakes and streams

It's maybe the greatest course I've ever played on and in 24 years I've walked over quite a few smiled Patty

It puts a premium on length and with so many doglegs on long finesse And there are some short holes that will need finesse too I'm a little short to see the greens over some of those big traps

But the big thing going against me is that these new young pros keep a-staging close to 71 round after round At my very peak my best scoring average for a season was almost 73

Carol Mann Defends

Also tackling Hazeltine's rugged acres will be last year's champion Carol Mann four time Open winner Mickey Wright and virtually all the game's top gal pros

An especially strong contender may be Kathy Cornelius who finished two strokes behind Miss Mann's 290 last year at the Atlantic City Country Club and has been setting the money grabbing pace most of this year The top prize is $4 000

After the first 36 holes the field will be trimmed to the low 40s and ties

Valdespino Suspended by Twins' Griffith

ST PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—President Calvin Griffith of the Minnesota Twins Tuesday suspended outfielder Sandy Valdespino without pay for refusing to report to Denver of the Pacific Coast League

Valdespino was ordered to report to the farm club after the Twins recalled outfielder Ted Uhlaender last week

Valdespino's suspension will be lifted as soon as he reports to Denver He hit .261 as a rookie for the Twins last season but was batting under .200 this season

Folley Says He Deserves Bout With Terrell After KO of Davis

RENO, Nev (AP) — Heavyweight Zora Folley of Phoenix, Ariz., says he was promised a chance to fight the winner of the Ernie Terrell-Doug Jones championship bout and "I think I deserve it"

The crafty veteran boxer belted Jefferson Davis of Las Vegas, Nev., with a quick left hand hook and followed with a barrage of head and body punches to knock out Davis at 1 31 in the eighth round Tuesday night

Folley wants to fight Terrell, who successfully defended his World Boxing Association crown in Houston, Tex., Tuesday night, winning a 15-round decision over Doug Jones

"I think I can beat Terrell at his own game, slipping and jabbing, the 34 year old Folley said

His manager Bill Swift said Folley lost a decision to Terrell in their only match when "I called the wrong strategy"

Folley's knockout win was the 41st of his 13-year professional career

He peppered his 25-year-old opponent with left jabs to the head and strong rights to the body The three judges said they did not have Davis, ranked 10th by the WBA, winning one round before the end came to the scheduled 12-round bout

Folley, rated No 2 in WBA rankings, weighed in at 212½ while Davis scaled 190¾

Promoter Bud Hambleton and matchmaker George Parnassus had said they would offer Terrell $150 000 to fight Folley in Reno

Cassius Hopes to Cash in On His Overseas Popularity

Signs to Meet London in August, Karl Mildenberger in September

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay will meet erratic, unranked Brian London in London Aug. 6 or 13 and Germany's Karl Mildenberger in Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 10 or 17 in an effort to cash in quickly on his popularity overseas.

Arthur Grafton, attorney for Clay's Louisville sponsoring group, and British promoter Lawrie Lewis Tuesday night confirmed The Associated Press' report that the London fight was all set for the indoor Wembley Stadium, which seats 12,000 on Aug. 6 the most likely date.

Called Press Conference

"It's all settled," said Grafton after a meeting with Lewis, who represents British promoter Jack Solomons.

Grafton and Lewis called a press conference for today to announce some of the details of the Clay-London fight.

"Yeah, I'm gonna fight the two of them," said Clay at a downtown movie house where he watched the telecast of the Ernie Terrell-Doug Jones fight at Houston, Tex. for Terrell's World Boxing Association heavyweight title, which Terrell retained.

Depend on Clearance

The Mildenberger-Clay fight would depend on Clay's beating the 32-year-old former British champion. He'll be about a 15-1 favorite for that.

The fights also depend on Clay getting clearance from his draft board to go overseas. He is classified 1-A, making him subject to military call-up, but he has appealed his classification.

Clay was cleared for his defenses against George Chuvalo in Toronto, Canada, March 29, and against Henry Cooper in London May 21. He outpointed Chuvalo in a one-sided 15-rounder and stopped Cooper on cuts in the sixth round.

Both overseas fights will be telecast to the United States and other parts of the world by Early Bird Satellite just as it was done for the Cooper fight.

Stopped Five Times

London, once called "too old, too short, too fat and too ugly" by Clay, has a 35-13 won-lost record, including 26 knockouts. He has been stopped five times. He was knocked out by Floyd Patterson, then the heavyweight champion, in the 11th round at Indianapolis, May 1, 1959.

Mildenberger, the European champion, has a 49-2-3 won-lost-draw record, including 17 knockouts. He has been stopped twice. The handsome, 28-year-old left-hander is a boxer who relies mostly on his jabbing. He is ranked fifth contender by the WBA and fourth by Ring Magazine.

McCovey's Single Snaps Hex

Giants' Bolin Not Bothered by Loss Of No-Hit Bid Against Cards in 7th

ST. LOUIS (AP) — San Francisco right-hander Bob Bolin says he was quite content with a seventh-inning single by St. Louis slugger Orlando Cepeda Tuesday night that broke up his no-hitter.

"Certainly, I was thinking about a no-hitter," Bolin saidm "But I was trying to keep Cepeda from hitting one out. I was glad to give him just a single. I'd settle for giving up 20 hits so long as I win the game."

Bolin wound up pitching a two-hitter and won the game, 7-1, thanks to some heavy hitting by his teammatesn who pounded 15 hits, including Willie Mays' 523rd home run.

Charley Smith beat out a hit to deep short in the eighth for the only other hit off Bolin, now 5-5.

Into Visitors' Dugout

Cepeda singled to right just after a catch by third baseman Jim Hart of his foul pop up was nullified because Hart went into the visitors' dugout to grab the ball.

San Francisco catcher Tom Haller said Cepeda, a former Giant, hit a slider "that must have missed the plate by 12 inches. Cepeda just reached out with that big bat and dropped it through the hole."

Haller said first baseman Willie McCovey might have had a chance to grab the ball and make the putout if he had not had to hold Phil Gagliano close to the bag. Gagliano, who had walked, went to third on Cepeda's single and came home on Bolin's wild pitch.

Bolin said his fast ball was his big pitch through the early innings, but he started going to the slider later on because his arm began hurting.

First Appearance

It was the first appearance in St. Louis' new park for the right-hander, who hadn't won since June 7. "I like to make a good impression," he smiled.

He pitched a shutout in his first appearance in Atlanta's new stadium.

Haller said the Giants' early lead helped Bolin because the Cardinals wre taking the first pitch.

"It makes a lot of difference when you can get that first strike on the hitter," Haller said, "and Bolin can do it."

The Giants scored two runs off St. Louis starter Tracy Stallard in the third inning on singles by Jesus Alou, Haller, McRovey and Hart. They added two unearned runs in the fourth and one run in the seventh on McCovey's triple and Jim Davenport's sacrifice fly.

Mays hit his two-run homer, his 18th of the season, in the eighth inning.

'Didn't Think I Could Make It'

Victory Gives Big Lift to Ellis

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sammy Ellis thinks winning baseball games is pretty good medicine for his cold.

The 24-year-old right-hander scattered five hits Tuesday night as the Cincinnati Reds downed Los Angeles 3-1 and said afterwards he wondered a couple of times whether he could keep going.

It was the Reds' 13th victory in the last 17 games and the third time in a row that Ellis has won the ball game he started. His record is now 5-11—still a long way from last season's 22-10, but much better than two weeks ago.

"I have been sick all week with a cold and about the sixth inning I didn't think I could make it — my legs got so weak," Ellis said after the game.

"Trouble With Curve"

"I had trouble with my curve ball all night and had to use a slider much of the time. I just couldn't put that curve ball over."

The Dodgers scored their run in the first, but Cincinnati made it 2-1 in the bottom of the inning. Tommy Harper's fourth homer of the season — his third hit of the game — accounted for the final run in the seventh.

The Dodgers loaded the bases with two out in the fifth, but the inning ended when Jim Gilliam hit a bouncer off Ellis' right foot. Pete Rose caught the ball and flipped it to Leo Cardenas to force a runner at second.

"I believe if I had broken my ankle on that play it would not have hurt," Ellis said afterwards.

Two double plays also helped the Cincinnati cause and Dodgers' Manager Walt Alston remarked that "Ellis got hit a little harder than the score indicates. He had some fine plays made behind him."

Maury Wills led off in the Los Angeles first with a single to left. He stole second, went to third on a sacrifice and scored as Willie Davis flied out to left field.

Harper led off with a single for the Reds and came home when Tony Perez doubled one out and a walk later. Another run scored on Deron Johnson's sacrifice fly off losing pitcher Claude Osteen, who went all the way. Osteen now is 9-6 after having his winning streak broken at five games.

Swift Confident

Tigers Rake Angels for 20 Hits, Match Orioles

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels are in the position of someone trying to describe which hurts most, falling off the Empire State Building or being run over by a train.

That's the shape they're in after four straight losses to the American League's top two title contenders, Baltimore and Detroit.

The Angels are hard pressed to choose one team over the other after watching Detroit pound out 20 hits Tuesday night for a 15-3 victory. Sunday afternoon, Baltimore went on a 20-hit rampage and walloped the Angels 12-7.

Someone asked Bob Swift, the acting Detroit manager, to compare his team to the Orioles, who lead the Tigers by 2½ games.

"Better Pitching"

"I think we have better frontline pitching, a better bullpen and a stronger bench," said Swift. "There isn't a team in the league that's stronger than ours."

Swift has a right to be confident. The Tigers have captured 10 of their last 14 games and third record this month is a blistering 21-8.

Willie Horton drove in five runs with two singles and his eighth homer to spearhead Detroit's assault Tuesday night against five California pitchers. Clyde Wright, now 1-2, was the loser.

Al Kaline hit his 13th homer of the season for the Tigers and Norm Cash walloped his 12th.

The victory went to Earl Wilson, now 7-6. He slammed two singles and a triple and had a five-hitter going before a pulled leg muscle forced him from the game after seven innings. Johnny Podres finished.

Paul Schaal hit a solo homer for the Angels.

Manier Near North Shore Course Mark

John Manier, with the help of eight birdies, came within one stroke of the North Shore Golf Club course record recently with a 2-under par 68.

Manier, after a bogey-bogey start on the first two holes, made the turn in even par 35 and clipped the two shots off regulation on the back nine with a 33.

Manier's card showed eight birdies, coming on the 355-yard third, 515-yard fifth, 345-yard sixth, 145-yard seventh and 400-yard ninth on the outgoing nine and the 345-yard 10th, 381-yard 13th and 500-yard 15th on the back nine.

The remainder of Manier's card included five pars, four bogeys and one double bogey on the 4-par eighth hole.

The North Shore record of 67 is held jointly by club professional John Erickson, Tom Zeuthen and "Pike" Peterson.

Other honor cards or the challenging North Shore track were 74s by John Schmerein and Don Jabas, 76s by Wayne Williams and Peterson and a 77 by John Maring.

Kause Dismissed as General Manager of PCL's Portland Entry

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jerry Krause of Chicago was dismissed Tuesday as general manager of the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League and succeeded by Will Hudson.

William Moore, president of the Beavers, described the dismissal as the result of a personality conflict.

line and Norm Cash also homered for the Tigers.

Camilo Pascual and Al Worthington subdued Cleveland on five hits as the Twins rolled to their fourth victory in a row. Pascual worked seven innings before his arm stiffened and Worthington allowed one hit in finishing up. Tony Oliva, Cesar Tovar and Harmon Killebrew produced Minnesota runs with a homer, triple and double, respectively.

The Senators breezed past Chicago as left-hander Mike McCormick scattered five hits and belted a homer. Don Lock cracked a three-run homer for Washington while Bill Skowron had a homer, double and single for the White Sox.

White's two-out homer in the seventh.

Bob Friend, the Mets' starter, also allowed only two hits but was charged with the loss, his first since coming to New York two weeks ago.

Streaking Cincinnati won its 10th game in the last 11 as Sammy Ellis limited the Dodgers to five hits. It was the third straight victory for Ellis since returning the Reds starting rotation.

Joe Torre drove in three runs with a single and his 17th homer accounting for half of Atlanta's hits against Chicago's Ken Holtzman. Clay Carroll pitched six innings of shutout relief and got credit for the victory, his third in five decisions.

'Wasted Money'

State Senator Blasts Antitrust Suit Costs

MADISON (AP)—The approximately $125,000 that anti-trust efforts to return the Braves have cost Wisconsin to date were labeled practically wasted money by a leading state senator today.

The expense figure and the criticism emerged at a meeting of a legislative group hearing a request from state agencies for financial help in various administrative areas.

Under questioning, Dep. Atty. Gen. Arlen Christenson said the fees and expenses of special state attorneys in the anti-trust suit had reached $75,740 so far.

He estimated another $50,000 in costs had been accumulated in preparing witnesses' testimony and other court expenses.

Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, said, "it's almost like a waste of state money."

Hollander cited waning fan support in the Braves' final years in Milwaukee and expressed doubt that the legal efforts would ever be successful in returning major league baseball to the state.

Hollander is co-chairman of the Board on Government Operations before which the discussion took place.

The National League and its ten clubs were convicted in April of violating the state's anti-trust law by the shift of the Braves to Atlanta this year. Their appeal is now being studied by the State Supreme Court.

The Braves are under court orders to return to Milwaukee unless a 1967 expansion team is granted to the city, but enforcement of the order has been delayed while the appeal is pending. Many observers expect the legal fight to reach the U.S. Supreme Court.

Hollander asked if, in light of this, eventual expenses might total twice the current sum.

Christenson answered, "I would say that would be a real maximum. I doubt if it would get that far."

Christenson said the state's special counsel was being paid at the minimum recommended legal rate of $20 an hour.

The discussion came in a request for additional funds of $50,000 for the attorney general's office to meet expenses for special counsel in John Doe cases in Milwaukee. The sum was approved by the board 6-1.

Jack's Homer Lifts Clinton Over Foxes, 7-4

Schaefer, another lefty, to relieve Magnuson. Schaefer retired the side on a ground out, but Clinton enjoyed a 4-2 lead.

The visitors boosted their margin to 5-2 in the eighth without benefit of a hit. Money walked and Ed Blackman was safe on an error. Doug Sherry walked to jam the sacks and Money crossed the plate when Murtaugh bounced into a force-out at second.

With two down in the ninth, Steve Coley slapped a triple just over Doug Adams' head in left field. Jack followed with a slow roller down the third base line for a single, scoring Coley for his fourth run-batted-in of the game.

Jack advanced when Foxes' catcher Bob Von Eps was tagged with a passed ball and threw wild to second base. Cottrell, who was backing up the play on the outfield grass from his center field post, then threw wild to third, allowing Jack to score.

The Foxes mounted a mild rally in the bottom of the ninth when Cottrell singled for his third hit of the night, Kristowski walked and Jim Maness singled to jam the sacks. With two out, "Deacon" Jones lined a 2-run single to right field, but the threat of a complete resurgence was snuffed when Al Fitzmorris flied to center to end the game.

Win Today's Grand Prize By Coloring the Marbles

BY CAPPY DICK

Color the marbles in the adjoining picture and you may win a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica True to Life Books containing fascinating illustrated stories about the world of nature and boys and girls.

Five sets of these books will be awarded as the grand prize in today's contest. For a chance to win a set all you need do is color the marbles and send the picture to me after coloring it into a picture as neat and original in appearance as you can make it.

If your entry turns out to be one of the best received from boys and girls of the Appleton area it will win for you a qualifying local prize consisting of a packet of 100 foreign postage stamps. The entry then will be considered by the contest judges along with similarly qualified entries from all other cities where this column is published in their search for the five they consider to be the neatest and most original of all. The boys and girls who sent in the five will win the True-to-Life Books.

There are eight exciting books to own. Included are such titles as

Color the marbles

Life in the Forest, Birds in Summer, The Ugly Duckling and Pablo Boy of Mexico. There are eight other books in the set.

Clip Picture Out

After coloring the picture of the marbles clip it out and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Print your name age and address beneath it.

Use paints, crayons, cutouts or other means to decorate the entry in any neat original way.

When you have completed it to your satisfaction address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight Friday, July 1.

Names of the prize winners will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges decision will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property. None can be returned.

Ralston's Service May Take Him Into Wimbledon Finals

It Can be Brilliant Claims His Semi-Final Opponent, Drysdale

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON England (AP) — Dennis Ralston's service — one of the most unpredictable in world tennis could take him into the Wimbledon final today for the first time

The U S Davis Cup star from Bakersfield Calif faced South African Cliff Drysdale in the semifinals And Drysdale admitted that Ralston's service can be brilliant and I know I must tame it if I am to beat him

Ralston's service has been erratic throughout the tournament and he dropped one set in each of his first four matches But against Bob Hewitt of Australia in the quarter final the American had his service going well and it took him to a comfortable straight sets victory

He has an old score to settle with Drysdale In the U S Championships at Forest Hill last year the South African defeated him in a five setter in the quarter finals

Have Met Twice

Apart from that the two men have met only twice — on clay courts Ralston won one and Drysdale the other

The other semifinal today was between Manuel Santana of Spain winner at Forest Hill last year and Owen Davidson unseeded Australian left hander

If Santana does what is expected of him and knocks out Davidson the final will be the first for 11 years without an Australian That hasn't happened since Tony Trabert of the United States defeated Kurt Nielsen of Sweden in 1955

Santana won a five set classic against Australia's Ken Fletcher Tuesday on the center court Fletcher who had kept the wily Spaniard at full stretch with a fine display of hard hitting finally cracked and Santana won 6-2 3-6 8-6 4-6 7-5

Drysdale upset Australia's Tony Roche the No 2 seed 9-7 6-2 6-2

Australian hopes have slid to almost zero the three top Aussie stars — defending champion Roy Emerson three time runner up Fred Stolle and now Roche have been tumbled out

Carries Flag Alone

Davidson a unseeded left hander whom nobody took seriously found himself carrying the Australian flag alone

The center court grease and slippery after intermittent rain throughout the last week has proved the downfall of both Emerson and Britain's Bobby Wilson who slipped and hurt his knee while playing Santana

It almost claimed another victim Tuesday Mrs Ann Jones British left hander who is aiming for the women's title She defeated Nancy Richey of Dallas Tex 4-6 6-1 6-1 and went sprawling as the American girl hit the last shot of the match out of court

Ann limped off the court but said later she was all right She twisted her left ankle in the fall

It was her third victory over Miss Richey this year She previously defeated her in the final of the French Championship and in the Wightman Cup

In the other quarter final Tuesday the defending champion Margaret Smith of Australia crushed Trudy Groenman of the Netherlands 6-0 6-4 Maria Bueno of Brazil downed Francoise Durr of France 6-4 6-3 and Billie Jean Moffitt King of Long Beach Calif overcame Annette Van Zyl of South Africa 1-6 6-2 6-4

In Thursday's semifinals Miss Smith will play Mrs King and Mrs Jones will face Miss Bueno

Williams Happy Mays Could Pass Him on All-Time Homer List

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) Ted Williams one of the most feared sluggers in baseball history is proud of his hitting feat but doesn't mind being passed in the all time home run derby by a player of Willie Mays' calibre

I'm very happy for him Williams said in extending Mays congratulations for displacing him at the game No 3 home run hitter Willie's a great guy and has been good for baseball

Williams scheduled for induction into the Hall of Fame next month at Cooperstown N Y compiled an enviable record with the Boston Red Sox from 1939 until his retirement in 1960 Despite hitches as a Marine Corps flyer in World War II and the Korean War he batted .344 and hit 521 homers in 19 years on with the Red Sox

Trails Ruth and Foxx

Mays passed Williams by breaking his 32nd career homer in San Francisco's victory at St Louis Monday night The Giants spectacular centerfielder now trails only Babe Ruth 714 and Jimmy Foxx 534 in career homers

I knew he was going to catch me and I'm happy for him Williams said on a visit to Fenway Park Tuesday night where he saw the Red Sox beat the New York Yankees We've a great ball player He deserves all the praise he gets

Williams who will be 48 August 30 is enjoying life while devoting time to various enterprises He is a vice president of the Red Sox promotes sporting goods for a department store chain Sears Roebuck and operate a baseball camp for boys in Lakeville Mass

Right now I'm looking forward to the Hall of Fame ceremonies It certainly is an honor to be going in with Casey Stengel I'm going in with a tremendous man No one man contributed more to baseball than Casey I'm very proud I'm also very sad that there isn't a man in the game that I respect more Williams said

Chamber Maps Final Drive

NEW LONDON — Final steps for concluding the Chamber of Commerce membership drive were taken at Tuesday's meeting of the membership committee.

W. A. Bender president will send a letter to members who have not sent in membership dues so far. Norman Hanson committee chairman said some chamber members of 1965 had not been contacted about the new fair share plan.

Harry S Emans executive secretary said 23 of the 140 members from 1965 still had not paid their dues while the same number of members were in the organization with the new members being added for 1966.

Dues paid to the group exceed $5,000 compared to $3,500 of last year. Emans noted that a decrease in renewals had been experienced in all chambers which had adopted the fair share plan in previous years but that the members soon had resumed membership in the promotion organization of their cities.

Quad Cities Wins, Leads Midwest Loop

Quad Cities quelled a ninth inning rally by Dubuque to edge the Packers 4-3 and gain sole possession of first place in the Midwest League.

The win left the Angels with a 3-0 mark while four teams are one game off the pace with 2-1 records.

Decatur and Quincy posted a pair of 7-3 decisions over Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, respectively.

Wisconsin Rapids used a 5-run second and a pair of home runs by Craig Nettles to stop Burlington, 8-5.

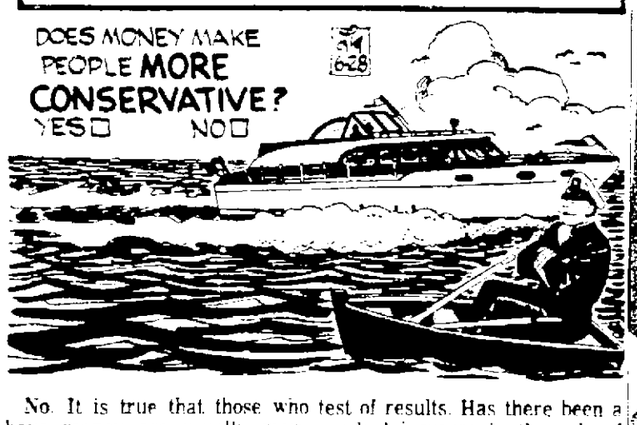
Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.



No. It is true that those who have money are usually more conservative than those who do not. But there are always a considerable number of very poor people who are conservative, and some of the wealthy who are radicals. There have been some millionaries who become socialists. Actually then, money is only one of several factors that make people radical, liberal or conservative. To understand others, we these other factors that influence their views.

Can we measure the effectiveness of advertising

Yes —— No ——

Yes. Those concerned are trying to do it constantly. One common means is the rating technique in which audiences are asked to give their reactions. The other is the simple test of results. Has there been a marked increase in the sale of the product advertised? Both of these involve problems. Those who listen do not necessarily buy. And if sales have increased, which form of advertising was most effective? Despite the amount of scientific study already done, there is still much of which we are not certain.

HOW DO YOU GET A BOY INTERESTED IN YOU? Can an ex-steady still be a friend? What about petting? For the answers to these and other teenage problems, send for "What Teenagers Should Know About Life and Love." This down-to-earth guide to teen behavior can be yours for 20 cents, and a stamped, return envelope, sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of the Post-Crescent.

More Than Million Feet Of Film Record War Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed forces have shot more than a million feet of movie film of the Viet Nam war for military and documentary purposes, spokesmen reported.

Since last October, the Air Force alone has exposed 524,000 feet of 16mm film in cameras, some of them mounted on aircraft.

The Navy will provide no exact figure, but says its Viet Nam film footage approximates the Air Force level.

Army camera teams, a spokesman said, are exposing film at the rate of at least 200,000 feet a year and perhaps twice that.

Screen Film

Top military officials in Saigon and Washington screen the film as soon as it is processed—sometimes within hours of a combat strike. Selected footage, complete with narration, ultimately is made available for public showing or sent to the National Archives to be preserved.

The Air Force and Navy fighter and bomber aircraft have been equipped with camera-carrying pods to record bomb damage, weapon delivery techniques and any intelligence data that can be gleaned from pictures of a target zone.

More than 100 Air Force personnel are assigned to combat photography duties in the Southeast Asian country and that force is being expanded. Much of their work involves loading and unloading of airplane cameras and the processing of film.

All five of the aircraft carriers assigned to Viet Nam missions have facilities to process black and white motion pictures within hours. Color film must be returned to Washington for processing.

Navy Pilots

Navy pilots view movies of the missions they fly to see how well—or how badly—they have scored on strikes. They also can study previous films to become familiar with future targets.

The Navy launched its photography program in April 1965. By July, the carriers were equipped with processing facilities. Last February, camera pods were added to Marine planes flying air strikes from the base at Da Nang.

The Army started its Viet Nam combat photography program in January and has a number of teams carrying 35mm still and 16mm movie cameras to document ground operations.

Each week, Army photography technicians put together a half-hour movie which is sent for study to military officials in Saigon and Washington, as well as other commands around the world.

In addition to major battles, the Army records troop activities in films distributed to the press.

Gold Stocks Show Drop of $86 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. gold stocks declined $86 million in May, the biggest drop in 11 months.

France was the major purchaser, as she had been for many months. She accounted for about $78 million of the decline.

The Federal Reserve Board reported today that the May loss increased the drain for the first five months of this year only to $224 million, a far cry from the more than $1.1 billion lost during the same period of 1965.

As of May 31, U.S. gold stocks totaled $13.58 billion, the board said.

The Treasury usually sells $10 million to $15 million worth of gold monthly for domestic industrial use.

Officials said the Treasury also purchased some gold during May. But they declined at this time to say how much and from whom.

Built-In Trigger

By KENNETH L. DAVIS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The armed forces of Argentina once again in charge of the nation by virtue of their guns have a built-in revolt trigger.

It's called Peronism after exiled Dictator Juan D. Peron.

Any time the followers of Peron get too strong, the trigger clicks and another government falls.

The fear of renewed power for the forces Peron left behind is rooted in memories of his nine-year dictatorship and the hold his movement still has on Argentina's workers. The Peronists control around three million votes in a voting population of 12 million, including most of the trade unions.

The military would prefer no Peronist candidate ever gets on any ballot. But so long as that ballot is in a remote and lightly populated province — such as Neuquen, Chaco or Jujuy — the military generally rolls with the punch. The Peronists control those three provinces.

But if the Peronists show signs they can take Buenos Aires Province, the trigger begins to move. In provincial elections in 1965, it became evident that unless President Arturo Illia's government acquired more strength from some place, the Peronists were a shoo-in to take over the capital province in the provincial elections next March.

Machine Like

Buenos Aires Province not only has one-third of Argentina's population. It has a great deal of the industry — and a 25,000-man provincial police force with guns, tear gas and trucks.

The military is much like the heart-lung machine in open heart surgery.

As long as the machine isn't turned on, the civilian legislative, executive and judicial heart of Argentina pumps along. Let the military turn on the rebellion machine, and the heart is bypassed. The military takes over. It has been so since 1955 when the military threw Peron out with violence and bloodshed.

As long as the military has the guns, its leaders say privately, Peronists never will have a chance to take power again. Since Peronism's appeal comes from the benefits he gave the descamisados — Argentina's shirtless ones — and since there still are more backs than shirts, the prospect is for more clicks of the revolt trigger.

'Lot of Persuasion'

In Madrid, where Peron has lived since 1960, a close associate said it probably would take a lot of persuasion to get Peron to go back to Argentina, even if the door was wide open. But that door — or so he thinks today — has been slammed shut by the generals' plot, and he seemingly will be happy to continue his life here.

Peron, as the years pass, obviously enjoys the life of a country gentleman, the associate continued. He lives well, he eats well, he enjoys the life he has in exile.

Peron is now 70, and his health declined noticeably after a prostate operation more than two years ago. He drives about the Spanish countryside, writes, reads, exercises, meets with close friends and Argentine politicians who go to Madrid to consult him.

General to be Sworn in Today

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Lt. Gen. Juan Carlo Ongania, a former army chief, is to be sworn in today as head of a new military regime which hopes to win over some of the Argentine masses still loyal to Juan D. Peron.

Ongania, 52, was picked by a three-man military junta made up of the present commanders of the army, navy and air force. They took control Tuesday after the army overthrew the civilian government of President Arturo Illia in a bloodless overnight coup.

The military gave no indication how long it intends to remain in power. Veteran observers predicted it will be several years before it permits election of another civilian regime.

Bombers Tighten Noose Around Hanoi, Haiphong

Reds Will Pay More, Defense Chief Claims

McNamara Says Area Contained 60 Per Cent of Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today U.S. planes hit Hanoi-Haiphong oil depots today to make North Viet Nam's infiltration of the south more costly. He portrayed the raids as highly successful.

McNamara said every effort was made to prevent harm to civilians and to prevent destruction of nonmilitary facilities.

He told a broadcast and televised news conference the decision to strike the petroleum facilities was made by President Johnson on his recommendation and that of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

McNamara said the decision to strike these targets was made to restrict and make more costly the enemy's infiltration of South Viet Nam.

'Save Lives'

Another objective, he said, was to save the lives of the South Vietnamese, Americans, Australians and South Koreans fighting in South Viet Nam.

The action, McNamara said, was a response to a swift and rising North Vietnamese build-up in South Viet Nam which has converted the fighting there into a quasi-conventional war operation.

That buildup, he said, has made the North Vietnamese forces and their Viet Cong allies increasingly dependent on truck movement of heavy supplies, increasing the strategic importance of fuel.

McNamara said more than 60 per cent of North Viet Nam's oil storage facilities were in the three target areas hit.

Major Strikes Blanket Fuel Depots Near Capital, Port; Termed 'Highly Successful'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy jets brought the air war closer than ever to North Viet Nam's capital and major port today, bombing major fuel depots three miles from the center of Hanoi and in the dock area of Haiphong.

The pilots reported the raids were highly successful with both storage areas in flames. Smoke rose 20,000 feet from the complex of fuel tanks near Hanoi and 30,000 feet from the Haiphong tanks, a U.S. spokesman said. The Hanoi target was covered like a blanket, he added.

The U.S. Air Force announced one plane in F10 under heaviest number fell in the attack near Hanoi and the pilot was missing. This came out after the communique of the U.S. Command had reported no U.S. aircraft were lost in either strike.

Late Hanoi claimed seven planes were shot down, four near Hanoi and three in the Haiphong area, and several U.S. pilots were captured.

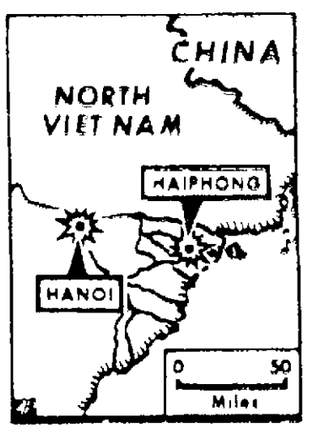
The air offensive in the Communist north now in its 16th month, completely dominated the U.S. Command's daily war report.

In South Viet Nam, where thousands of U.S. troops are in the field searching for the Communist, only very light and scattered minor contacts were reported.

On the political front, the threat of a Buddhist boycott of South Viet Nam's September elections diminished as more monks rallied behind the conciliatory policy espoused by the moderate chairman of the Buddhist Institute.

The growing support in the Buddhist hierarchy for Thich Tam Chau left his militant rival Thich Tri Quang increasingly isolated, but Quang showed no signs of abandoning his hunger strike.

Six flights of Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs struck the petroleum complex three miles across the Red River from the center of Hanoi, using 750-pound bombs during the 35-minute attack, the U.S. spokesman said. He said the area around the 32 tanks had no sizable population.



Four flights of Navy jets from the 7th Fleet carriers Constellation and Ranger aided the oil facilities at Haiphong, two miles from the center of the city. The spokesman said 90 per cent of the fuel going into North Viet Nam moves through the depot which contains 28 tanks above and below ground. The raid lasted eight minutes.

A flight usually numbers about four aircraft.

The American pilots ran into intensive antiaircraft fire over Hanoi but said they encountered little flak in the Haiphong area.

Elephant Kills Girl At Zoo in Madison

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Nine-year-old Michael Sharpe heard a mother scream.

Winkie, a 3-ton import from India, snaked her trunk out through the bars and curled it around the child.

"I didn't know what to do," Michael said. "Winkie just grabbed her and started pulling her in. She was trumpeting and the girl's mother was screaming. I didn't know what was wrong with Winkie. I never saw her that way."

The girl was Julie Ellen Freedman, the daughter of Prof. Ralph Freedman of Princeton University.

Before anyone could reach her, the elephant smashed the child against the bars of the cage, dropped her, picked her up again, drew her inside the cage and [illegible] to her side.

After Mrs. Freedman screamed, she and her husband dashed to a gate and entered in an attempt to rescue the child, but by then the elephant had pulled her through the bars.

Ruth Ellen was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Dane County Coroner Clyde Chamberlain said the fatal injury probably was inflicted by the elephant's feet after the child was inside the cage.

She was more or less stomped, he said.

Visiting Lecturer

Ruth Ellen had come to Madison a few days ago with her parents.

Freedman, a prominent scholar and writer, was spending the summer at the University of Wisconsin as a visiting lecturer.

The university is not far from the city zoo, where Winkie, the only elephant, has been the star attraction for children since her arrival almost 20 years ago.

Zoo Director Alvie Nelson considered the 23-year-old animal docile. "We've had no problems with her," he said.

The barrier was supposed to keep zoo visitors at a safe distance from the cage. "It's a perfectly safe enclosure," said Nelson, "except if people want to get in, you can't keep them out."

The first person to reach the child was Melvin Bolig, the caretaker. He was in the nearby lion house.

"I heard screams, and I rushed to the cage. I saw the child lying on the concrete. The elephant walked away. The mother walked in the cage."

The coroner said he didn't know what would become of the animal.

Four More Killed

Second Explosion Rips Tanker Off New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a deadly echo of disaster, the volatile cargo of a British tanker has again exploded and burned in New York Harbor, adding at least four deaths to the toll of 33 in a harbor collision June 16.

This time, the 11,252-ton Alva Cape was stricken at anchor off Brooklyn while the remains of its naphtha cargo were being removed.

A new flash of flame seared the Alva Cape's already scarred hull Tuesday and there was fear of a greater disaster until tugs bravely pushed the barge unloading the naphtha away from the flames.

Mayor John V. Lindsay flew over the scene in a helicopter as he had after the June 16 collision — and said he would seek the Alva Cape's removal from the harbor as a continuing menace to navigation.

Besides the four known dead in Tuesday's explosion, nine were injured and three were missing.

Fire Chief John O'Hagen blamed the latest explosion on oxygen mixed with the naphtha being pumped from the tanker in temperatures that reached 101 degrees in the past two days.

As they had less than two weeks ago in the Kill Vankull, fireboats rushed Tuesday to the explosion scene in Gravesend Bay, dodging fire and smoke to pour foam on the burning tanker.

The tug Susan Moran, which had towed the Alva Cape to Gravesend Bay after the collision with the American tanker Texaco Massachusetts, removed 10 persons from the newly burning tanker.

Large Tropical Storm Building In Caribbean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau said today a tropical depression over the northwest Caribbean is poorly organized although large.

However, forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said the storm is expected to move toward the north or north-northwest at a little faster rate today with some chance of intensification after it gets into the Gulf of Mexico.

At midnight, the storm was centered about 325 miles south-southwest of Miami. It was moving north at about five miles an hour.

If the tropical depression turns into a tropical storm or hurricane, it will be named Becky.

Shots Fired Between Races

State Troopers Quell Violence in Georgia Town, No Injuries

COLDEN, Ga. (AP) — Armed whites and Negroes exchanged dozens of shots today in a furious gun battle which erupted at two neighboring service stations.

Police said no injuries were reported. But a hail of gunfire was exchanged before the arrival of police and state troopers quelled the violence, leaving an uneasy quiet in this South Georgia city which has witnessed sporadic racial violence during the last three days.

Officers said slugs from pistols, rifles and shotguns ripped into several cars and buildings during the nearly 30 minutes gunfire.

Police said the gunmen scattered around the two service stations, broke into small groups and fled when officers, supplemented by more than 30 state troopers, moved in.

Officers said no shots were fired at police. The police did not have to fire a shot to break up the battle.

There was no immediate indication of how the hostilities started, how many persons were involved or which side fired the first shots.

DeGaulle Cancels Visit to Memorials

Speculation Says French Leader Fears Offending Bonn in U.S.S.R.

By B. VEHLETI WALLEE

VOLGOGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle of France cancelled visits to a World War II memorial and sites of the battle of Stalingrad at the last minute today, arousing speculation he did not want to offend West Germany.

The official explanation was De Gaulle had too heavy a schedule.

There was speculation De Gaulle, who has been careful not to mention West Germany in public speeches on his Soviet tour, did not want his visit to the scene of Germany's World War II defeat to emphasize the war against Germany.

De Gaulle was scheduled to start his tour by placing a wreath at a downtown monument to soldiers who died in the battle of Stalingrad. French source said he passed this up because he had laid two wreaths Tuesday honoring World War II dead here and in Kiev.

Sturgeon Swim

De Gaulle visited a hydroelectric plant, was shown the lift through which caviar-bearing sturgeon swim up the Volga River past a dam and was given a sturgeon as a memento.

There is always a victim, he said.

Informed sources said De Gaulle and Soviet leader had discussed establishment of a hotline between Moscow and Paris, but no agreement has been reached so far on a direct communications link such as the one between Washington and Moscow.

Doctor Blames His Profession After Addiction to Own Drugs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A doctor who became a drug addict charges the medical profession doesn't know how to treat me and doesn't really want to know.

The profession that has for generations battled to keep the government from intervening between the doctor and his patient is content to let a federal tax agency tell it what to prescribe for me, he writes anonymously in the July 1 issue of Medical World News.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is responsible for administering and enforcing federal narcotics laws.

Eight years ago, at age 35, he writes, he was a successful pediatrician in a wealthy New Jersey suburb with a wife and five children.

Then he began taking a codeine and aspirin combination to ease a gnawing tension that built up during the afternoons and soon progressed to hypodermics of morphine.

Knowing he was heading for trouble, he consulted a psychiatrist who advised hospitalization. Eight months in a private mental hospital used up his savings, and I made wonderful progress in all respects but one. I didn't find out why I took drugs.

His drug consumption increased, and he next went to the mecca of all American addicts, the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Lexington, Ky. But any kind of therapy there is bound to flounder on the

Grand Jury Issues Lobby Indictments Before Adjourning

Action Against Two Bankers Brings Total of Accused to 13

MADISON (AP) — The Dane County grand jury that has been investigating legislative lobbying adjourned Tuesday after exactly three months of service but not until after issuing two more indictments.

The indictments against Donald N. Baxter, a vice president of Marshall & Ilsley Bank, Milwaukee and Badger State Association of Banks, Stevens Point, brought the total number of indictments to 13 since the 17-member jury was convened March 28.

Baxter, who has been with Marshall and Ilsley for more than 25 years, was accused of false swearing, a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and three years in prison.

The Badger State Association of Banks was indicted for employing Roy A. Menzel and Robert Williams, both of Stevens Point, as unregistered lobbyists to rally support for the legislative repeal of Wisconsin's ban on branch banking.

Charge Misdemeanor

The charge against the association is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine ranging from $200 to $5,000.

Marshall and Ilsley was cited earlier as one of six banks accused of hiring unregistered lobbyists. Bribery charges were lodged against two state assemblymen and another Milwaukee banker as a result of the probe and a lobbyist was indicted for perjury and false swearing.

Circuit Judge Edwin Wilkie was assigned the association case for which no date has yet been scheduled.

The Badger association was a strong proponent of the branch banking bill. The measure passed the Assembly in 1965 but was killed this spring in the Senate. It would have lifted a prohibition that has been on the establishment of branch banks since 1947.

Fake Statements

Baxter, a resident of Elm Grove, is accused of willfully, feloniously and corruptly making false statements to the jury.

The indictment quotes an extract between the jury and Baxter in support of the charges.

To make it more specific, did you yourself make any contact with any legislators outside of your own legislative area? is the question the jury said it put to Baxter.

Absolutely none, was the quoted response. The indictment says investigation disclosed that Baxter, in truth and in fact, contacted legislators outside of his area, an act defined by the jury as lobbying.

Baxter said Tuesday night that his indictment was incredible.

Everything I told them was truthful, he said. I am astonished that anyone could come to any other conclusion. I know that a trial will demonstrate that everything I told the grand jury was truthful.

Baxter's case was assigned to Judge William Sachtjen. No date was set for an appearance.

In another development Tuesday, Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, filed a motion in Circuit Court to dismiss the bribery indictment against him.

A hearing on the motion was scheduled for 2 p.m. today before Circuit Judge Nels Mallon.

Motions to dismiss the bribery indictment against Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, were filed late this morning.

The jury indicted Alfonsi last Wednesday for accepting a $100 check from resort owner Anthony Wasko of Hayward in connection with the accelerated sign way construction bill.

Hutnik stated in his motion the indictment does not state facts sufficient to constitute an offense. He also maintained the Dane County court did not have jurisdiction over the alleged offense.

Coed Editor Will Appeal To High Court

Young Woman Fined $300 for Refusing To Reveal Sources

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Annette Buchanan's fight against being forced to reveal confidential news sources will go to the Oregon Supreme Court.

The 20-year-old student editor was fined $300 in State Circuit Court Tuesday for refusing to identify seven marijuana smokers she interviewed for a story in the University of Oregon newspaper last month.

Her attorney, Arthur Johns, said in a news conference that William Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune and former Republican senator from California, had sent $200 for either the fine or legal expenses. Johns estimated it would cost $2,500 to appeal to the Supreme Court.

Judge Edward Leahy said her rebuff of a court order to name the sources was contempt of court. He gave her the maximum fine but did not impose a possible six-month jail term.

Right of Oregon

It appears to the court the right and remedy of the State of Oregon was defeated and prejudiced by the action of the respondent in her commission of the contempt which the court finds, said the judge.

Dist. Atty. William Love hailed the decision. The court's finding re-established the principle that a journalist has no special privilege to refuse to answer questions.

There are substantial questions of law and constitutional rights involved, and it will be good for the matter to be heard on appeal, Johnson said.

Earlier he had asked the judge for a token sentence, saying: Here we have a 20-year-old student who has been taught what her duties and her responsibilities in the press are, and she acted within those teachings, and in good faith.

Miss Buchanan said earlier she had told the marijuana smokers she would not divulge their names, and she was bound by that. Professional newspapermen testified the court should recognize it's important to press and public to have confidential news sources protected.

Twelve states have laws permitting the press to keep news sources confidential. Oregon does not.

Oregon Secretary of State Tom McCall, the Republican nominee for governor, called for Oregon's publishers and broadcasters to spearhead a drive for legislation to protect the identity of confidential news sources. McCall said he would push for such a law.

Kennedy Favorite Cracks Tammany

By TOM POSTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy emerged today as undisputed leader of New York's Democratic party, strengthened by a smashing victory over once-powerful Tammany Hall in a normally obscure primary judgeship race.

Kennedy's hand-picked candidate for judge of the Surrogate (Probate) Court — Samuel J. Silverman — defeated the regular Manhattan organization candidate, Arthur Klein, in an open test of Kennedy's political strength. Both Silverman and Klein now are New York Supreme Court justices.

The race was the highlight of New York's primary elections which also saw a Goldwater Republican defeat a candidate endorsed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits and an opponent of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy upset a veteran congressman.

Goldwater Republican

On suburban Long Island, Steven Derounian, who lost his congressional seat when he backed Barry Goldwater in the Johnson landslide of 1964, won for the Republican nomination over 20-year GOP moderate William J. Casey.

From Washington, Goldwater said in a statement that Derounian's victory was just one more convincing proof that mainstream of the Republican party is as it always has been — common sense conservatism.

Casey was endorsed by Javits but Javits did not campaign actively for him. Derounian will face Rep. Lester L. Wolff, the Democrat who defeated him two years ago, in the November election.

In Brooklyn, the powerful Democratic organization beat down two strong challenges against Rep. Edna Kelly, a Democratic national committeewoman, and Rep. Abraham Multer.

Third Generation

In an upstate Hudson Valley contest, Hamilton Fish Jr., son and grandson of former congressmen, won the Republican nomination for Congress. He defeated Alexander Aldrich, a cousin and former aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Kennedy encouraged Silverman to enter the race for Manhattan surrogate last month after the New York County Republican organization followed Tammany Hall in endorsing Klein.

Kennedy was jubilant at Silverman campaign headquarters as his candidate claimed victory. The senator flew to Washington as the polls opened on a hot, humid afternoon. He returned shortly before the polls closed at 10 p.m. to cast his first primary vote since taking up residence in Manhattan last year.

Kennedy declared the Silverman victory was of great significance to the people of New York and to the Democratic party.

The final unofficial tally of Silverman's surprisingly strong showing gave him 70,771 votes. Klein received 47,621 and a third candidate, Criminal Court Judge Thomas Fortkin, received 8,084.

Relief Rolls in U. S. Reduced To Largely Unemployable

Nation-Wide Prosperity, Firm Attitude Cut Numbers

By HAL COOPER

NEW YORK (AP) — Nation wide prosperity and a firm attitude toward the lazy have cut relief rolls in most parts of America to a hard core of the unemployable needy, an Associated Press survey indicates.

And many of the unemployables are being salvaged for the labor market by education and training programs which will aim to make them self supporting.

During the last year the total on relief, including the jobless, the blind, dependent children and the disabled, leveled out or even declined according to a sampling of states and cities from coast to coast.

A major exception is New York where the number of persons for whom the unskilled has failed to keep pace with an influx of Puerto Ricans and Negroes from the South, has risen sharply.

Employed in Jail

In Nassau County, N.Y., one unemployed relief recipient who turned down a job was given a choice: either take the job or go to jail. He chose the job.

Few, if any, of the nation's welfare problems are out of the headlines. Unemployment, crime, poverty, poor education, broken homes, illegitimacy, dope addiction, alcoholism, mental illness, old age, juvenile delinquency and racial tensions are all part of the welfare picture.

However, for the vast majority of Americans, the great problem is one of plenty.

Even Mississippi, the state with the highest percentage of its people on welfare, finds that most people want to work if we can find a job that pays enough.

Reluctance to go to work and a plan for the Illinois Public Aid Department to shield recipients from a relief recipient fear that the job he is offered is one he cannot do.

This is where the education and vocational training programs come in.

Free Schooling

The Chicago Board of Education provides free schooling to undereducated adults. The Cook County Welfare Department offers free training for would be salesmen, machine operators, truck drivers, typists, food handlers, wood furniture and hotel workers.

The Cook County, Chicago welfare caseload hit a peak of 289,200 in May 1962 a month when ending the stringent cutback $17,200,000. In March this year the caseload was down to 259,290 and the outlay down to $15,869,012. In many instances a case included two or more members of a family.

Raymond Hilliard, Cook County Public aid director, said more than half of Chicago's welfare recipients are illiterate and few have attended school as far as the eighth grade.

To participate in society, to secure a job, to fulfill any social, cultural or economic right as a citizen, a man must first know how to read, said Hilliard.

In Pennsylvania

In Pennsylvania which has a number of state and county training programs for the jobless, the number of individuals on relief fell from 41,705 in March 1966 to 81,372 in March 1966. The outlay went up from $16,609 to $16,821,8.

Numbers Reduced

In Georgia, the number for May was 18,8 down from 206,67 in May 1965. Phil Cutler, deputy director of the State Family and Children Services Department, said:

"The figures show that there are fewer people who try to get on welfare, but I think it is important to point out to the nation people to realize that Americans (they can't work if they can't) (in New York City) 91,749 persons receiving one form of public aid in April compared with 82,682 in April 1965. The City Welfare Department budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year is $62,60,360, an increase of $142,60,296 over 1965-66.

Nearly 80 per cent of the persons on city welfare rolls are mothers and their children, almost all from families lacking a male with a weekly paycheck.

Mitchell I. Ginsberg, commissioner of welfare, said about 96 per cent of New York City welfare recipients are regarded as unemployable. About half of the remaining 4 per cent are unskilled and many illiterate. Any who decline to take jobs for which they are qualified are cut off welfare rolls.

Need More Jobs

And the city official said that unless more unskilled and semi-skilled jobs can be created in New York City, the welfare rolls will continue to grow.

The number of Minnesotans receiving welfare help rose from 121,9[illegible] April 1961 to [illegible]. The increase was [illegible] accounted for by cases of aid to dependent children which went up during the period from 26,735 to 53,140.

Most Hubert Minnesota welfare [illegible] attributed the hike in the number of needy dependent children to family disorganization caused by a rising divorce rate. In general, Humphrey said people would rather work than be on welfare, and he added:

Knowles' Last Campaign to be Issue in 1966

STEVENS POINT (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles' last campaign will be an issue in the upcoming one, Democratic National Committeeman David Carley told Portage County Democrats Tuesday night.

No Wisconsin citizen can forget the cries of "had enough" and spending, spending, spending which Knowles and his advertising agency echoed throughout the state in 1964, Carley said. His promises were unrealistic and deceitful.

Carley said Knowles' election time attacks on ex-Gov. John Reynolds were "malicious and unfounded."

No amount of ribbon cutting and smiles can erase the facts of Knowles' record, he said.

Carley is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

'Strike While Iron Hot' Taken Bit Too Literally

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A sneak thief here struck while the iron was hot, Marie Edlund was ironing in her kitchen when she heard the front doorbell. She walked through the house, stepped outside the front door but found no one.

Mrs. Edlund returned to the kitchen to discover that someone had entered through the back door and stolen the iron.

Waiters, Busboys Sue for Back Tips

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of 14 waiters and busboys at San Francisco's Hilton Hotel say they've been undertipped — and they're suing for $650,000.

The employes, all members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union, claim the hotel denied them their percentage of tips paid on behalf of banquets and other large events. They say their contract guarantees the tips.

The suit, filed in Superior Court, asked for $150,000 general and $500,000 punitive damages.

A Hilton spokesman was unavailable for comment.

Tied to Viet Nam Plans

Communist Activity Up In Northern Thailand

By ROBERT LIL

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Communist subversion and fighting have increased sharply since Thailand announced plans to send a noncombat unit to South Viet Nam.

It is unclear whether the increase in terrorism was connected directly or indirectly with efforts by the Communists to intimidate the Thai against joining the war in Viet Nam.

Communist propaganda and broadcasts against the government, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn will be required to answer, also condemned the move that may result from the decision.

Officials Assinated

Thailand announced [illegible] months ago plans to send [illegible] Army engineering battalion, a patrol escort and two C123 transport planes to South Viet Nam. The craft will be manned by about 180 Thais.

Just after the announcement 10 government officials and policemen were assinated in rapid succession in the Communist infiltrated northeast.

The figure was the highest monthly terrorist total on record, U.S. and Thai officials say.

Ubon and northeastern province, a district plagued region where the U.S. Air Force has base for strikes into North Viet Nam.

Ethnically, the 10 million Thais in the north are more closely related with Laos than with their fellow countrymen, 20 million ethnic Siamese.

In the past five years, the Thais, with economic and financial U.S. help, have pumped assistance into the region in an effort to develop and secure it against Communist infiltration.

Early Waker Decides to Take Care of Matter

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — A sleepy, after dawn Tuesday, Curtis A. Lee was arrested on stabbing a rooster to death with a hunting knife.

Police 22 told police the bird had been awakening him and his neighbors. He was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon and cruelty to animals.

War's Effect On Business Starts to Show

Normal Season Drop Less Than Usual; May Decline Offset

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Viet Nam war's effect on business activity and planning is becoming increasingly visible. It may moderate the economy's normal summer drop-off.

A slackening in the rate of business growth in May with more predicted for June is offset just now by the expectations that the war-inspired pace will be faster than usual for the summer months.

The plus and minus aspects of the Viet Nam war's effect on business are set forth in the latest monthly poll of members of the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

More than half say the war is having a noticeable effect now on their company's business. Some say sales have increased as a result of demand created by the fighting.

Material Shortages

But considerably more complain that the defense need have caused material shortages, a tight skilled labor market, longer lead times on deliveries of material, or rising price on the things they must purchase to keep their companies going.

All of these are expected to show up later in the government statistics that plot the course of the economy. These are being watched with particular interest just now because the economy seems to be teetering uncertainly between inflationary speed up or a slowdown threatening recession.

In the next two weeks the figures for May will be coming out. Already it is taken for granted that much of the steam has been let out of the growth that in the first quarter of the year seemed to be overheating the economy.

Production Cutbacks

An earlier than usual cutback in auto production and sales already is known. That promises some slowdown for allied industries until late summer.

Also cooling down the business pace in the last two months has been a tighter money supply and higher interest rates. But businessmen say that even more disturbing has been a rash of strikes among suppliers and rising manpower shortages and rising construction costs.

For a time President Johnson's request that corporations put a curb on their spending plans for expansion was thought likely to effect the general economy this year. But late figures indicate that the slowing down has taken hold without being due more to hoarding and delayed shipment deliveries than to outright cutbacks in planning.

And the government has just reported that business inventories rose at a record $9½ billion annual rate in May. That was nearly double the April rise.

With nearly $61 billion being spent on defense this year and with the war effort increasing or decreasing, what total demand will be and what price developments or what controls may be clamped upon them. And then there's the ultimate threat of higher taxes.

Question of New Left

Communist Convention Presents Vague Picture

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party, U.S.A. this month held its first convention since 1959. It was a pitiful sight in more ways than one.

The event in turn raises questions about the so-called new left which is supposed to be developing in the country, although not connected with communism, which has aged to look out of date to the new radical.

Congress, court, FBI and changing times made a wreck of the American Communist party. It claims a membership of 10,000 to 12,000, way down from the 80,000 to 100,000 it claimed in depression days of years ago.

In a way the New York convention looked a little like an old folks' home. The 213 delegates and 42 alternates from 36 states were mostly up in years and had been in the party for years.

Bored with Hall

Many got bored and walked out the opening night when Gus Hall, the general secretary, hit them with a three-hour speech. Hall has been a party member most of his life.

The party wants to attract young people and there was some fighting with newcomers anxious to wrest control from the old-timers. The old-timers held fast.

It's not just the fractionalization of the party which makes it look pathetic. It's the vagueness. There were harsh words about the American role in Viet Nam. But generally the tone was a muted whisper.

Talk was the price of vague-ness, talking about setting in motion a movement to present an independent candidate, although not a Communist, for president in 1968.

Bad Time

The party is trying to hook onto the fringes of agitation like the civil rights movement or among youth. It is operating at a bad time.

The Communists would like to get the satellite countries of Eastern Europe being more independent, changes in the party's line and in the backward nations it is doing well.

The American Communist party, in a party's unhappy past, has been once President Franklin D. Roosevelt changed the direction of American thinking by establishing government concern for the general welfare.

And that has happened once again has been in the same direction but more intensely which makes the promises of communism look a little ridiculous.

High Prosperity

There are vast areas of poverty and deprivation in America but the general population has a prosperity it never enjoyed before. And that population since it now has so much to lose is not going to listen to demands for radical change.

This is what the new radicalism in America faces. A largely self-satisfied society richer than ever, despite the injustices inflicted on individual groups like Negroes.

The question then is: To whom can the new or young radicals so-called appeal? If their cause has anything more than restless discontent like an ideology for the American future it hasn't reached the masses of the people.

And it is questionable that many of the discontented young people are motivated by ideas or dreams of a more perfect society. With many the motivations are probably personal, the product of individual frustrations.

Any kind of radical third party movement of any real force at a time when the government is pushing Great Society theme and doing something about it — seems impossible now or far off.

'Prove Powers'

Major Controversy Faces India's Holy Men

BY RANGASWAMY SATAKOPAN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The bearded and sometimes naked holy men who wander through India's humid jungles and dusty plains have splashed into a challenging controversy.

These yogis and sadhus, as the holy men are called, have come under considerable pressure to prove they have the mysterious power often attributed to them.

The biggest splash in the whole affair came in Bombay where one of India's better known yogis, L. S. Rao, advertised he would walk on water before a fleet crowd that had paid to see the miracle. Rao sank like a rock in his specially made tank and surfaced sputtering, water dripping from his tangled beard and uncut locks.

Outraged Yogis

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was asked at a news conference the next day if she believed in water walking sadhus. She took her head. No. Exponent of [illegible] and the art of the [illegible] were outraged.

The challenge [illegible] on the yogis' one expert [illegible] claimed was [illegible] of mind-over-matter effect.

For the good name of yoga we hope some yogi will help our prime minister.

Newspapers challenged Rao to make good, but [illegible] a public apology. Even more [illegible] colleagues Rao has come in for criticism.

The fault lay not with the system but with Rao, said M. S. Golwalkar, a Hindu pontiff. Rao was in a hurry. He attempted it before he was ready for it. The net result was a bad name for hatha yoga.

Roughly translated, hatha yoga means a man who has united the moon breath and sun breath. It requires renunciation of worldly affairs, long penance and strict control of body and mind through breath regulation exercises.

The common explanation for a yogi's ability to swallow glass is that muscle control enables him to regurgitate it. The usual answer for the potassium cyanide act is that as any visitor to a county fair knows, the hand is quicker than the eye — and the poison never enters the yogi's mouth.

But after spending a few years in India, few people including skeptical foreigners, laugh too loudly at the yogis or their claims.

Fantastic Feats

There are too many documented cases of yogis doing fantastic feats. Laughter died quickly on the lips of former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev when he watched a yogi lie down before a steamroller and let it run over him. The yogi jumped up again.

Sadhus have been buried for days, weeks, even months in good health when dug up, some let snakes bite them and show no ill effect.
